ing the principal as the assessee except to the limited extent of recovering any arrears of tax. The proviso to S 42 does not militate against the above view, but it only contemplates the possibility of the assessee (i.e.) the agent not being able to pay the tax and provides the necessary method of recovery. The mere fact that a person residing outside British India with accumulated wealth chooses to invest part of it in a loan to a person in British India does not constitute a business. a joint family cannot depend upon the nature of income it gets. It cannot be that the test of residence should be one thing if it is a trading family and the test of residence some other thing if it gets income from securities property or other sources. In the case of a Hindu joint family the family should be said to reside in all those places where members of the family live and may like a company or firm have more than one place of residence. Therefore the test in 1927 M 732 cannot apply to what are generally described in decisions as Hindu Law partnerships, i.e. partnerships which are the creatures of Hindu Law and not of the law of contracts 55 M 301=63 M L J 22 (S B)

Sec 43—The word agent in S 43 is not to be used in the same sense as the same word in S 42 (1). Any person who comes within the terms of S 43 is put by that section artificially into the position of agent and assessed under S 42 (1). It is not restricted to agents in actual receipt of the profits and gains 35 C W N 349=1931 P C 42=58 I A 42=60 M L J 609 (P C). made part of the series of facts which results in the resident being deemed agent by force of the section. The extent of his responsibility if to be agent is another matter. If by notice given in due course under S 22 (2) the year or years be specified he has no grievance in point of procedure and he can make his case upon the merits. Thus the assessment made on an assessee as agent under S 43 is not rendered illegal by the fact that the notice which the Income tax Officer served on the assessee under the proviso to S 43 did not mention any particular year for which the Income tax Officer proposed to treat assessee as an agent 65 I A 12=1 L R (1938) Lah 129=42 C W N 417=1938 P C 8=(1938) 1 M L J 123 (P C). under S 23 as the Act imposes no technical requirement in this connexion. It may be reasonable that an assessee who is served with a notice under S 22 (2) as an agent or a non-resident under S 43 should not be required to render a return of the non-resident's income until it has first been decided that he is his agent; on the other hand having regard to the circumstances which for this purpose constitute agency it may well be thought advisable that the information afforded by a return and by books of account produced in support thereof would be available for the purpose of deciding as to agency. The avoidance of delay may also be a consideration. Thus if the notice under S 22 is served before the expiry of one year from the financial year it is a valid intimation of proceedings of the assessee as an agent under S 43. SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO AVOIDANCE OF LIABILITY TO INCOME-TAX AND SUPER-TAX.

44D. (1) Where any person has, by means of a transfer of assets, by virtue or in consequence whereof, either alone or in conjunction with associated operations, any income which if it were the income of such person would be chargeable to income-tax becomes payable to a person not resident or to a person resident but not ordinarily resident in British India, acquired any rights by virtue or in consequence of which he has within the meaning of this section power to enjoy such income, whether forthwith or in the future, that income shall, whether it would or would not have been chargeable to income-tax apart from the provisions of this section, be deemed to be income of such first mentioned person for all the purposes of this Act.

(2) Where any person receives or is entitled to receive, whether before or after any transfer of assets by virtue or in consequence whereof either alone or in conjunction with associated operations any income becomes payable to a person not resident or resident but not ordinarily resident in British India, any sum paid or payable by way of a loan or repayment of a loan or any other sum, being a sum which is not paid or payable for full consideration in money or money's worth, paid or payable otherwise than as income, such income shall, whether it would or would not have been chargeable to income-tax apart from the provisions of this section, be deemed to be the income of the first-mentioned person for all the purposes of this Act

(3) Sub sections (1) and (2) shall not apply if such first mentioned person shows to the satisfaction of the Income tax Officer either—

(a) that neither the transfer nor any associated operation had for its purpose or for one of its purposes the avoidance of liability to taxation, or

(b) that the transfer and all associated operations were bona fide commercial transactions and were not designed for the purpose of avoiding liability to taxation

(4) For the purposes of this section, an "associated operation" means, in relation to any transfer, an operation of any kind effected by any person in relation to any of the assets transferred or any assets representing whether directly or indirectly any of the assets transferred, or to the income arising from any such assets, or to any assets representing whether directly or indirectly the accumulations of income arising from any such assets

(5) A person shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to have power to enjoy income of a person not resident, or resident but not ordinarily resident, in British India, if—

(a) the income is in fact so dealt with by any person as to be calculated at some point of time, and, whether in the form of income or not, to enure for the benefit of the first mentioned person, or

(b) the receipt or accrual of the income operates to increase the value to such first mentioned person of any assets held by him or for his benefit, or

(c) such first-mentioned person receives or is entitled to receive at any time any benefit provided or to be provided out of that income or out of moneys which are or will be available for the purpose by reason of the effect or successive effects of the associated operations on that income and on any assets which represent that income, or

(d) such first mentioned person has power by means of the exercise of any power of appointment or power of revocation or otherwise to obtain for himself, whether with or without the consent of any other person, the beneficial enjoyment of the income, or

(e) such first mentioned person is able, in any manner whatsoever and whether directly or indirectly, to control the application of the income

(6) In determining whether a person has power to enjoy income within the meaning of this section, regard shall be had to the substantial result and effect of the transfer and any associated operations, and all benefits which may at any time accrue to such person as a result of the transfer and any associated operations shall be taken into account irrespective of the nature or form of the benefits

(7) For the purposes of this section—

(a) the expression 'assets' includes property or rights of any kind, and the expression 'transfer' in relation to rights includes the creation of those rights,

(b) the expression 'benefit' includes a payment of any kind,

(c) references to income of a person not resident or of a person not ordinarily resident in British India shall, where the amount of the income of a company for any year or period has been deemed to have been distributed under sub section (f) of section 23A, include references to so much of the income of the company for that year or period as is equal to the amount deemed to have been distributed to that person,

(d) references to assets representing any assets, income or accumulations of income include references to shares in or obligations of any company to which, or obligation of any other person to whom, those assets, that income or those accumulations are or have been transferred,

(e) any body corporate incorporated outside British India shall be treated as if it were resident out of British India whether it is so resident or not

(8) The provisions of this section shall apply for the purposes of assessment to income-tax and super tax for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1940, and subsequent years, and shall apply, in relation to transfers of assets and associated operations whether carried out before or after the commencement of the Indian Income tax (Amendment) Act, 1939

(9) Where any person has been charged to tax on any income deemed to be his under the provisions of this section, and that income is subsequently received by him, whether as income or in any other form, it shall not again be deemed to form part of his income for the purposes of this Act

44E (1) Where the owner of any securities (in this sub-section and in sub section (2) referred to as 'the owner') agrees to sell or transfer those securities, and by the same or any collateral agreement—

Avoidance of tax by certain transactions in securities

(a) agrees to buy back or re acquire the securities, or

(2) The references in sub section (1) to buying back or re-acquiring the securities shall be deemed to include references to buying or acquiring similar securities, so, however, that where similar securities are bought or acquired, the owner shall be under no greater liability to tax than he would have been under if the original securities had been bought back or re acquired

(3) Where any person carrying on a business which consists wholly or partly in dealing with securities agrees to buy or acquire any securities, and by the same or any collateral agreement—

(a) agrees to sell back or re transfer the securities, or

(b) acquires an option, which he subsequently exercises, to sell back or re-transfer the securities,

then, if the result of the transaction is that any interest becoming payable in respect of the securities is receivable by him, no account shall be taken of the transaction in computing for any of the purposes of this Act the profits arising from or loss sustained in the business

(4) Sub section (3) shall have effect, subject to any necessary modifications, as if references to selling back or re transferring the securities included references to selling or transferring similar securities

(5) For the purpose of this section—

(a) the expression 'interest' includes a dividend,

(b) the expression 'securities' includes stocks and shares,

(c) securities shall be deemed to be similar if they entitle their holders to the same rights against the same persons as to capital and interest and the same remedies for the enforcement of those rights, notwithstanding any difference in the total nominal amounts of the respective securities or in the form in which they are held or the manner in which they can be transferred

(6) The Income tax Officer may by notice in writing require any person to furnish him within such time as he may direct (not being less than twenty eight days), in respect of all securities of which such person was the owner at any time during the period specified in the notice, such particulars as he considers necessary for the purposes of this section and for the purpose of discovering whether tax has been borne in respect of the interest on all those securities, and, if that person without reasonable excuse fails to comply with the notice, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred rupees and to a further penalty of the like amount for every day after the infliction of such penalty during which the failure continues

44F (1) Any person upon whom notice is served by the Income-tax Officer requiring him to furnish a statement of particulars relating to any securities in which, at any time during the period specified in the notice he has had any beneficial interest, and in respect of which, within such period, either no income was received by him, or the income received by him was less than the sum to which the income would have amounted if the income from such securities had accrued from day to day and been apportioned accordingly, shall, whether an assessment to income-tax or super-tax in respect of his total income has or has not been made for the relevant year or years of assessment, furnish such a statement and such particulars in the form and within the time (not being less than twenty-eight days) required by the notice

(2) If it appears to the Income-tax Officer by reference to all the circumstances in relation to the securities of any such person (including circumstances with respect to sales, purchases, dealings, contracts, arrangements, transfers, or any other transactions relating to such securities) that such person has thereby avoided or would avoid more than ten per cent of the amount of the income-tax or super-tax for any year which would have been payable in his case in respect of the income from those securities if the income had been deemed to accrue from day to day and had been apportioned accordingly, and the income so deemed to have been apportioned to him had been treated as part of his total income from all sources for the purposes of income-tax or super-tax, then those securities shall be deemed to be securities to which sub-section (3) applies

(3) For the purposes of assessment to income-tax or super-tax in the case of any such person, the income from any securities to which this sub-section applies shall be deemed to accrue from day to day, and in the case of the sale or transfer of any such securities by or to him shall be deemed to have been received as and when it is deemed to have accrued

Provided that this section shall not apply if such person proves to the satisfaction of the Income-tax Officer that the avoidance of income-tax or super-tax was exceptional and not systematic and that there was not in his case in any of the three preceding years any such avoidance of income-tax or super-tax, or that the provisions of section 44E have been applied in his case in respect of such income

(4) If any person fails to furnish any statement or particulars required under this section, or if the Income-tax Officer is not satisfied with any statement or particulars furnished under this section, the Income-tax Officer may make an estimate of the amount of the income which, under the foregoing provisions of this section, is to be deemed to form part of the person's total income for the purposes of income-tax or super-tax

(5) If any person without reasonable excuse fails to furnish any statement or particulars required under this section, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred rupees, and to a further penalty of the like amount for every day after the infliction of such penalty during which the failure continues

(6) For the purpose of this section the expression 'securities' includes stocks and shares]

NOTES

Sec 46—S 46 prescribes only a summary remedy and there is nothing in that section or in the other provisions of the Act to indicate that that is the only remedy by which income tax is recoverable. The time limit prescribed in S 46 (7) of the Act obviously applies to proceedings under that section. When income tax is assessed it becomes a debt due by the assessee to the Crown. The Crown as a creditor has the ordinary right of suit against the assessee. This is a right under the common law and there is nothing in the Act to take away this right. A suit for recovery of arrears of income tax would undoubtedly be a suit of a civil nature and such a suit would clearly be maintainable under the provisions of S 9 C P Code and would be governed by Art 120 if not by Art 149 of the Limitation Act 1941 I T R 673=196 I C 228. There is no doubt that an arrear of unpaid income tax due by an assessee is a debt due to the crown and therefore a crown debt and as such has precedence over all other debts. The Court can order payment of a crown debt due by a debtor on the application of the crown without a formal attachment being issued when there are funds in Court belonging to the debtor. (4) The Commissioner may direct by what authority any powers or duties incident under any such enactment as aforesaid to the enforcement of any process for the recovery of a municipal tax or local rate shall be exercised or performed when that process is employed under sub-section (3).

NOTES

See 50—Where an application for refund under S 48 of the Income tax Act is made beyond the time prescribed by S 50 of the Act the Commissioner acts rightly in rejecting under S 50 he has no power to extend the time prescribed by the section 13 R 729 An application for refund under S 48 of the Income tax Act must be made within the time limited by S 50 and on no consideration can an application made beyond that time be entertained Though the assessment has been made only after the expiry of that period that is no justification for presenting the application beyond time It is quite true that it is impossible for the assessee to ascertain whether he is or is not entitled to a refund under S 48 (1) until after an assessment is made and that it works a hardship in making it incumbent on him to present his application for refund within the time limited by S 50, when the assessment itself is not made until after the expiry of that period But the remedy lies not with the Courts administering the law but with the legislature 13 R 729 The words "tax was recovered" mean tax was recovered by the Government and not tax was refunded to the assessee under the provisions of S 27 of the Act 50 M 920 = 1927 M 1039 = 53 M L J 672 (F B) Where an assessment for the year 1926-27 was made on the income of the assessee's previous year the financial year ending with the 31st March 1926 the period of one year prescribed in S 50 of the Act ought to be computed from the 1st April 1926 and consequently a refund application made on the 22nd March 1927 in respect of dividend in a limited company payable to the assessee on the 21st October 1926 was within time 3 I T C 76

NOTES.

Secs 51 and 52: OFFENCES UNDER BOTH SECTIONS ARE DIFFERENT.—An offence under S. 52 is of a nature different from an offence under S. 51 and therefore an accused can not be convicted of offence under S. 51 without calling upon him to meet that charge on his being found not guilty of offence under S. 52. 146 I.C. 848=1933 N. 358. Where there is a question of sanction and the sanctioning authority has sanctioned the prosecution under one section only, and the accused has been found not guilty of that offence, he cannot be found guilty of the other offence. 146 I.C. 848=1933 N. 358.

Secs. 51 to 53 —No one can be prosecuted under the Act except at instance of the Collector under S. 36. 23 I.C. 504=15 Cr.L.J. 296=12 A.L.J. 258. The Collector and not the District Magistrate can direct proceedings to be taken for an offence under the Income-tax Act. 38 I.C. 993=18 Cr.L.J. 433=15 A.L.J. 163. Where a person was charged with making false statements in his petition of objection for the assessment of income-tax and the petition was not signed or verified and the order to prosecute him did not disclose what particular statement was false and fell within S. 193, Penal Code, held, that the conviction was bad. 38 I.C. 993=15 A.L.J. 163. A conviction could not be maintained if there is no formal service of notice as required by the Act the letter having been sent by ordinary post unregistered. 17 A.L.J. 146=49 I.C. 781. The prosecution of an assessee for failure to produce his account books in obedience to a notice is not barred by reason of a prior order for penal assessment against him. 43 M. 498=38 M.L.J. 333. The only ground on which the Collector can direct a penal assessment is that the assessee has made a false return. The Collector cannot do so on ground of non-production of account books by the assessee. 43 M. 498.

Sec. 52 —An offence under S. 52 is committed on the day a return made under S. 22, is verified by a party. 1929 Cr. C. 647=1929 A. 919. The essence of offence under S. 52, and Penal Code, S. 177, lies in the verification of an untrue statement, and provided the statement was deliberately false or not believed to be true, subsequent rectification cannot make it any the less an

Prosecution to be at instance of Inspecting Assistant Commissioner

53 (1) A person shall not be proceeded against for an offence under section 51 or section 52 except at the instance of the ¹[Inspecting Assistant Commissioner]

²[(2) The Inspecting Assistant Commissioner may either before or after the institution of proceedings compound any such offence]

54 (1) All particulars contained in any statement made, return furnished or accounts or documents produced under the provisions of this Act, or in any evidence given, or affidavit or deposition made, in the course of any proceedings under this Act other than proceedings under this Chapter or in any record of any assessment proceeding, or any proceeding relating to the recovery of a demand, prepared for the purposes of this Act, shall be treated as confidential, and notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, no Court shall, save as provided in this Act, be entitled to require any public servant to produce before it any such return, accounts, documents or record or any part of any such record, or to give evidence before it in respect thereof

(2) If a public servant discloses any particulars contained in any such statement, return, accounts, documents, evidence, affidavit, deposition or record, he shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months, and shall also be liable to fine offence though it may be considered as an extenuating circumstance in awarding sentence 1929 Cr C 647=1929 A 919 There is nothing in the Income tax Act which suggests that it is essential that the act of sending an income tax return under S 22 should be done only by an assessee. It can be done equally by an agent or other person in charge of the assessee's business. The word person in S 52 and in S 22 (2) includes a person duly authorised. An agent who sends a false statement is therefore liable to be prosecuted under S 52 54 L W 291=1941 Mad 941= (1941) 2 M L J 475 Where the assessee submits a return but ostensibly and openly that return is not a complete one but is stated to be incomplete there is no verification of the return as would make the return a valid one or constitute commission of an offence under S 52 (1929 A 919 Dist) 146 I C 848=1933 N 358 S 52 is without prejudice to the provision in S 476 Cr P Code. An Income tax Officer being a Revenue Court can act under S 476 Cr P Code and make a complaint of an offence committed before him. If an assessee produces and relies on false account books to show that his return of income is true while in fact it is false he uses or attempts to use as genuine evidence which he knows to be false or fabricated and can be convicted under Ss 193 and 196 I P Code 20 N L J 214 S 52 deals only with a false statement in the verification clause and does not cover the case of a false statement in the return of income to which the verification clause is attached. The proceedings before the Income tax Officer cannot be said to start until there is some inquiry into the income of the assessee and a statement made in the return of income tax is not evidence given in a proceeding before the Income tax Officer. S 52 provides for the punishment of such an offence under S 177 I P Code it cannot become punishable under S 193 I P Code as well 20 N L J 214 Complaint for offence under Income tax Officer not recording finding that further enquiry was expedient—Right of appeal not affected—Proceeding if vitiated 8 R 25

Sec 54.—The wording of S 54 (1) is perfectly clear. It is emphatic in its language and mandatory in its provisions. Though as a matter of practice the Income tax authorities may allow a partner to inspect the books of his firm which have been deposited with him that is in no way any departure or exception to the provisions of S 54. No person, even if he is a partner in the firm whose books are in the possession of the Income tax Officer is entitled to production or even to an examination as of right of the books which that officer has when the same has been produced before him in the course of proceedings under the Income tax Act. If an application is taken out in a suit in Court by a partner of the firm to call upon the Income tax Officer to produce the book, the Income tax Officer is entitled to refuse to produce it 1941 I T R 693 S 54 only lays a prohibition on the Court it does not confer any exemption on the Income tax Officer who is subject to every process of the Court 1939 I T R 331=1939 Mad 546=(1939) 1 M L J 791 S 54 does not merely exclude evidence with regard to contents of any documents which may be produced before the income tax authorities for purpose of assessment, but it forbids any evidence with regard to such documents. It is wide enough to exclude evidence to the effect that account-books have been produced before the Income-tax Officer. 1935 L. 272. The intention of S. 54 is to encourage assessee to make a full and true disclosure of all relevant facts within his knowledge knowing that any statement made by him will not subsequently be used against him. It is certainly open to an assessee to object to answering interrogatories on statements made by him in such proceedings on the ground that they are privileged. 151 I.C. 104=1934 N. 181. The object of S. 54 clearly is to make the income-tax returns and statements confidential as between the assessee and the income-tax department, and against the whole world, except for certain limited purposes provided by the section itself. A Court cannot, on the application of a defendant, order the plaintiff to obtain certified copies of his returns and statements of his agent made before the Income-tax Officer, as that would clearly be an evasion of the prohibition contained in the section. Such copies are inadmissible in evidence unless the plaintiff desires their retention. 1938 Rang. L. R. 243=1938 Rang. 276. The phrase 'Hindu undivided family' is used in the statute with reference not to one school only of Hindu Law, but to all schools, and it is a mistake in method to begin by passing over the wider phrase of the Act the words 'Hindu coparcenary'. All the more it is not possible to say on the face of the Act that no female can be a member. Where therefore the income belongs not to the assessee himself but to the assessee his wife and daughter jointly the association of such individuals can be described as Hindu undivided family. 64 I A 28=41 C W N 385=1937 P C 36= (1937) 1 M L J 312 (P C). In an extra legal sense and even for some purposes of legal theory, ancestral property may perhaps be described and usefully described as family property but it does not follow that in the eye of the Hindu law it belongs save in certain circumstances to the family as distinct from the individual. By reason of its origin a man's property may be liable to be divested wholly or in part on the happening of a particular event, or may be answerable for particular obligations or may pass at his death in a particular way but if in spite of all such facts his personal law regards him as the owner the property as his property and the income therefrom as his income it is chargeable to income tax as his i.e. as the income of an individual. It would not be in consonance with ordinary notions or with a correct interpretation of the law of the Mitakshara to hold that property which a man has obtained from his father belongs to a Hindu undivided family by reason of his having a wife and daughters. 64 I A 28=41 C W N 385= (1937) 1 M L J 312=1 L R (1937) 1 Cal 653

NOTES.

Sec. 58.—Under S. 58 read with Ss. 34 and 35 the Assistant Commissioner has jurisdiction to inquire into an appeal from the order demanding super-tax. 145 I.C. 145 = 1913 S. 158. As to power of Income-tax Officer to refuse to renew certificate of registration of firm, see 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 233 = 1936 N. 121. See also 1913 Sind 158, 51 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.), cited under S. 55, supra; 53 A. 445 = 1931 A.L.J. 336 = 1931 A. 421.

(d) a "contribution" means a ny sum credited by or on behalf of any employee out of his salary, or by an employer out of his own monies, to the individual account of an employee, but does not include any sum credited as interest ;

(e) the "balance to the credit" of an employee means the total amount to the credit of his individual account in a provident fund at any time ;

(f) the "annual accretion" to the balance to the credit of an employee means the increase to such balance in any year, arising from contributions and interest ,

(g) the "accumulated balance due" to an employee means the balance to his credit, or such portion thereof as may be claimable by him under the regulations of the fund, on the day he ceases to be an employee of the employer maintaining the fund , and

(h) the "regulations of a fund" means the special body of regulations governing the constitution and administration of a particular provident fund

58B (1) The Commissioner of Income tax may accord recognition to any provident fund which, in his opinion, satisfies the conditions prescribed in section 58C and the rules made thereunder, and may, at any time, withdraw such recognition if, in his opinion, the provident fund contravenes any of those conditions

2[(2)] An order according recognition shall take effect on such date as the Commissioner may fix in accordance with any rules the Central Board of Revenue may make in this behalf, such date not being later than the last day of the financial year in which the order is made

3[(3)] An order withdrawing recognition shall take effect from the day on which it is made

4[(3A) An order according recognition to a provident fund shall not, unless the Commissioner otherwise directs, be affected by the fact that the fund is subsequently amalgamated with another provident fund on the occurrence of an amalgamation of the undertakings in connection with which the two funds are maintained, or that it subsequently absorbs the whole or a part of another provident fund belonging to an undertaking which is wholly or in part transferred to or merged in the undertaking of the employer maintaining the first mentioned fund]

5[(4)] An employer objecting to an order of the Commissioner refusing to recognise 6[or an order withdrawing recognition from] a provident fund may appeal, within sixty days of such order, to the Central Board of Revenue

The appeal shall be in the form and shall be verified in the manner prescribed by the Central Board of Revenue

58C (1) In order that a provident fund may receive and retain recognition, it shall satisfy the conditions set out below and any other conditions which the Central Government may, by rule, prescribe—

(a) All employees shall be employed in India, or shall be employed by an employer whose principal place of business is in British India

7[Provided that the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit and subject to such conditions, if any, as he thinks proper to attach to the recognition, accord recognition to a fund maintained by an employer whose principal place of business is not in British India notwithstanding that a proportion not exceeding ten per cent of the employees is employed outside India]

(b) The contributions of an employee in any year shall be a definite proportion of his salary for that year, and shall be deducted by the employer from the employee's salary in that proportion, at each periodical payment of such salary in that year, and credited to the employee's individual account in the fund

¹[Provided that an employee who retains his employment while serving in His Majesty's Forces or when taken into or employed in the national service under the National Service (European British Subjects) Act, 1940, or the National Service (Technical Personnel) Ordinance, 1940, may, notwithstanding that he receives from the employer no salary or a salary less than he would have received had he not entered His Majesty's Forces, or been so taken into or employed in the national service, contribute to the fund during his service in His Majesty's Forces or while so taken into or employed in the national service a sum not exceeding the amount he would have contributed had he continued to receive from the employer the same salary (including increments, if any) as he would have received had he not entered His Majesty's Forces, or been taken into or employed in the national service]

(c) Subject to the provisions of section 58D, the contributions of an employer to the individual account of an employee in any year shall not exceed the amount of the contributions of the employee in that year, and shall be credited to the employee's individual account at intervals not exceeding one year

(d) The fund shall consist of contributions as above specified ²[and of donations, if any, received ³[by the trustees]], of accumulations thereof, and of interest (simple and compound), credited in respect of such ⁴[contributions, donations and accumulations], and of securities purchased therewith, and of no other sums

(e) The fund shall be vested in two or more trustees ⁵[or in the Official Trustee] under a trust which shall not be revocable save with the consent of all the beneficiaries

(f) The employer shall not be entitled to recover any sum whatsoever from the fund, save in cases where the employee is dismissed for misconduct or voluntarily leaves his employment otherwise than on account of ill health or other unavoidable cause before the expiration of the term of service specified in this behalf in the regulations of the fund

In such cases the recoveries made by the employer shall be limited to the contributions made by him to the individual account of the employee, and to interest (simple and compound) credited in respect of such contributions and accumulations thereof, in accordance with the regulations of the fund

(g) The accumulated balance due to an employee shall be payable on the day he ceases to be an employee of the employer maintaining the fund

(h) Save as provided in clause (g) or in accordance with such conditions and restrictions as the Central Government may, by rules prescribe, no portion of the balance to the credit of an employee shall be payable to him

(2) Where there is a repugnance between any regulation of a recognised provident fund and any provision of this Chapter or of the rules made thereunder, the regulation shall, to the extent of the repugnance, be of no effect

The Commissioner may, at any time, require that such repugnance shall be removed from the regulations of the fund

58D Subject to any rules which the Central Government may make in this behalf, the Commissioner may, in respect of any particular fund, relax the provisions of condition (c) of sub section (1) of section 58C—

Power to relax restrictions of employers contributions in certain cases

58I (1) The accounts of a recognised provident fund shall be maintained by the trustees of the fund and shall be in such form and for such periods, and shall contain such particulars as the Central Board of Revenue may prescribe

Accounts of recognised provident funds

(2) The accounts shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times by Income tax authorities, and the trustees shall furnish to the Income-tax Officer such abstracts thereof as the Central Board of Revenue may prescribe

58J (1) Where recognition is accorded to a provident fund with existing balances, an account shall be made of the fund up to the day before the day on which the recognition takes effect, showing the balance to the credit of each employee on such day, and containing such further particulars as the Central Board of Revenue may prescribe

Treatment of balances in newly recognised provident funds

(2) The account shall also show in respect of the balance to the credit of each employee the amount thereof which is to be transferred to that employee's account in the recognised provident fund, and such amount (hereinafter called his transferred balance) shall be shown as the balance to his credit in the recognised provident fund on the date on which the recognition of the fund takes effect, and sub sections (3) and (4) shall apply thereto

Any portion of the balance to the credit of an employee in the existing fund which is not transferred to the recognised fund shall be excluded from the accounts of the recognised fund and shall be liable to income tax and super tax in accordance with the provisions of this Act other than this Chapter

(3) Subject to such rules as the Central Board of Revenue may make in this behalf, the Income-tax Officer shall make a calculation of the aggregate of all sums comprised in a transferred balance which would have been liable to income-tax if this Chapter had been in force from the date of the institution of the fund, without regard to any tax which may have been paid on any such sum, and such aggregate (if any) shall be deemed to be income received by the employee in the year in which the recognition of the funds takes effect, and shall be included in the employee's total income for that year, and, for the purposes of assessment, the remainder of the transferred balance shall be disregarded, but no other exemption or relief by way of refund or otherwise, shall be granted in respect of any sum comprised in such transferred balance

Provided that, in cases of serious accounting difficulty, the Commissioner shall have power, subject to the said rules, to make a summary calculation of such aggregate

The Central Board of Revenue may require such further information to be supplied as it thinks proper

(2) If any alteration in the rules, constitution, objects or conditions of the fund is made at any time after the date of the application for approval, the trustees of the fund shall forthwith communicate such alteration to the Income tax Officer, and in default of such communication any approval given shall, unless the Central Board of Revenue otherwise orders, be deemed to have been withdrawn from the date on which the alteration took effect

58R Income derived from investments or deposits of an approved superannuation fund shall be exempt from payment of income tax and any sum paid by an employer or an employee by way of contribution towards an approved superannuation fund shall, in the case of an employer, be deducted in computing his income, profits or gains for the purpose of assessment, and, in the case of an employee, be treated for all the purposes of this Act as if it were a sum to which the provisions of section 15 apply

Provided that no such exemption shall be allowable to an employee in respect of any sum which is not an ordinary annual contribution

Provided further that where a contribution by an employer is not an ordinary annual contribution it shall, for the purposes of this section, be treated, as the Central Board of Revenue may direct, either as an expense incurred in the year in which the sum is paid, or as an expense to be spread over such period of years as the Central Board of Revenue thinks proper

58S (1) Where any contributions (including interest on contributions, if any) are repaid to an employee, the amount so repaid shall be deemed for the purposes of income tax [“*”] to be income of the employee for that year

(2) Where any contributions (including interest on contributions, if any) are repaid to an employee during his lifetime but not at or in connection with the termination of his employment income-tax on the amount so repaid or paid shall except in the case of an employee whose employment was carried on abroad be deducted by the trustees of the fund at the average rate of tax at which the employee was liable to income tax ¹[* *] during the preceding three years or during such period, if less than three years, as he was a member of the fund, and shall be paid by the trustees to the credit of the Central Government within the prescribed time and in such manner as the Central Board of Revenue may direct

Liabilities of trustees on cessation of approval of fund

(a) on account of returned contributions (including interest on contributions, if any), and

(b) in commutation or in lieu of annuities,

in so far as the sum so paid is in respect of contributions made before the fund or part of the fund ceased to be an approved fund under the provisions of this Chapter

58V The trustees of an approved superannuation fund and any employer who contributes to an approved superannuation fund shall, when required by notice from the Income tax Officer, within twenty one days of the date of such notice —

Particulars to be furnished in respect of superannuation funds

(a) furnish to the Income tax Officer a return containing such particulars of contributions made to the fund as the notice may require,

(b) prepare and deliver to the Income-tax Officer a return containing—

(i) the name and place of residence of every person in receipt of an annuity from the fund,

(ii) the amount of the annuity payable to each annuitant,

(iii) particulars of every contribution (including interest on contributions, if any) returned to the employer or to employees, and

(iv) particulars of sums paid in commutation or in lieu of annuities,

(c) furnish to the Income-tax Officer a copy of the accounts of the fund to the last date prior to such notice to which such accounts have been made up, together with such other information and particulars as the Central Board of Revenue may reasonably require]

Sec 59 RULES RULE 2 —Under R 2 of the rules framed by the Board of Inland Revenue under S 59, the Assistant Commissioner is not himself competent to order the registration of a firm. The only power that he can exercise under the rule is to permit the presentation of the application to the Income tax Officer and thus condone the delay. Further the matter is entirely discretionary with him and he cannot be compelled under any provisions of the Act or the rules made thereunder, to grant the prayer made to him by the assessee. Still on general principles the High Court is competent to determine whether the jurisdiction, which vested in the Assistant Commissioner, has been perversely refused. RULES 25 35 —Rr 25 to 35 of the rules made by the Central Board of Revenue under S 59 should not be taken as having any further effect than that they provide a somewhat arbitrary though convenient method of ascertaining the total profits or gains in respect of Life Assurance business and so do not prevent the assessee from claiming the benefits of the provisions of Ss 8 and 18 (5) of the Act. The assessee may therefore claim exemption from income tax in respect of interest derived from Government of India tax free securities which come within the proviso to S 8 and also claim credit under S 18 (5) for any deductions of tax made at the source. I L R (1937) 2 Cal 540=41 C W N 905

RULE 25 —The actuarial valuation referred to in R 25 is the actuarial investigation into the company's financial condition required by S 8 (1) of the Indian Life Assurance Companies Act 1912 and not merely the actuarial valuation of its liabilities which by itself can never ascertain the profits. 50 L W 119=43 C W N 926=1939 P C 190 (P C). Under R 25

the income profits and gains of a life assurance business shall be the average annual net profits disclosed by the last preceding valuation that is to say shall be arrived at by taking one fifth of the surplus disclosed in the valuation balance sheet and treating it 'as the average annual income of the business for the next quinquennium'. The 'net profits in this rule clearly mean the 'surplus if any' in the statutory form of valuation balance sheet of life assurance and annuity funds (as per balance sheet under Third Schedule) over the net liability under life assurance and annuity transaction (as per summary statement provided in Fourth Schedule). If the assessee's actuarial valuation balance sheet on the last date of the last preceding valuation shows a deficiency the Income tax Department can not go behind the said valuation balance sheet to find out if there were any profits in respect of the period of the last preceding valuation. (61 I A 41 Foll) 43 C W N 926=50 L W 119=1939 P C 190 (P C). Where in the case of an assessee who is a Life Insurance Company the actuarial valuation balance sheet on the last date of the last preceding valuation shows a deficiency R 25 of the Rules framed under S 59 of the Income tax Act does not permit the department to go behind the said valuation balance sheet to find out if there were any profits in respect of the period of the last preceding valuation. 42 C W N 410. The expression 'last preceding valuation in R 25 does not mean the valuation covering the last valuation period terminating before the 1st of April of the year of assessment but the last preceding valuation at the time of the return. R 25 is of a mandatory character and provides the only manner in which the income profits and gains of Life Assurance Companies can be ascertained. I L R 1938 Mad 270=1938 Mad 145=(1938) 1 M L J 11 (F B).

RULE 30 —The words 'may be treated as expenditure in R 30 cannot be interpreted as conferring upon the Income tax Officer and upon him alone the option to treat sums written off to meet depreciation of, or loss on securities or other assets or carried to a reserve fund formed for that sole purpose and not used for any other purpose as expenditure incurred solely for the purpose of earning the profits of the business. Such a construction would do violence to the plain words of the rule. The rule really confers an option on the assessee to write off in his accounts to meet depreciation or to carry to a reserve fund to meet depreciation any amount which is justified by an actual loss in any particular year. 40 Bom L R 447=1938 Bom 345.

RULE 31 —The words which in the opinion of the Central Board of Revenue is unreasonable is S 59 (a) (3) of the Income tax Act gives the Central Board of Revenue absolute discretion to decide in cases coming under Cl (a) of Sub S (2) of S 59 whether the amount of trouble to the assessee is unreasonable and in that case to estimate the income in accordance with rules prescribed. Hence R 31 of the Income tax Rules is perfectly intra vires and not ultra vires. (1939) I T R 352=1939 Sind 363. R 31 is clearly made under S 59 (3) of the Income tax Act and S 59 (2) must be read with S 59 (3). Insurance Companies come under S 59 (2) (a) and it is clear that the words Dividing Society in R 31 means and must be read as Dividing Insurance Society. It is also obvious from a reading of R 32 that companies referred to in R 31 mean Life Assurance Companies. I L R (1939) Kar 779=1939 I T R 293=1939 Sind 293. RULE 35 —The Income tax Officer is authorised to have recourse to the method of computation provided by R 35 of the Income tax Rules only in the absence of more reliable data. When he has before him the quinquennial valuations and the actuarial reports of the assessee company in respect of their Indian Life Insurance business he cannot reject them in toto and assess the company under the proportionate scheme of R 35 even if he questions the correctness of certain particulars in them. make a loss or profit out of himself and in that way to encourage and foster Co operative Societies which were designed to improve the conditions of Indian cultivators But neither interest from securities nor income derived from property is profits within the meaning of the term as used in the notification unless the investment of capital in property or securities is part of the business of the Co operative Society In considering that question the fact that such income appears as part of the profits in the profit and loss account of the assessee is not conclusive 11 R 521=1934 R 27 (S B) A society was incorporated in England in 1923 under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act of 1893 and the shares were owned exclusively by two other Co operative Societies The Apex Society carried on business in India for growing tea, etc and except a very small quantity of useless tea disposed of locally, the goods were consigned to the society in England and the branch societies delivered the goods to their members on a system the object of which was to eliminate the profits of the middle man and the question arose whether that company was assessable to income tax in India in respect of the amount charged on the branch societies but it appeared that such profits were distributed among the shareholders Held, that the society was a mutual Co operative Society earning no profit and was therefore not liable to assessment under S 60 of the Income tax Act 1929 M W N 534 of law and fact see 3 I T C 10. If one of two possible inferences is drawn by the Commissioner, no question of law arises in the case also. 121 I C 648, 122 I C 479 = 1930 N 200. The true intent of the first proviso to the second sub-section of S 66 is that a question of law that is common to both the Assistant Commissioners and the Commissioner's order is not a proper subject matter of a reference unless the question of law is raised on a reference from the decision of the Assistant Commissioner. 171 I C 797 = 1937 Nag 154. The question whether the Income tax Officer legally proceeded to assess the assessee under S 23 (4) is one of law. 100 I C 774 (2) = 1927 L 288. See also 104 I C 127 = 1927 L 691. Before declining to adjudicate on the merits of an appeal on the ground that it is barred by the proviso to S 30 (1) it is incumbent on the Assistant Commissioner to satisfy himself that the assessment was not merely ostensibly but genuinely under S 23 (4). It is the duty of the Commissioner if required by the assessee to state the question of law whether or not the facts established before the Assistant Commissioner are such as to bring the case within the ambit of proviso to S 30 (1). 133 I C 753 = 1931 P 306 (F B). When there is ample evidence upon which the Income tax Officer can find that there was no sufficient cause preventing the assessee from producing account books requisitioned under S 22 (2) and it appears upon the ground he had refused to cancel the assessment made under S 23 (4) and his order is upheld by the Assistant Commissioner on appeal for the same reason there is no question of law arising under the circumstances for the purposes of S 66 (2). 9 R 21 = 1931 R 97. The question whether an assessment made by the Income tax Officer under S 23 (4) is valid or not is not a question of law and cannot therefore be made the ground for an order by the High Court under S 66 (3) requiring the Commissioner to state a case. No doubt the question whether a debt is a bad debt and if so at which point of time it became a bad debt is a question of fact to be decided in the event of a dispute by the appropriate tribunal. But the conclusions of the appropriate tribunal must be based on relevant and admissible evidence and the question whether there is such evidence to support the conclusions arrived at by the Income-tax Authorities is a question of law open to consideration by the High Court. 37 P L R 497 = 1935 L 637. The Income tax Officer is the sole arbitrator on the question of the possibility of deducting the income profits and gains of the assessee from the method of accounting employed by him. The correctness of the opinion of the Officer under these circumstances is a question of fact which cannot be challenged by means of an application under S 66 of the Act. (1926 L 446 Foll.) 164 I C 1018 = 1936 L 621. The question whether a person is or is not a member of a joint undivided family is one of fact but when the tribunal of facts states the circumstances on which it relies for its finding and those circumstances do not in law lead to the conclusion arrived at by the tribunal of fact it is open to a Court of law to draw the proper inference from the circumstances stated. 14 P 785 = 16 Pat L T 351 = 1935 P 342 (S B). The question whether a person is rightly declared an agent under S 43 and the further question whether when an assessment is made under S 23 (4) in proviso to S 30 (1) bars an appeal though the appeal is not against the assessment but against the order of the Income tax Officer declaring the assessee to be liable are questions of law and the reference under S 66 (2) to the High Court on such questions is competent. 28 N L R 194 = 140 I C 490 = 1932 N 152. The question whether the Assistant Commissioner of Income tax could or could not set aside in appeal the order of Income tax Officer refusing to register an instrument of partnership is a question of law. The question whether a deed of partnership and the application for its registration fulfilled the requirements of R 2 of the rules made under the Income tax Act and also the question whether for the purposes of R 2 and S 2 (14) of the Act it is obligatory that the instrument of partnership should be signed by all the partners and if so under what provision of law are similarly questions of law arising out of the order of the Assistant Commissioner when his assessment was on the assumption that the assessee firm was an unregistered firm. 1930 S 301. In a particular year an assessment was made on actual receipts. It was objected by the assessee that a certain sum already assessed in previous years was included in the receipts. Assistant Commissioner in appeal found that the estimate of income in those years was not as assessed strictly on accrued basis but merely on best available data there was no conclusive proof that such sum had already been included in the assessment of the previous years. Held that a question of law arose from the order whether or not the assessee was entitled to show that the actual receipts had in fact been included in the estimates of the previous years and the Commissioner must state and refer the case on the question 1929 R 245. The adoption of a particular basis and a certain method in preference to another both being entirely within the discretion of the Income tax Officer cannot give rise to any question of law 32 P L R 344=1931 L 432. Whether the evidence tendered before the Income tax authorities established that the method of accounting was such that the profits and gains of the business could not be properly deduced therefrom is a question of fact 1934 L 977. The employment of a correct procedure of assessment does not raise a question of law 1931 L 759. The question whether the goods still in transit can be valued at market value prevalent at the place of destination does not involve any point of law 1931 L 759. The decision of the Income tax Officer under S 20 of the Income tax Act that no sufficient cause for non submission of a return was shown by the assessee is essentially a question of fact and not of law that can be referred to the High Court 36 P L R 198=1934 L 983. The validity or otherwise of an assessment made by the Income tax Officer under S 23 (4) except where he made the assessment mala fide and arbitrarily in the sense that he acted recklessly or fraudulently is not a question of law that can be referred to the High Court 36 P L R 198=1934 L 983. Whatever conclusions are arrived at by the Income tax authorities they must have some material to support them and in case it is contended that there is no material for those conclusions the question does resolve itself into one of law 1937 Lah 305. The question whether there was any evidence upon which an Assistant Commissioner or Commissioner could come to a finding of fact is a question of law. If there was any evidence on which it was reasonably possible for the Commissioner to come to the conclusion at which he arrived the High Court will not consider whether on that evidence that finding was correct because the High Court is not a Court of appeal in such matters. Even where the finding of fact is an inference from other facts the question whether such an inference was properly drawn is not a question of law. Where the Assistant Commissioner from the fact of non production of certain books which the assessee firm was ordered to produce coupled with other facts came to the conclusion that the books of account on which the assessment was based were not the full and complete accounts of the business held that it was a finding of fact which could not be the subject matter of a reference to the High Court 7 R 63=1940 R 4 (F B). Where the only question is whether the accounts of the assessee are maintained in such a way that they indicate the true income of the assessee reference cannot be made to the High Court since it is a question not of law but of fact 1935 L 841. Where the Income tax Officer made an assessment under S 23 (4) on the ground that the assessee failed to comply with the terms of the notice the question whether there has been a compliance with the terms of the notice is not a question of law but a question of fact. Further, whether the evidence before the Income tax Officer is sufficient to justify him in rejecting the accounts of the assessee is also a question of fact 137 I C 712 (1)=1932 O 164. When an assessment has already been made in respect of the previous accounting year under S 34 the question whether all income which had accrued and had escaped assessment had been assessed to tax or not depends upon the investigation of the facts of the case 1931 C 761 (S B). The question where a partner as partner lends money beyond the initial capital to the partnership at no agreed rate of interest and the money is used for capital expenditure whether the interest paid by the partnership to him in the year of assessment should be deducted in computing the profits or gains of the partnership within the meaning of S 10 (2) (iii) is a question of law 116 I C 454=1929 L 404 (1). As to what legal presumption is to be drawn under certain stated circumstances (Ibid) 1927 N 283. The question whether the Income tax Officer is justified in increasing the estimate of the annual value of the property from Rs 1,200 to Rs 3,000 merely on a finding as to the cost of erection of the buildings is one of law 131 I C 212=1932 L 187. The Income tax Officer is not competent to rectify a supposed mistake which has the effect of enhancing assessment without issuing notice to the assessee under S 35 and where the Assistant Commissioner refuses to cancel such enhanced assessment there arises a question of law 117 I C 383=1929 L 336.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE—It is for the Commissioner in stating a case to find facts which must be accepted by the High Court 134 I C 1275=1931 C 729 (S B), 1932 A 471 The Income tax Act does not lay down any rules of procedure for references under S 66 of the Act and the Calcutta High Court has made the rules contained in Chapter XXA of its original side rules. Thus it had jurisdiction to do in the absence of any specific provision in the Act 39 C W N 1140=62 C 671 The function of the High Court in cases referred to it under S 66 is advisory only and is confined to considering and answering the actual question referred to it 190 I C 1=42 Bom L R 1182=52 L W 406=1 L R 1940 Kar 335=1940 P C 158 (P C). In a reference under S. 66 (1) by the Commissioner suo motu, the Advocate-General or counsel on behalf of the Commissioner has the right to begin. 37 Bom L R. 112=1935 B. 167. In applications under S. 66 (3) to the High Court, it would be wrong to require the appearance of the Advocate-General in the first instance, because most of those applications plainly do not raise any questions of law and they can be dismissed in limine without hearing the Advocate-General on behalf of the Commissioner of Income-tax. If, after hearing the applicant, the Court considers that the case for the Commissioner of Income-tax should be placed before them at that stage, then it is simple to adjourn the case in order to obtain the appearance of the Advocate-General for the Commissioner of Income-tax. That is the practice which should be adopted in such applications. 176 I C. 601=1938 Rang 260 (F.B.).

Application under S. 66 (2)—Pleader filing—Vakalat for all purposes and all sections—Withdrawal of application by pleader on getting taxable amount reduced in revision—Repudiation by client and application for statement of case not maintainable. The pleader was, under the vakalatnama, acting within his powers and was authorised to withdraw the application and the assessee was bound by the withdrawal and could not claim to have a case stated. 1941 Cal 183=1940 I.T.R. 482. The mere death of an assessee at whose instance a reference was made does not preclude the High Court from answering the question or questions formulated by the Commissioner of Income-tax. 1941 I.T.R. 193.

LIMITATION.—The refusal of the Income-tax Commissioner to make a reference of a supplementary question of law submitted to him one month after the Assistant Commissioner passed his orders, as being barred by time, is justified. 139 I.C. 599=1932 C.

NOTES

Whether an original order as to penalty imposed by the Commissioner in appeal can be the subject matter of reference to High Court 8 P 877=1930 P 127 It nearly always must be a question of fact whether or not a deduction which the assessee seeks to make can properly be described in the words of S 10 (2) (ix) as an expenditure incurred solely for the purpose of earning such profits or gains There is no obligation on the Income tax Commissioner to refer such a question to the High Court Where the Commissioner finds that payments made to the directors of a company as allowances which they are entitled to draw under the Articles of Association are not bona fide payments for services rendered but merely a device for enabling the company to escape super tax and after making an enquiry allows a deduction not of what has been actually paid but what he considers to be the market value of the services rendered by the directors the matter is really one of fact and no question of law arises It is a decision on a matter of fact with which the High Court will not interfere 40 C W N 833 See also I T R (1941) 190 Assessee dying pending reference—Proceedings do not abate—Heirs were allowed to be heard 9 P 240=1930 P 81 (S B) Sufficiency of cause for having ex parte assessment reopened under S 27 is certainly question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each case But since its determination essentially depends upon the exercise of judicial discretion, the question whether discretion has or has not been exercised in a sound and reasonable manner in reaching the conclusion invariably involves a question of law (1930 R 33 1930 R 78 Rel on) 1934 N 183 It is the practice of the Nagpur High Court and was the practice of the Judicial Commissioner's Court when ex parte applications were made to a Court asking the Court to call upon the Commissioner of Income tax to show cause why a case should not be stated either to dismiss the application or if it is to be entertained to give notice to the other side to show cause 1937 N 154 Where the Commissioner of Income tax acting under S 33 refuses to interfere with the Income tax Officer's order refusing a refund under S 48, the Commissioner's order is not prejudicial to the party because it does no more than leave him in the position created by the order of the Income tax Officer His position has already been prejudiced by the Income tax Officer's order of refusal An application to the Commissioner under S 66 (2) is not therefore competent, because that section only applies when the order under S 33 itself alters the position of the assessee or applicant to his prejudice 1935 M 373=68 M L J 227 (F B) Where the question is one of fact to be decided on the findings of the Commissioner under S 66 (2) the assessee

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Where there is no question of law arising in the case, and the Commissioner holds that all the questions before him are pure questions of fact and that there is no question of law which properly can be made the subject of a reference to the High Court, there is no obligation on the part of the Commissioner to make a reference merely because the assessee requests him to state a case on a "question of law" formulated by the assessee The question "whether in the circumstances of this case there were any materials on which the Income-tax Officer could base his finding that the assessee (who had repeatedly failed to submit returns and account books in spite of repeated notices) was not prevented by sufficient cause from filing the return called for under S 22 (2) or producing the accounts called for under S 22 (2)"

Where the order was announced to the applicant's mukhtar : am who was present in Court notice to him is as good as notice to the applicant 158 I C 382 (1)=1935 L 959 The true intent of the first proviso to the second sub section of S 66 is that a question of law that is common to both the Assistant Commissioners and the Commissioner's order is not a proper subject matter of a reference unless the question of law is raised on a reference from the decision of the Assistant Commissioner 1937 N 154 Where the assessee had ample notice that a reference had been made to the High Court by the Commissioner in the form originally proposed by him and he has made no application in writing to the High Court to decide the question under R 12 it is not open to the High Court on an oral application made at the end of arguments in reference to direct the Commissioner to make a modified statement of the case by Commissioner 1935 L 727 It is the duty of the Commissioner on receipt of objections by the assessee to notify to the latter, if he does not modify the reference that he is not prepared to accede to his prayer to modify the proposed reference to the High Court 1935 L 727

See 66 (2) and (3)—S 66 (2) does not require the assessee to formulate precise questions of law. What he has to do within the prescribed time limit is to require the

Commissioner to refer to the High Court any question of law arising out of the order or decision of the Assistant Commissioner and then the Commissioner has within sixty days to draw up a statement of the case and refer it to the High Court with his own opinion thereon. Where the Commissioner refuses to state a case under S 66 (2) holding that no point of law arises the Court can under S 66 (3) require the Commissioner to state the case, and to refer it to the Court if it is not satisfied of the correctness of the Commissioner's view of the case. Sec. 66 (3) SCOTT.—The essential condition for an application under S. 66 (3) is that an application under S. 66 (2) has been made to the Commissioner and refused by him. The fact that the assessee makes an application under S. 33 invoking the powers of review and the application states that if the Commissioner is unwilling to exercise his power under S. 33 he should draw a statement of the case and refer it under S. 66 (1) is not sufficient 140 I C 672=1932 P 167 (1) See also 1941 I T R. 679 The only ground upon which an application under S. 66 (3) lies is where the Commissioner refuses to state a case on the ground that no question of law arose. But where the Commissioner only dismisses an application in effect for the review of a prior order of his permitting the appli-

(4) ' is not a question of law but one of fact and hence is not a proper question for submission to the High Court under S 66 (2) 63 C 401 A question of law which has not been raised in the appeal to the Assistant Commissioner does not arise out of the order under S 31 of the Act. The assessee has therefore no right to demand that that question should be referred by the Commissioner 155 I C 526=1935 L 201 If the assessee did not, during the assessment by the Income tax Officer or in his appeal from that assessment raise the issues necessary for the determination of the question of fact which arises under S 14 (1) the question cannot be raised in reference as it does not arise out of the appellate order 14 P 313=1935 P 8 There is nothing in the Act to prevent the officiating Commissioner who as the Assistant Commissioner had heard the appeal from assessment from disposing of the application under S 66 1934 L 977 Where the Assistant Commissioner hears the appeal of the assessee and passes an appellate order under S 31 dismissing the appeal the requirements of S 66 (2) are satisfied whether the Assistant Commissioner has jurisdiction or not 28 S L R 174=1934 S 46 The words "served with notice of an order in S 66 (2) do not mean served with a written notice or served with a copy of the detailed order giving reasons. It is sufficient if the applicant or his representative is given notice of the order in Court. Where the order was announced to the applicant's mukhtar i am who was present in Court notice to him is as good as notice to the applicant 158 I C 382 (1)=1935 L 959 The true intent of the first proviso to the second sub-section of S 66 is that a question of law that is common to both the Assistant Commissioners and the Commissioner's order is not a proper subject matter of a reference unless the question of law is raised on a reference from the decision of the Assistant Commissioner 1937 N 154 Where the assessee had ample notice that a reference had been made to the High Court by the Commissioner in the form originally proposed by him and he has made no application in writing to the High Court to decide the question under R 12 it is not open to the High Court on an oral application made at the end of arguments in reference to direct the Commissioner to make a modified statement of the case by Commissioner 1935 L 727 It is the duty of the Commissioner on receipt of objections by the assessee to notify to the latter if he does not modify the reference that he is not prepared to accede to his prayer to modify the proposed reference to the High Court 1935 L 727

See 66 (2) and (3).—S 66 (2) does not require the assessee to formulate precise questions of law. What he has to do within the prescribed time limit is to require the

Commissioner to refer to the High Court any question of law arising out of the order or decision of the Assistant Commissioner and then the Commissioner has within sixty days to draw up a statement of the case and refer it to the High Court with his own opinion thereon. Where the Commissioner refuses to state a case under S 66 (2) holding that no point of law arises the Court can, under S 66 (3) require the Commissioner to state the case, and to refer it to the Court if it is not satisfied of the correctness of the Commissioner's view of the case. If the Court thinks that questions of law arise it should indicate to the Commissioner what those questions are the actual framing of the questions rests with the Commissioner. But the Court under S 66 (3) is no more limited than the Commissioner under S 66 (2) to the precise questions formulated by the assessee 37 Bom L R 89=1935 B 170 See also 1934 L 977 Where one of the questions of law arising out of the order of the Assistant Commissioner was whether the appeal to him was competent in view of the proviso to S 30 (1), by deciding this question himself adversely to the assessee the Commissioner cannot deprive the assessee of the right of having the question decided by the Court 65 I A 236=I L R 1938 Bom 487=42 C W N 873=40 Bom L R 854=1938 P C 17=(1938) 2 M L J 115 (P C) Under S 66 (as amended) no reference lies against an order of the Income tax Commissioner under S 33 unless the order is one which involves an enhancement of the assessment or is otherwise such as is prejudicial to the assessee if the Income tax Commissioner simply maintains the decision of the Assistant Commissioner and the assessment made by him it cannot be said that the order of the Commissioner of Income tax is such as is prejudicial to the assessee 172 I C 511=1938 Nag 16 Before an assessee can put in an application to the High Court under sub S (3), it is incumbent upon him to apply to the Commissioner under sub S (2) of S 66. That he can do only if an order in respect of the assessment complained of is made under S 31 or S 32 or if an order under S 33 enhances the assessment made on him or is otherwise prejudicial to him or if a Board of Referees decides any question relating to his assessment under S 33 A. Where none of these conditions exists no application under sub S (2) of S 66 is competent and consequently sub S (3) of S 66 does not come into play at all 1938 Lah 864 The proper course for an assessee when he desires the Commissioner to refer a question of law to the High Court is to formulate under S 66 (2) of the Income tax Act the question which he desires to have so referred. Under S 66 (3) the High Court has power to direct the Commissioner to refer some question other than that which the applicant has formu-

certain sum should not be included in the assessment as it consisted of bad debts This was disallowed by the Income tax Officer on the ground that the last balances were struck in 1930 and that it had not been shown that the amount had become irrecoverable by the accounting year 1932-33 Held that it did not follow that because a debtor firm was in difficulties in 1930 it would never recover and that all debts due by it should immediately be struck off as bad debts and that a mandamus must issue on the Commissioner to state a case on this question 167 I C 178

See 66 (3) and (5)—Under sub S (3) of S 66 it is nowhere laid down that a question is to be formulated by the Court issuing the mandamus Further sub S (5) of the same section also does not confine the High Court to the decision of the question of law as formulated by the Commissioner or the Court issuing the mandamus On the other hand it confers upon it full power to decide the question of law in the form it actually arises from the statement of the case made by the Commissioner It is therefore competent to High Court to clarify the issue of law involved in the statement of the case made by the Commissioner and to give its considered opinion on the question really at issue not to do so would amount to a refusal to do its duty 39 P L R 1028=1937 Lah 721 can be held to be an assessee within the meaning of S 3 is clearly a question of law which it would be proper for the Commissioner to refer for the decision of the High Court 1935 L 100 The High Court sits to hear the reference by the Income tax Commissioner and any device such as by a petition under S 66 (3) to ask the the Income tax authorities to state a case on the question which they refused to refer should be denegated. The reference cannot be extended by an application under S 66 (3) 58 C 999=1931 C 727 (F B) Where the matter in issue has already been decided in connection with a previous year's assessment the assessee can not re-agitate the matter before the income tax authorities or move the High Court for a reference when the assessment for a subsequent year is in question 139 I C 295=1932 N 68 When on a loan advanced a suit is brought and a decree is obtained for an amount smaller than the amount claimed under the loan the part of the loan disallowed by the decree becomes a 'bad debt' at once at the date of the decree or the 'bad debt' is to be ascertained as a whole at the time when the decree is eventually realised and the lender's position qua the loan finally determined is one of law 148 I C 228=1934 I 67 (2) In every case when the question is whether a particular sum is "profits" or 'capital' the question is a question of fact to be determined upon the material before the income tax authorities. If therefore an assessee's foreign business remits money to him in a country in which his profits from his business in that country are assessed to income tax the question whether the remittance is a remittance from out of the profits of the foreign business or out of capital is a question of fact. In such circumstances the only question of law that can arise is whether there was material before the income tax authorities upon which they could find that a particular sum was profits or income earned by the assessee and remitted during the year of assessment. 11 R 397=1933 R 217 See also 16 Luck 805=198 I C 192 The question whether certain cash deposits on various dates entered in the khata of the assessee is income or profits assessable to tax or is capital is not a question of law but one of fact and therefore cannot be considered in an application under S 66 (3) 1941 O W N 757=1941 I T R 296=1941 Oudh 445 See also 1941 I T R 273 Where it appeared that the Commissioner was wrong in refusing to state a case and refer a question of law on the request of the assessee Held that the Commissioner should be directed to pay the assessee's costs of the application to the High Court though the reference might ultimately turn out against the assessee 8 R 209=1931 R 78 (S B) A decision to the effect that a mandamus should not be issued on an application under

OTHER ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Ordinarily it is a question of fact to be determined by the Income tax Officer whether a particular debt is recoverable or not. But the question, whether a sum of money which is shown in the assessee's accounts as assessable income from interest but proved irrecoverable should not be deducted from the total income in the assessment as a loss of profit and not a loss of capital is a question of law 1934 L 940 See also 39 P L R 616=1937 Lah 814 167 I C 178 1937 Lah 338=18 Lah 306 The question whether an assessment under S 23 (4) is valid or not is not an order of the Assistant Commissioner passed under S 31 and consequently such a question cannot be made the ground for an order by the High Court under S 66 (3) requiring the Commissioner to state a case 1934 A L J 274=1934 A 559 Where assessment is made on the assessee under S 23 (4) then the provisions of S 66 (2) and (3) would not apply to it 1940 I T R 489=1940 O W N 514=1940 Oudh 362 See also 1940 I T R 243 see also 1941 O W N 757 1938 All 367 (Computation of profits at a high rate) 1938 Rang L R 130=1938 Rang 154 (decision of Income tax Officer under S 25 A) I L R (1938) Lah 426=40 P L R 228=1938 Lah 530 (question whether an advance made by a partner is a loan or increase of capital) 1940 A L J 855 (decision as to place of assessment), 1940 I T R 635 (Question of sufficiency of evidence to support finding see also 1941 Oudh 279) 1941 I T R 330 (Question whether application of S 13 of the Act is proper or not), 1941 I T R 616 (Finding that a person is not a partner in a firm is one of fact), 1940 I T R 179 (Question whether a person is carrying on business and whether he is rightly assessed at a particular figure) 1940 P. Sec 66 (5)—It is the duty of the Income-tax Department to take up the question of re-assessment after a reference by the Commissioner of Income tax has been answered by the High Court and to see in the presence of the assessee whether in the light of the judgment of the High Court, any of the figures arrived at are liable to alteration or not. It is not enough to say the material alteration in the figure of assessment is not expected and therefore re-assessment is not necessary. 1932 A L J. 174=1932 A 317. If the case stated by the Commissioner of Income tax contains merely conclusion on pure questions of fact, then it is not open to the High Court to go behind the statement of facts. But if what the Commissioner states he has found on facts is actually a series of conclusions founded partly on pure facts and partly on inferences drawn from those facts, the High Court has power and ought to deal with the whole case and to see whether the evidence justified what the Commissioner held. It is not as if the only course open to the High Court is to either express an opinion upon the findings of the Commissioner or to say that it is impossible to do so because the findings are not warranted by the evidence on which they are based. It is competent to the High Court to look at the real situation and to give a decision founded upon what appears to the High Court to be the real position. 62 C 87=39 C W N 70. [THE SCHEDULE]

[See section 10 (7)]

RULES FOR THE COMPUTATION OF THE PROFITS AND GAINS OF INSURANCE BUSINESS

1 In the case of any person who carries on, or at any time in the preceding year carried on, life insurance business, the profits and gains of such person from that business shall be computed separately from his income, profits or gains from any other business

2 The profits and gains of life insurance business shall be taken to be either—

- (a) the gross external income of the preceding year from that business less the management expenses of that year, or
- (b) the annual average of the surplus ²[arrived at by adjusting the surplus or deficit] disclosed by the actuarial valuation made for the last inter valuation period ending before the year for which the assessment is to be made, ³{ * * * } so as to exclude from it any surplus or deficit included therein which was made in any earlier inter valuation period and any expenditure other than expenditure which may under the provisions of section 10 of this Act be allowed for in computing the profits and gains of a business, whichever is the greater

Provided that the amount to be allowed as management expenses shall not exceed—

(a) $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of the premiums received during the preceding year in respect of single premium life insurance policies plus

(b) in respect of the first year's premiums received in respect of other life insurance policies for which the number of annual premiums received is less than twelve, or for which the number of years during which premiums are payable is less than twelve, for each such premium or each such year $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of such first year's premiums received during the preceding year, plus

(c) 85 per cent of the first year's premiums received during the preceding year in respect of other life insurance policies and 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of other premiums received during that year in respect of all life insurance policies other than single premium life insurance policies.

3 In computing the surplus for the purpose of rule 2,—

(a) one half of the amounts paid to or reserved for or expended on behalf of policy holders shall be allowed as a deduction

Provided that in the first such computation made under this rule of any such surplus no account shall be taken of any such amounts to the extent to which they are paid out of or in respect of any surplus brought forward from a previous inter valuation period

Provided further that if any amount so reserved for policy holders ceases to be so reserved, and is not paid to or expended on behalf of policy holders one-half of such amount, if it has been previously allowed as a deduction, shall be treated as part of the surplus for the period in which the said amount ceased to be so reserved,

(b) any amount either written off or reserved in the accounts or through the actuarial valuation balance sheet to meet depreciation of or loss on the realisation of securities or other assets, shall be allowed as a deduction and any sums taken credit for in the accounts or actuarial valuation balance sheet on account of appreciation of or gains on the realisation of the securities or other assets shall be included in the surplus

Provided that if upon investigation it appears to the Income tax Officer after consultation with the Superintendent of Insurance that having due regard to the necessity for making reasonable provision for bonuses to participating policy holders and for contingencies the rate of interest or other factor employed in determining the liability in respect of outstanding policies is materially inconsistent with the valuation of the securities and other assets so as artificially to reduce the surplus such adjustment shall be made to the allowance for depreciation of or to the amount to be included in the surplus in respect of appreciation of, such securities and other assets, as shall increase the surplus for the purposes of these rules to a figure which is fair and just,

(c) the whole amount of interest received in respect of any securities of the Central Government which have been issued or declared to be income tax free shall be deducted

4 Where for any year an assessment is made in accordance with the annual average of a surplus disclosed by a valuation for an inter valuation period exceeding twelve months, then, in computing the tax payable for that year credit shall not be given in accordance with sub-section (5) of section 18 for the tax paid in the preceding year, but credit shall be given for the annual average of the income tax paid by deduction at source from interest on securities or otherwise during such period

5 For the purposes of these rules—

(i) 'preceding year' means that year for which annual accounts are required to be prepared under the Insurance Act, 1938 immediately preceding the year for which the assessment is to be made or until the commencement of the Insurance Act 1938, the previous year as defined in section 2 of that Act

(ii) 'gross external income' means the full amount of income from interest, dividends, fines and fees and all other incomes from whatever source derived (except premiums received from policy holders and interest and dividends on any annuity fund) and includes also profits from reversions and on the sale or the granting of annuities but excludes profits on the realisation of securities

² Inserted by S 8 of Act VII of 1927

³ The words 'after adjusting such surplus' were omitted by ibid

Provided that incomes including the annual value of the property occupied by the assessee, which but for the provisions of sub-section (7) of section 10 would have been assessable under section 9 shall be computed upon the basis laid down in the last named section and that there shall be allowed from such gross incomes such deductions as are permissible under that section

(iii) 'management expenses' means the full amount of expenses (including commissions) incurred exclusively in the management of the business of life insurance, and in the case of a company carrying on other classes of business as well as the business of life insurance in addition thereto a fair proportion of the expenses incurred in the general management of the whole business. Bonuses or other sums paid to or reserved on behalf of policy holders depreciation of and losses on the realisation of securities and any expenditure other than expenditure which may under the provisions of section 10 of this Act be allowed for in computing the profits and gains of a business are not management expenses for the purposes of these rules

(iv) life insurance business means life insurance business as defined in clause (11) of section 2 of the Insurance Act, 1938

(v) 'securities' includes stocks and shares

6 The profits and gains of any business of insurance other than life insurance shall be taken to be the balance of the profits disclosed by the annual accounts copies of which are required under the Insurance Act, 1938 to be furnished to the Superintendent of Insurance after adjusting such balance so as to exclude from it any expenditure other than expenditure which may under the provisions of section 10 of this Act be allowed for in computing the profits and gains of a business. Profits and losses on the realisation of investments and depreciation and appreciation of the value of investments shall be dealt with as provided in rule 3 for the business of life insurance

7 The profits and gains of companies carrying on dividing society or assessment business shall be taken to be 15 per cent of the premium income of the previous year, or in the case of non-resident companies 15 per cent of the British Indian premium income of the previous year

8 The profits and gains of the British Indian branches of an insurance company not resident in British India in the absence of more reliable data, may be deemed to be the proportion of the total world income of the company corresponding to the proportion which its British Indian premium income bears to its total premium income. For the purpose of this rule the total world income of life insurance companies not resident in British India whose profits are periodically ascertained by actuarial valuation shall be computed in the manner laid down in these rules for the computation of the profits and gains of life insurance business earned on in British India

9 These rules apply to the assessment of the profits of any business of insurance carried on [by a mutual insurance association]

THE INDIAN INCOME-TAX (AMENDMENT) ACT (XXIII OF 1941)

[26th November 1941]

An Act further to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922

I Edw 8 c 2

1 (1) At the end of section two hundred and two of the Government of India Act, 1935, there shall be added the following sub section —

“(2) If the Governor General in his discretion is satisfied, after considering a report from the Chief Justice of India—

(a) that in view of some personal interest which any Judge of the Federal Court has in the decision of any particular case, or of some part which any judge of the Federal Court has already taken, as judge or counsel or otherwise, in or in relation to any particular case (whether or not while it was before the Federal Court), that judge ought not to take part in the hearing and determination thereof, and

(b) that without Judge there are not sufficient Judges of the Federal Court available to sit for that purpose

the Governor General may in his discretion appoint a Judge of a High Court who is duly qualified for appointment as Judge of the Federal Court to act temporarily as a Judge of that Court, and the person so appointed shall, unless the Governor General in his discretion thinks fit to revoke his appointment, be deemed to be a Judge of the Federal Court until that case has been heard and determined by the Federal Court”

(2) The amendment made by this Act in the Government of India Act, 1935, shall be deemed to have been made therein immediately before the passing thereof

(3) A copy of the said Act giving effect to—

(a) the amendments mentioned in sub section (2) of section seventeen of the India and Burma (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act, 1940, and

(b) the amendment made by this Act, shall be prepared and certified by the Clerk of the Parliaments and deposited with the Rolls of Parliament, and His Majesty's printer shall print in accordance with the copy so certified all copies of the Government of India Act, 1935, which are printed after the said copy has been so prepared, certified and deposited

(a) if the cash realised by the sale of or on the maturing of the securities (excluding in the former case the interest accrued) falls short of the market value of the securities at the date on which they were deposited with the Bank, the insurer shall make good the deficiency by a further deposit either in cash or in approved securities estimated at the market value of the securities on the day on which they are deposited, or partly in cash and partly in approved securities so estimated within a period of two months from the date on which the securities matured or were sold or where the securities matured or were sold before the 21st day of March, 1940, within a period of four months from the commencement of the Insurance (Amendment) Act, 1940, and unless he does so the insurer shall be deemed to have failed to comply with the requirements of this section as to deposits, and

(b) if the cash realised by the sale of or on the maturing of the securities (excluding in the former case the interest accrued) exceeds the market value of the securities at the date on which they were deposited with the Bank, the Central Government may, if satisfied that the full amount required to be deposited under sub section (1) is in deposit, direct the Reserve Bank to return the excess]

(10) If any part of a deposit made under this section is used in the discharge of any liability of the insurer, the insurer shall deposit such additional sum in cash or approved securities ³[estimated at the market value of the securities on the day of deposit or partly in cash and partly in such securities], as will make up the amount so used. The insurer shall be deemed to have failed to comply with the requirements of sub section (1), unless the deficiency is supplied within a period of two months from the date when the deposit or any part thereof is so used for discharge of liabilities

8 (1) Any deposit made under section 7 ⁴[or section 98] shall be deemed to be part of the assets of the insurer but shall not be susceptible of any assignment or charge nor shall it be available for the discharge of any liability of the insurer other than liabilities

Sec 9—Where under a scheme of compromise under S 153 Companies Act it is proposed not to change one kind of company into another kind but in the process of reconstruction to put an end to the old company which was limited by shares and to create a new mutual company the provisions of S 9 with regard to refund of deposit will come into force 45 C W N 979 No order for refund can be made under S 9 in respect of a discontinued business unless all the liabilities in respect of the same have been fully satisfied or otherwise provided for 74 C L J 491=46 C W N 284

Secs 9 and 7—It is not necessary that an insurer should deposit the full amount as is required under S 7 (1) before he can present an application for refund under S 9 of the Act in respect of a certain class of insurance business that has been discontinued by him Under S 7 (1) of the Act, the amount to be deposited by an insurer is rupees two lacs if the business

carried on by him is purely life insurance business If on the other hand miscellaneous insurance business is combined by him with life insurance the deposit is increased to rupees three lacs out of which rupees two lacs should be regarded as deposit for life insurance business Under sub S (3) of the section the insurer has the right to deposit this amount in certain instalments As the entire deposit of rupees three lacs as required under S 7 (1) is to be divided into two parts the instalments permitted under sub S (3) are susceptible of similar division and it would be quite proper to allocate one third of such instalments to the miscellaneous insurance business and the remaining two thirds to the Life Insurance If the insurer discontinues the former class of business he can under S 9 of the Act obtain refund of so much of the instalments of deposit as do not relate to the life insurance which he continues to carry on It would be extremely unreasonable to hold that although he has discontinued one class of business he will still be bound to make deposits in respect of both classes of business and unless and until the full amount is deposited no separation of funds is permissible 74 C L J 491=46 C W N 284

46 The holder of a policy of insurance issued by an insurer in respect of insurance business transacted in British India after the commencement of this Act shall have the right not withstanding anything to the contrary contained in the policy or in any agreement relating thereto to receive payment in British India of any sum secured thereby and to sue for any relief in respect of the policy in any Court of competent jurisdiction in British India and if the suit is brought in British India any question of law arising in connection with any such policy shall be determined according to the law in force in British India

47 (1) Where in respect of any policy of life insurance maturing for payment an insurer is of opinion that by reason of conflicting claims to or insufficiency of proof of title to the amount secured thereby or for any other adequate reason it is impossible otherwise for the insurer to obtain a satisfactory discharge for the payment of such amount ²[the insurer may] before the expiry of nine months from the date of the maturing of the policy ³[or where the circumstances are such that the insurer cannot be immediately aware of such maturing from the date on which notice of such maturing is given to the insurer] apply to pay the amount into the Court within the jurisdiction of which is situated the place at which such amount is payable under the terms of the policy or otherwise

(2) A receipt granted by the Court for any such payment shall be a satisfactory discharge to the insurer for the payment of such amount

(3) An application for permission to make a payment into Court under this section shall be made by a petition verified by an affidavit signed by a principal officer of the insurer setting forth the following particulars namely —

- (a) the name of the insured person and his address
- (b) if the insured person is deceased the date and place of his death
- (c) the nature of the policy and the amount secured by it
- (d) the name and address of each claimant so far as is known to the insurer with details of every notice of claim received
- (e) the reasons why in the opinion of the insurer a satisfactory discharge cannot be obtained for the payment of the amount and
- (f) the address at which the insurer may be served with notice of any proceeding relating to disposal of the amount paid into Court

(4) An application under this section shall not be entertained by the Court if the application is made before the expiry of six months ⁴[from the maturing of the policy by survival or from the date of receipt of notice by the insurer of the death of the insured as the case may be]

(5) If it appears to the Court that a satisfactory discharge for the payment of the amount cannot otherwise be obtained by the insurer it shall allow the

(6) The insurer shall transmit to the Court every notice of claim received after the making of the application under sub-section (3), and any payment required by the Court as costs of the proceedings or otherwise in connection with the disposal of the amount paid into Court shall as to the costs of the application under sub-section (3) be borne by the insurer and as to any other costs be in the discretion of the Court.

(7) The Court shall cause notice to be given to every ascertained claimant of the fact that the amount has been paid into Court, and shall cause notice at the cost of any claimant applying to withdraw the amount to be given to every other ascertained claimant.

(8) The Court shall decide all questions relating to the disposal of claims to the amount paid into Court.

48. (1) Where the insurer is a company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act, 1913,¹ [or under the Indian Companies Act, 1882, or under the Indian Companies Act, 1866, or under any Act repealed thereby,] and carries on the business of life insurance, not less than one-fourth of the whole number of the directors of the company² [shall notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Articles of Association of the company be elected in the prescribed manner by the holders of policies of life insurance issued by the company].

³[(2) Only and all persons holding otherwise than as assignees policies of life insurance issued by the company of such minimum amount and having been in force for such minimum period as may be prescribed shall be eligible for election as directors under sub-section (1), and only and all persons holding policies of life insurance issued by the company and having been in force at the time of the election for not less than six months shall be eligible to vote at such elections:

Provided that the assignment of a policy to the person who took out the policy shall not disqualify that person for being eligible for election as a director under sub-section (1).

(3) The Central Government may, for such period, or to such extent and subject to such conditions as may be specified by it in this behalf, exempt from the operation of this section—

(a) any Mutual Insurance Company as defined in clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 95, in respect of which the Superintendent of Insurance certifies that in his opinion owing to the conditions governing membership of the company or to the nature of the insurance contracts undertaken by it the application of the provisions of this sub-section to the company is impracticable, or

(b) any company in respect of which the Superintendent of Insurance certifies that in his opinion the company, having taken all reasonable steps to achieve compliance with the provisions of this section, has been unable to obtain the required number of directors with the required qualifications.]

⁴[(4)] This section shall not take effect, in respect of any company in existence at the commencement of this Act, until the expiry of one year therefrom.

Court of Original Jurisdiction (i.e.) the District Court. Hence District Court has jurisdiction to hear an application instituted under S. 53 of the Insurance Act and not any particular Judge of that Court. 1940 A.M.L.J. 86.

NOTES.

Sec. 53 (1)—Court means principal

(ii) that the company having failed to comply with any requirement of this Act has continued such failure¹ [or having contravened any provision of this Act has continued such contravention] for a period of three months after notice of such failure¹ [or contrivention] has been conveyed to the company by the Superintendent of Insurance,

[(iii) that it appears from the returns furnished under the provisions of this Act or from the results of any investigation made thereunder that the company is insolvent, or

(iv) that the continuance of the company is prejudicial to the interests of the policy holders

54 Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Companies Act 1913, an insurance company shall not be wound up voluntarily except for the purpose of effecting an amalgamation or a reconstruction of the company or on the ground that by reason of its liabilities it cannot continue its business

55 (1) In the winding up of an insurance company or in the insolvency of any other insurer the value of the assets and the liabilities of the insurer shall be ascertained in such manner and upon such basis as the liquidator or receiver in insolvency thinks fit subject so far as applicable to the rule contained in the Sixth Schedule and to any directions which may be given by the Court

(2) For the purposes of any reduction by the Court of the amount of the contracts of any insurance company the value of the assets and liabilities of the company and all claims in respect of policies issued by it shall be ascertained in such manner and upon such basis as the Court thinks proper having regard to the rule aforesaid

(3) The rule in the Sixth Schedule shall be of the same force and may be repealed altered or amended as if it were a rule made in pursuance of section 246 of the Indian Companies Act 1913 and rules may be made under that section for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act with respect to the winding up of insurance companies

56 (1) In the winding up of an insurance company and in the insolvency of any other insurer the value of the assets and the liabilities of the insurer in respect of life insurance business shall be ascertained separately from the value of any other assets or any other liabilities of the insurer and no such assets shall be applied to the discharge of any liabilities other than those in respect of life insurance business except in so far as those assets exceed the liabilities in respect of life insurance business

(2) In the winding up of an insurance company carrying on the business of life insurance or in the insolvency of any other insurer carrying on such business where any proportion of the profits of the insurer was before the commencement of the winding up or insolvency allocated to policy holders if, when the assets and liabilities of the insurer have been ascertained there is found to be a surplus of assets over liabilities (hereinafter referred to as a prima facie surplus) there shall be added to the liabilities of the insurer in respect of the life insurance business an amount equal to such proportion of the prima facie surplus as is equivalent to such proportion of the profits allocated to shareholders and policy holders as was allocated to policy holders during the ten years immediately preceding the commencement of the winding up and the assets of the insurer shall be deemed to exceed his liabilities only in so far as those assets exceed those liabilities after such addition

Provided that—

(a) if in any case there has been no such allocation or if it appears to the Court that by reason of special circumstances it would be inequitable that the amount to be added to the liabilities of the insurer in respect of the life insurance business should be an amount equal to such proportion as aforesaid, the amount to be so added shall be such amount as the Court may direct; and

(b) for the purpose of the application of this sub-section to any case where before the commencement of the winding up or insolvency a proportion of such profits as aforesaid of a branch only of the life insurance business in question has been allocated to policy-holders, the value of the assets and liabilities of the insurer in respect of that branch shall be separately ascertained in like manner as the value of his assets and liabilities in respect of the life insurance business was ascertained, and the surplus so found, if any, of assets over liabilities shall, for the purpose of determining the amount to be added to the liabilities of the insurer in respect of the life insurance business be deemed to be the prima facie surplus.

57. (1) Where the insurance business or any part of the insurance business of an insurance company has been transferred to another insurance company under an arrangement in pursuance of which the first mentioned company (in this section referred to as the secondary company) or the creditors thereof has or have claims against the company to which such transfer was made (in this section referred to as the principal company) then, if the principal company is being wound up by or under the supervision of the Court, the Court shall (subject as hereinafter mentioned) order the secondary company to be wound up in conjunction with the principal company and may by the same or any subsequent order appoint the same person to be liquidator for the two companies and make provision for such other matters as may seem to the Court necessary with a view to the companies being wound up as if they were one company.

(2) The commencement of the winding up of the principal company shall, save as otherwise ordered by the Court, be the commencement of the winding up of the secondary company.

(3) In adjusting the rights and liabilities of the members of the several companies among themselves the Court shall have regard to the constitution of the companies and to the arrangements entered into between the companies in the same manner as the Court has regard to the rights and liabilities of different classes of contributories in the case of the winding up of a single company or as near thereto as circumstances admit.

(4) Where any company alleged to be secondary is not in process of being wound up at the same time as the principal company to which it is alleged to be secondary, the Court shall not direct the secondary company to be wound up, unless, after hearing all objections (if any) that may be urged by or on behalf of the company against its being wound up, the Court is of opinion that the company is secondary to the principal company and that the winding up of the company in conjunction with the principal company is just and equitable.

(5) An application may be made in relation to the winding up of any secondary company in conjunction with the principal company by any creditor of, or person interested in, the principal or secondary company.

(6) Where a company stands in the relation of a principal company to one insurance company and in the relation of a secondary company to some other insurance company or where there are several insurance companies standing in the relation of secondary companies to one principal company, the Court may deal with any number of such companies together or in separate groups as it thinks most expedient upon the principles laid down in this section.

58 (1) If at any time it appears expedient that the affairs of an insurance company in respect of any class of business comprised in the undertaking of the company should be wound up but that any other class of business comprised in the undertaking should continue to be carried on by the company or be transferred to another insurer a scheme for such purposes may be prepared and submitted for confirmation of the Court in accordance with the provisions of this Act

(2) Any scheme prepared under this section shall provide for the allocation and distribution of the assets and liabilities of the company between any classes of business affected (including the allocation of any surplus assets which may arise on the proposed winding up) for any future rights of every class of policy holders in respect of their policies and for the manner of winding up any of the affairs of the company which are proposed to be wound up and may contain provisions for altering the memorandum of the company with respect to its objects and such further provisions as may be expedient for giving effect to the scheme

(3) The provisions of this Act relating to the valuation of liabilities of insurers in liquidation and insolvency and to the application of surplus assets of the life insurance fund in liquidation or insolvency shall apply to the winding up of any part of the affairs of a company in accordance with the scheme under this section in like manner as they apply in the winding up of an insurance company and any scheme under this section may apply with the necessary modifications any of the provisions of the Indian Companies Act 1913 relating to the winding up of companies

(4) An order of the Court confirming a scheme under this section whereby the memorandum of a company is altered with respect to its object shall as respects the alteration have effect as if it were an order confirmed under section 12 of the Indian Companies Act 1913 and the provisions of sections 15 and 16 of that Act shall apply accordingly

59 In the winding up of an insurance company and in the insolvency of any other insurer the liquidator or assignee as the case may be shall apply to the Court for an order for the return of the ¹[deposit made by the company or the insurer as the case may be under section 7 or section 98] and the Court shall on such application order a return of the deposit subject to such terms and conditions as it shall direct

60 In the winding up of an insurance company for the purposes of a cash distribution of the assets and in the insolvency of any other insurer the liquidator or assignee as the case may be in the case of all persons appearing by the books of the company or other insurer to be entitled to or interested in the policies granted by the company or other insurer shall ascertain the value of the liability of the company or other insurer to each such person and shall give notice of such value to those persons in such manner as the Court may direct and any person to whom notice is so given shall be bound by the value so ascertained unless he gives notice of his intention to dispute such value in such manner and within such time as may be specified by a rule or order of the Court

61 (1) Where an insurance company is in liquidation or any other insurer is insolvent the Court may make an order reducing the amount of the insurance contracts of the company or other insurer upon such terms and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks just.

(2) Where a company carrying on the business of Life insurance has been proved to be insolvent, the Court may at its discretion in place of making a winding up order reduce the amount of the insurance contract or the company under such terms and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks fit.

(3) Application for an order under this section may be made either by the liquidator or by or on behalf of the company or by a policy holder, or by the Superintendent of Insurance and the Superintendent of Insurance and any person whom the Court thinks fit to be affected shall be entitled to be heard on any such application.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO EXTERNAL COMPANIES.

62. Where, by the law or practice of any country outside British India in which an insurer carrying on insurance business in British India is constituted, incorporated or domiciled, insurance companies incorporated in British India are required as a condition of carrying on insurance business in that country to comply with any special requirement

whether as to the keeping of accounts or as to the audit thereof or otherwise which is not imposed upon insurers of that country under this Act, the Central Government shall, in satisfaction of the existence of such special requirement, or notification in the Official Gazette, direct that the same requirement or requirements as similar thereto as may be imposed upon insurers of that country as a condition of carrying on the business of insurance in British India.

63. Every insurer having his principal place of business or domicile outside

British India who establishes a place of business within British India, or appoints a representative in British India with a view to obtaining insurance business, shall within three months from the establishment of such place of business or the appointment of such [representative] file with the Superintendent of Insurance—

(a) a certified copy of the charter, statutes, deed of settlement or memorandum and articles or other instrument constituting or defining the constitution of the insurer and, if the instrument is not written in the English language, a certified translation thereof;

(b) a list of the directors, if the insurer is a company;

(c) the name and address of some one or more persons resident in British India authorised to accept on behalf of the insurer service of process and any notice required to be served on the insurer together with a copy of the power conferred thereon;

(d) the full address of the principal office of the insurer in British India;

(e) a statement of the classes of insurance business to be carried on by the insurer and

(f) a statement verified by an affidavit setting forth the special requirements of any of the nature specified in section 62 imposed in the country of origin of the insurer on Indian nationals.

and in the event of any alteration being made in the address of the principal office or in the classes of business to be carried on or in any instrument here referred to or in the name of any of the persons here referred to, the insurer shall be bound to comply with clause (1) above, the company shall be bound to the Superintendent of Insurance particulars of such alteration.

64. Every insurer having his principal place of business or domicile outside

British India shall keep the principal office in British India such books of account, records and documents as will enable him to give a statement and abstracts which he is required to give to the furnish to the Superintendent of Insurance in respect of the insurance business transacted by him, in India to be compiled and, if necessary, checked by the Superintendent of Insurance.

PART III.

PROVIDENT SOCIETIES.

¹[65. (1) In this Part "provident society" means, a person who, or a body which, not being an insurer registered for the time being of persons (whether corporate or unincorporate) under Part II of this Act, carries on the business of insuring the payment, on the happening of any of the contingencies mentioned in sub-section (2), of—

(a) an annuity of or equivalent to fifty rupees or less, payable for an uncertain period; or

(b) a gross sum of five hundred rupees or less, whether paid or payable in a lump sum or in two or more instalments over a certain period, exclusively in both cases (a) and (b) of any profit or bonus not being a guaranteed profit or bonus.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section, a period is "certain" if its duration is ascertainable in advance and "uncertain" if its duration is not so ascertainable.

(2) The contingencies referred to in sub-section (1) are the following, namely:—

(a) the birth, marriage or death of any person or the survival by a person of a stated or implied age or contingency;

(b) failure of issue;

(c) the occurrence of a social, religious or other ceremonial occasion;

(d) loss of or retirement from employment;

(e) disablement in consequence of sickness or accident;

(f) the necessity of providing for the education of a dependent;

(g) any other contingency which may be prescribed or which may be authorised by the Provincial Government with the approval of the Central Government.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1) and (2)—

(a) contracts entered into before the commencement of this Act shall not be taken into account;

(b) two or more policies issued to one person shall, for the purposes of determining whether the limits fixed by sub-section (1) have or have not been exceeded, be deemed to be one policy if the contingencies on the happening of which the sums are payable under the policies (whether the contingencies be the same or different) relate to one person only, whether he be the policy-holder or some other person.

(4) Every person or body of persons for the time being registered as a provident society under the Provident Insurance Societies Act, 1912, and every person or body of persons for the time being registered as a provident society under this Act shall be deemed to be a provident society for all the purposes of this Act.

(5) If any question arises whether any person or body of persons is or is not a provident society within the meaning of this section, the Superintendent of Insurance shall decide the question and his decision shall be final.]

Restrictions on provident societies

67 No provident society established after the commencement of this Act shall adopt as its name, and no provident society established before the commencement of this Act shall continue after the expiry of six months from the commencement thereof to use as its name, any combination of words which fails to include the word "provident" or which includes the word "life"

Name

68 No provident society shall receive any premium or contribution for insuring money to be paid to any person other than the person paying such premium or contribution or the wife, husband, child, grand child, parent, brother or sister, nephew or niece of such a person

Insurable interest

69 (1) No provident society shall carry on any business upon the dividing principle, that is to say, on the principle that the benefit secured by a policy is not fixed but depends either wholly or partly on ²[the results of a distribution of certain sums amongst policies becoming claims within certain time-limits, or on the principle that the premiums payable by a policy holder depend wholly or partly on the number of policies becoming claims within certain time-limits]

Dividing business

(2) The Superintendent of Insurance shall, as soon as possible, take steps to have any provident society which carries on business on the dividing principle wound up

Provided that, where any such provident society in existence at the commencement of this Act applies within three months of such commencement to the Superintendent of Insurance for permission to continue carrying on its business with a view meanwhile to reorganise its business in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Superintendent of Insurance may at his discretion, with due regard to the past history of the society, permit the society to continue business for a period not exceeding two years from the date of receipt of such permission, so however that no new business on the dividing principle is undertaken by the society

³[(3) Where after the commencement of the Insurance (Amendment) Act, 1941, a provident society is to be wound up in pursuance of this section, or where, whether before or after the commencement of that Act, a provident society ceases to carry on business on the dividing principle, the provisions of sub section (2) and sub section (3) of section 52 shall, so far as may be apply in like manner as they apply to an insurer ceasing to carry on business on the dividing principle]

70 (1) No provident society except a provident society registered under the provisions of the Provident Insurance Societies Act, 1912, shall receive any premium or contribution until it has obtained from the Superintendent of Insurance a certificate of registration

Sec 88 —As to winding up of Provident Insurance Society see 30 § L R 92—1936 Sind 165

(2) In addition to the grounds on which such an order may be based, the Court may order the winding up of a provident society, if the registration of the society is cancelled by the Superintendent of Insurance under sub-section (4) of section 70 and he applies for the winding up of the society.

(3) A provident society being a company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, ¹[or under the Indian Companies Act, 1882, or under the Indian Companies Act, 1866, or under any Act repealed thereby], may be wound up voluntarily in accordance with the provisions of ²[the Indian Companies Act, 1913], but shall not be so wound up except for the purpose of effecting an amalgamation or re-construction of the society or on the ground that by reason of its liabilities it cannot continue its business.

(4) A provident society not being a company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, ¹[or under the Indian Companies Act, 1882, or under the Indian Companies Act, 1866, or under any Act repealed thereby], may be wound up voluntarily under this Act if a resolution is passed by the proprietors that the society should be wound up voluntarily for the purpose or on the ground specified in sub-section (3), and the Superintendent of Insurance may, in any case where he has ordered the cancellation of the registration of a society under sub-section (4) of section 70, order the winding up of the society under this Act.

89. The Court may make an order reducing the amount of the insurance contracts of a provident society upon such terms and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks just—

Reduction of Insurance contracts.

(a) if the Superintendent of Insurance as an alternative to cancelling the registration of a society under sub-section (4) of section 70 applies to the Court in this behalf;

(b) if while a society is in liquidation the Court thinks fit;

(c) if when a society has been proved to be insolvent, the Court thinks fit to do so in place of making an order for the winding up of the society; or

(d) if the Court is satisfied on an application made in this behalf by the society supported by the report of an actuary, and after giving the policy-holders an opportunity to be heard that it is desirable to do so.

90. (1) Where a provident society is to be wound up whether under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or under this Act, the society shall, within seven days from the date of the order of the Court ordering the winding up or the passing of the resolution authorising the winding up, as the case may be, give notice thereof to the Superintendent of Insurance, and, except where the winding up is done by an order of the Court, the Superintendent of Insurance shall appoint the liquidator and shall determine the remuneration to be paid to him.

³[Provided that if the Superintendent of Insurance is not satisfied that the assets of the society are sufficient to meet the costs of liquidation including the remuneration of the liquidator, he may decline to make such appointment, and in such a case the society shall itself appoint a liquidator who shall carry out the liquidation as if the winding up was being done by an order of the Court.]

NOTES.

SECS. 90-91.—When a liquidator is appointed in respect of a provident fund by the Superintendent of Insurance under S. 90 (1) of the Act, he has no powers under S.

91 (2) of the Act of 'realising the amount of contribution' except such powers as an official liquidator has in a winding up order of the Court. He cannot by himself make a call. The making of a call cannot be said to be merely the determination of the contribution to be made by the members within the meaning of S. 91 (1) (b) of the Act. 1942 A. 136=1942 A.L.J. 47=199 I.C. 663.

(2) Any liquidator ¹[appointed by the Superintendent of Insurance under sub section (1)] may be removed by the Superintendent of Insurance if satisfied that the duties entrusted to him are not being properly discharged

Powers of liquidator 91 (1) A liquidator appointed to wind up a society shall have power—

(a) to institute or defend any legal proceedings on behalf of the society by his name or office,

(b) to determine the contribution to be made by members of the society respectively to the assets of the society,

(c) to investigate all claims against the society and to decide questions of priority arising between claimants

(d) to determine by what persons and in what proportion the costs of the liquidation ²[including the remuneration of the liquidator and any expenses incurred under clause (g) of this sub section] are to be borne

(e) to give such directions in regard to the collection and distribution of the assets of the society as may appear to him to be necessary for winding up the affairs of the society

(f) to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and to compel the production of documents by the same means and as far as may be in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure 1908, and

(g) with the sanction of the Superintendent of Insurance to employ such establishment and to obtain such assistance from an actuary or an auditor as may be necessary for the discharge of his duties

(2) The liquidator shall for settling the list of contributors and realising the amount of contributions have the same powers as an official liquidator appointed by the Court for the winding up of a company under the Indian Companies Act 1913

Procedure at liquidation 92 (1) As soon as a liquidator is appointed to wind up a society he shall take charge of all property movable or immovable of the society and of all its books and documents

(2) If any proprietor or officer of the society or any other person retains any portion of the assets of the society or fails to deliver to the liquidator any book or document when so required by the liquidator he shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees or with both and the Court may order the delivery of the assets or book or document to the liquidator

(3) The liquidator shall within fifteen days of his appointment send notice by post to all persons who appear to him to be creditors of the society that a meeting of the creditors of the society will be held on a date not being less than twenty one nor more than twenty eight days after his appointment and at a place and hour to be specified in the notice and shall also advertise notice of the meeting once in the local official Gazette and once at least in two newspapers circulating in the province in which the society is situated

(4) At the meeting so held the creditors shall determine whether an application shall be made for the appointment of any person as liquidator in the place of or jointly with the liquidator already appointed or for the appointment of a committee of inspection and if they so resolve and an application accordingly is made at any time not later than fourteen days after the date of the meeting by any creditor appointed for the purpose at the meeting the Superintendent of Insurance shall appoint a suitable person in place of or jointly with the liquidator already appointed and if so desired a committee of inspection

(5) The committee of inspection shall, subject to any prescribed conditions, have a general power of supervision over the acts of the liquidator and shall have the right to inspect his accounts at all reasonable times. ~ 1

(6) The liquidator shall, with such assistance from an actuary as may be required, ascertain as soon as practicable the amount of the society's liability to every person appearing by the society's books to be entitled to or interested in any policy issued by the society, and shall give notice of the amount so found to each such person in the prescribed manner and each such person on receiving such notice shall be bound by the value so ascertained.

(7) The liquidator shall make a valuation of the assets of the society and an estimate of the costs of the winding up, and shall on the basis of these, settle the list of contributories.

(8) The liquidator shall apply to the Superintendent of Insurance for an order for the return of the deposit made by the society under section 73 and the Superintendent of Insurance shall on such application order the return of the deposit subject to such terms and conditions as he may think fit.

(9) In administering and distributing the assets of the society the liquidator shall have regard to any directions that may be given by the creditors or contributories at a general meeting or by the Superintendent of Insurance

(10) The liquidator shall keep books of account in which he shall record the proceedings at all meetings attended by him, all amounts received or expended by him and any other matter that may be prescribed, and these books may, with the sanction of the Superintendent of Insurance, be inspected by any creditor or contributory.

(11) If the winding up continues for more than a year, the liquidator shall summon a meeting of the creditors and contributories at the end of the first year and of each succeeding year, and shall lay before them an account of his acts and dealings and of the conduct of the winding up, and that account together with any views expressed thereon by the meeting shall be forwarded by the liquidator to the Superintendent of Insurance

(12) So far as is not otherwise provided herein or is not otherwise prescribed under this Act, the liquidator shall so far as practicable follow the procedure to be followed by an official liquidator appointed by the Court for the winding up of a company under the Indian Companies Act, 1913.

93. (1) As soon as the affairs of a provident society are fully wound up, the liquidator shall prepare an account of the winding up showing how the winding up has been conducted and the property of the society has been disposed of and shall call a meeting of the members, creditors and contributories for the purpose of laying before it the account and giving any explanation thereof.

(2) Notice of the meeting shall be sent to each person individually and shall be advertised in the local official Gazette and in at least two newspapers circulating in the province in which the society is situated

(3) Within one week after the meeting the liquidator shall send to the Superintendent of Insurance a copy of the account and shall report to him the holding of the meeting and its date and shall forward to him a copy of the proceedings of the meeting.

(4) The Superintendent of Insurance may return the account to the liquidator if it is incomplete or unsatisfactory and may require the liquidator to carry out any further steps necessary to complete the winding up and the liquidator shall comply with such requirement and shall submit a further report to the Superintendent of Insurance within six months

(5) If the Superintendent of Insurance is satisfied that the affairs of the society have been fully wound up he shall register the account of the liquidator who shall forthwith make over to the Superintendent of Insurance sums if any, remaining undisposed of, and on the expiry of three months from the registering of the account the Superintendent of Insurance shall declare the society dissolved and cause the dissolution of the society to be notified in the local official Gazette, and the liquidator shall thereupon be discharged from further responsibility

(6) If within a period of five years from the date on which any sums have been made over to the Superintendent of Insurance under sub section (5) an order of a Court of competent jurisdiction has not been obtained at the instance of any claimant to such sums for their disposal the said sums shall become the property of Government

94 (1) The provisions of section 38 and section 39 relating to assignment, transfer and nomination in the case of life insurance policies shall subject to the provisions of this section, apply to policies of insurance issued by any provident society covering any of the contingencies specified in clause (a) of section 65

(2) No nomination shall be valid if the person nominated is not the husband wife father, mother, child, grand child, brother, sister, nephew or niece of the holder of the policy attached to the policy and every such policy issued by an insurer shall show the guaranteed surrender value of the policy at the close of each year after the second year of its currency or at the close of each period of three years throughout the currency of the policy

Provided that the requirements of this sub section as to the addition of the surrender value of the bonus attaching to a policy at surrender shall be deemed to have been complied with where the method of calculation of the guaranteed surrender value of the policy makes provision for the surrender value of the bonus attaching to the policy

Provided further that the requirements of this sub section as to the showing of the guaranteed surrender value on a policy shall be deemed to have been complied with where the insurer shows on the policy the guaranteed surrender value of the policy by means of a formula accepted in this behalf by the Superintendent of Insurance as satisfying the said requirements

Provided further that the provisions of this sub-section as to the showing of the guaranteed surrender value on a policy shall not take effect until after the expiry of six months from such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint in this behalf

(2) Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, a policy which has acquired a surrender value shall not lapse by reason of the non payment of further premiums but shall be kept alive to the extent of the paid up sum insured and the paid up sum insured shall for the purposes of this sub section include in full all subsisting reversionary bonuses that have already attached to the policy, and shall, where the policy is one on which the maximum number of annual premiums payable is fixed and the premiums are of uniform amount, before the inclusion of such bonuses not less than the amount bearing to the total sum insured by the policy exclusive of bonuses the same proportion as the total period for which premiums have already been paid bears to the maximum period for which premiums were originally payable

THE FIRST SCHEDULE

(See Section 11)

Regulations and Forms for the preparation of Balance Sheet

PART I

Regulations

1 The balance sheet required to be prepared in respect of every class of business carried on by an insurer is in the form in which it is set out in Part II of this Schedule (Form A), appropriate to a case where the insurer maintains a separate fund in respect of life insurance business

2 The balance sheet of life insurance business shall be prepared as a separate document. The balance sheet of any class of business may be prepared as a separate document instead of being incorporated by the addition of columns and headings in the general balance sheet but the totals of each such separate balance sheet (showing the total assets of the class of business the balance at the credit of the life insurance fund or other separate fund or account the amount of shareholders undivided profits and outstanding liabilities) must in any case be incorporated in the general balance sheet

3 If any combined balance sheet is for any purpose issued by an insurer it shall be in accordance with the Form set out in this Schedule and there shall not be included among the assets shown in any such combined balance sheet any amount in respect of any holding in or advance to any insurer whose assets and liabilities have been incorporated therein. Every combined balance sheet must show clearly on the face thereof that it is a combined balance sheet and must set out fully the name of every insurer whose assets and liabilities have been incorporated therein, if the assets and liabilities of any person not being an insurer are included in a combined balance sheet the fact must be stated thereon

4 Where any guarantee has been given by an insurer (otherwise than in the ordinary course of re insurance business) in respect of the policies of any other insurer the balance sheet of the insurer by whom the guarantee was given must show clearly the name of every insurer whose policies have been so guaranteed and the extent of the guarantee

Provided that this regulation shall not apply where a combined balance sheet is issued incorporating the assets and liabilities of the insurer whose policies are guaranteed

5 Where any part of the assets of an insurer is deposited in any place outside British India as security for the owners of policies issued in that place the balance sheet shall state that part of the assets has been so deposited and if any such part forms part of the life insurance fund shall show the amount thereof and the place where it is deposited. Where any combined balance sheet is issued by an insurer for any purpose the information required by this regulation shall be shown in the aggregate in respect of all the insurers whose assets and liabilities have been incorporated in the balance sheet

6 There shall be appended to the balance sheet a statement in Form AA as set out in Part II of this Schedule showing the market value and the book value of the assets in India

7 Every balance sheet shall contain the following certificates namely —

(a) a certificate signed by the same persons as are required by this Act to sign the balance sheet explaining how the values as shown in the balance sheet of the investments in Stocks and Shares have been arrived at and how the market value thereof has been ascertained for the purpose of comparison with the values so shown,

(b) a certificate signed by the same persons as are required by this Act to sign the balance sheet and signed also so far as respects the value of any items shown in the balance sheet under the heading of "Reversions and Life Interests" by an actuary certifying that the values of all the assets have been reviewed as at the date of the balance sheet, and that in their belief the assets set forth in the balance sheet are shown in the aggregate at amounts not exceeding their realisable or market value under the several headings—"Loans", "Reversions and Life Interests", "Investments", "Agent's Balances", "Outstanding Premiums", "Interest Dividends and Rents outstanding", "Interest, Dividends and Rents accruing but not due", "Amounts due from other Persons or Bodies carrying on Insurance Business", "Sundry Debtors", "Bills Receivable", "Cash" and the several items specified under "Other Accounts"

Provided that if the persons signing the certificate are unable to certify that the assets set forth in the balance sheet are so shown as aforesaid, a full explanation of the bases upon which the values shown in the balance sheet have been assessed shall be given in the certificate,

(c) a certificate signed by the same persons as are required by this Act to sign the balance sheet and by the auditor certifying that no parts of the assets of the life insurance fund has been directly or indirectly applied in contravention of the provisions of this Act relating to the application and investment of life insurance funds, and

(d) certificates signed by the auditor (which shall be in addition to any other certificate or report which he is required by law to give with respect to the balance sheet) certifying—

(i) that he has verified the cash balances and the securities relating to the insurer's loans reversions and life interests and investments,

(ii) to what extent if any he has verified the investments and transactions relating to any trusts undertaken by the insurer as trustee, and

(iii) in the case of a combined balance sheet that he has audited the balance sheet and accounts of every insurer whose assets and liabilities are incorporated therein or that any such balance sheet and accounts which have not been audited by him have been certified by independent auditors. The said certificate shall contain a reference to such reservations if any as may have been made by any auditor upon any report or certificate given by him with respect to the balance sheet and accounts of any insurer whose assets and liabilities are incorporated in the combined balance sheet

8 If the values shown in the balance sheet in respect of 'Holdings in Subsidiary Companies' or 'House property (i) in India (ii) out of India' have been increased since the last previous balance sheet the certificate required by paragraph (b) of the last foregoing regulation shall state the amount of every increase not solely due to the cost of subsequent additions or, as respects holdings in controlled companies, to increased profits and shall contain an explanation of the reason therefor

9 For the purposes of this Schedule the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them namely —

(a) combined balance sheet includes any combined statement made by an insurer of assets and liabilities in the form of a balance sheet which includes the assets and liabilities of any other insurer, and

(b) 'market value' means as respects any assets the market value thereof as ascertained from published market quotations or if there be no such value, its fair value as between a willing buyer and a willing seller

THE FOURTH SCHEDULE.

(See section 13.)

Regulations for the preparation of Abstracts of Actuaries' Reports and Requirements applicable to such Abstracts.

PART I.

Regulations.

1. Abstracts and Statements must be so arranged that the numbers and letters of the paragraphs correspond with those of the paragraphs of Part II of this Schedule.

2. In showing the proportion which that part of the annual premiums reserved as a provision for future expenses and profits bears to the total of the annual premiums, in accordance with the requirements of ¹[paragraph 4] of Part II of this Schedule no credit is to be taken for any adjustments made in order to secure that no policy is treated as an asset.

3. (1) The average rate of interest yielded in any year by the assets constituting a life insurance fund shall, for the purposes of ²[paragraph 5] of Part II of this Schedule, be calculated by dividing the interest of the year by the mean fund of the year; and for the purposes of any such calculation the interest of the year shall be taken to be the whole of the interest credited to the life insurance fund during the year after deduction of income-tax charged thereon (any refund of income tax in respect of expenses of management made during the year being taken into account), and the mean fund of the year shall be ascertained by adding a sum equal to one-half of the amount of the life insurance fund at the beginning of the year to a sum equal to one-half of that fund at the end of the year, and deductions from the aggregate of those two sums an amount equal to one half of the interest of the year.

(2) For the purposes of the calculation aforesaid either—

(a) all profits and income arising during the year from sums invested in reversionaries shall be included in the interest credited to the life insurance fund during the year; or

(b) such portion of the life insurance fund as is invested in the purchase of reversionaries, and the profits and income arising therefrom shall be excluded from the calculation; but in that case a statement must be added to the information required under the said ³[paragraph 5], showing in respect of the portion of the fund excluded as aforesaid, the average rate of annual profit and income for which credit has been taken during the five years last preceding the valuation date, and explaining the manner in which the said average rate has been calculated.

(3) The information given in accordance with the requirements of the said ⁴[paragraph 5] shall show clearly by which of the methods hereinbefore in this regulation mentioned the sums invested in reversionaries and the profits and income arising therefrom have been dealt with.

4. Every abstract prepared in accordance with the requirements of Part II of this Schedule shall be signed by an actuary and shall contain a certificate by him to the effect that he has satisfied himself as to the accuracy of the valuations made for the purposes thereof and of the valuation data.

Provided that in the case of an abstract prepared on behalf of ⁵[an insurer], if the actuary who signs the abstract is not a permanent officer of ⁶[the insurer] the certificate as to the accuracy of the valuation data shall be given and signed by the principal officer of ⁷[the insurer] and the actuary shall include in the abstract a statement signed by him showing what precautions he has taken to ensure the accuracy of the data.

5. For the purposes of the Schedule the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, namely—

"extra premium" means a charge for any risk not provided for in the minimum contract premium.

"inter-valuation period" means, as respects any valuation, the period to the valuation date of that valuation from the valuation date of the last preceding valuation in connection with which an abstract was prepared under this Act or under the enactments repealed by this Act, or, in a case where no such valuation has been made in respect of the class of business in question, from the date on which the insurer began to carry on that class of business;

"maturity date" means the fixed date on which any benefit will become payable either absolutely or contingently;

³ Substituted for the words "an insurance company", ibid.

⁴ Substituted for the words "the company", ibid.

"net premiums" means as respects any valuation the premiums taken credit for in the valuation;

"premium term" means the period during which premiums are payable;

"valuation date" means as respects any valuation the date as at which the valuation is made.

PART II.

Requirements applicable to an Abstract in respect of Life Insurance Business.

The following tabular statements shall be annexed to every abstract prepared in accordance with the requirements of this Part of this Schedule, namely:—

(a) a Consolidated Revenue Account, in the Form G annexed to this Part of this Schedule, for the inter-valuation period (except that it shall not be necessary to prepare such an account in respect of any class of business so long as the insurer deposits annually with the Superintendent of Insurance an abstract in respect of that class of business); and

(b) a Summary and Valuation in the Form H annexed to this Part of this Schedule of the policies included at the valuation date in the class of business to which the abstract relates; and

(c) a Valuation Balance-Sheet in the Form I annexed to this Part of this Schedule; and

(d) a statement in Form DDD as set forth in Part II of the Third Schedule of the additions to and deductions from the number of policies and the sums insured thereunder for each class of life insurance [for the inter-valuation period (except that it shall not be necessary to prepare such statement in respect of any class of business so long as the insurer deposits annually with the Superintendent of Insurance an abstract in respect of that class of business).]

and every such abstract shall show—

1. The valuation date.

2. The general principles and full details of the methods adopted in the valuation of each of the various classes of insurances and annuities shown in the said Form H, including statements on the following points:—

(a) whether the principles were determined by the instruments constituting the company or by its regulations or bye-laws or how otherwise;

(b) the method by which the net premiums have been arrived at and how the ages at entry, premium terms and maturity dates have been treated for the purpose of the valuation;

(c) the methods by which the valuation age, period from the valuation date to the maturity date, and the future premium terms, have been treated for the purpose of the valuation;

(d) the rate of bonus taken into account where by the method of valuation definite provision is made for the maintenance of a specific rate of bonus;

(e) the method of allowing for—

(i) the incidence of the premium income; and

(ii) premiums payable otherwise than annually;

(f) the methods by which provision has been made for the following matters, namely:—

(i) the immediate payment of claims;

(ii) future expenses and profits in the case of limited payment and paid-up policies;

(iii) the reserve in respect of lapsed policies, not included in the valuation, but under which a liability exists or may arise; and whether any reserves have been made for the matters aforesaid;

(g) whether under the valuation method adopted any policy would be treated as an asset, and, if so, what steps, if any, have been taken to eliminate such asset;

(h) a statement of the manner in which policies on under-average lives and policies subject to premiums which include a charge for climatic, military or other extra risks have been dealt with; and

(i) the rates of exchange at which liabilities in respect of policies issued in foreign currencies have been converted into rupees and what provision has been made for possible increase of liability arising from future variations in the rates of exchange.

3. The table of mortality used, and the rate of interest assumed, in the valuation.

THE FIFTH SCHEDULE.

(See section 13)

Regulations for preparing statements of business in force and requirements applicable to such statements

PART I.

Regulations

1. Statements prepared under this Schedule must be prepared, so far as practicable, in tabular form and must be identified by numbers and letters corresponding with those of the paragraphs of Part II of this Schedule.

2. Except with respect to rates of premium or contribution, items in statements prepared under this Schedule are to be shown to the nearest rupee.

3. Extra premium shown in the forms of Summary and Valuation prepared under the Fourth Schedule to this Act must not be included in statements prepared under this Schedule.

4. Every statement prepared under this Schedule shall be signed by the actuary making the investigation in connection with which it is prepared.

5. For the purposes of this Schedule the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, namely—

(a) "annual loading" means the provision made for future expenses and profits,
(b) "extra premiums" means a charge for any risk not provided for in the minimum contract premium,

(c) "net premiums" means the premiums taken credit for in the valuation in connection with which any statement is prepared, and

(d) "valuation date" means as respects any valuation the date as at which the valuation is made.

PART II

Requirements for statements applicable to Life Insurance Business

The statements required to be prepared under this Part of this Schedule are as follows, namely—

1. Statements, separately prepared in respect of policies with and without participation in profits showing—

(a) as respects policies for the whole term of life, the rates of office premiums charged, in accordance with the published tables in use, for new policies giving the rates for decennial ages at entry from 20 to 70 inclusive, and

(b) as respects endowment insurance policies the rates of office premiums charged, in accordance with the published tables in use, for new policies with original terms of ten, fifteen, twenty, thirty and forty years giving the rates for decennial ages at entry from 20 to 40 inclusive, but excluding policies under which the age at maturity, exceeds 60.

2. Statements, separately prepared in respect of policies with immediate profits, with deferred, profits, with profits under discounted bonus systems and without profits, showing in quinquennial groups—

(a) as respect policies for the whole term of life—

(i) the total amount assured (specifying sums assured and reversionary bonuses separately), grouped according to ages attained, and

(ii) the amount per annum, after deducting abatements made by application of bonus of office premiums payable throughout life, and of the corresponding net premiums grouped according to ages attained, and

(iii) the amount per annum after deducting abatements made by application of bonus, of office premiums payable for a limited number of years, and, either, the corresponding net premiums grouped in accordance with the grouping adopted for the purposes of the valuation, or, the annual loading reserved for the remaining duration of the policies, grouped according to ages attained;

(b) as respects endowment insurance policies—

(i) the total amount assured (specifying sums assured and reversionary bonuses separately), grouped in accordance with the grouping adopted for the purposes of the valuation, and

(ii) the amount per annum, after deducting abatements made by application of bonus, of office premiums payable, and of the corresponding net premiums, grouped in accordance with the grouping adopted for the purposes of the valuation.

Provided that—

(a) as respects endowment insurance policies which will reach maturity in less than five years, the information required by sub-paragraph (b) (i) of this paragraph must be given for each year instead of in quinquennial groups, and

(b) where the office premiums payable under policies for the whole term of life for a limited number of years or the office premiums payable under endowment insurance policies or the corresponding net premiums are grouped for the purposes of the valuation otherwise than according to the number of years payments remaining to be made or, where the sums assured under endowment insurance policies are grouped for the purposes of the valuation otherwise than according to the years in which the policies will mature for payment or in which they are assumed to mature if earlier than the true year, then, in any such case the valuation constants and an explanation of the method by which they are calculated must be given for each group and in the case of the sums assured under endowment insurance policies a statement must also be given of the amount assured maturing for payment in each of the two years following the valuation date

3 Statements as respects any policies in force under which premiums cease to be payable whether permanently or temporarily, during disability arising from sickness or accident, showing the total amount of the office premiums payable

4 Statements as respects immediate annuities on single lives for the whole term of life, separately prepared in respect of annuities on male and female lives showing in quinquennial age groups the total amount of such annuities

5 Statements as respects deferred annuities separately prepared in respect of annuities on male and female lives showing the specimen reserve values for annuities of one hundred rupees which will be produced on maturity on the basis of valuation adopted at ages in the case of male lives 60 and 65 and in the case of female lives 55 and 60, the said statements must show the specimen reserve values which will be produced under the table of annual premiums in use for new policies and if under any other table of annual premiums in use for any other deferred annuity policies in force smaller reserve values will be produced the like specimens of these must also be given

6 Statements as respects any policies of insurance upon the lives of a group of persons whereby sums assured are payable in respect of the several persons included in the group showing the total claims paid since the date as at which the last statements were prepared under this Part of this Schedule or where no such statements have been prepared since the date on which the insurer began to carry on the class of business to which the statements relate and the reserve for unexpired risks and outstanding claims

THE SIXTH SCHEDULE

(See section 55)

Rule as to the valuation of the Liabilities of an insurer in Insolvency or Liquidation

The liabilities of an insurer in respect of current contracts effected in the course of life insurance business including annuity business shall be calculated by the method and upon the basis to be determined by an actuary approved by the Court and the actuary so approved shall in determining as aforesaid take into account—

(a) the purpose for which such valuation is to be made

(b) the rate of interest and the rates of mortality and sickness to be used in valuation, and

(c) any special directions which may be given by the Court

The liabilities of an insurer in respect of current policies other than life policies shall be such portion of the last premium paid as is proportionate to the unexpired portion of the policy in respect of which the premium was paid

THE INSURANCE DEPOSITS (TEMPORARY REDUCTION) ACT (I OF 1941)

[3rd March, 1941]

An Act to provide for the reduction temporarily of the amounts payable as instalments of the sum to be deposited by an insurer under section 7 of the Insurance Act 1938

WHEREAS in consequence of conditions arising out of the present war, it is expedient to provide for the reduction temporarily of the amounts payable as instalments of the sum to be deposited by an insurer under section 7 of the Insurance Act 1938,

It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title and extent

1 (1) This Act may be called THE INSURANCE DEPOSITS (TEMPORARY REDUCTION) ACT 1941

(2) It extends to the whole of British India

2 In this Act "insurer" means an insurer as defined in clause (9) of section 2 of the Insurance Act, 1938, except that it does not include a Mutual Insurance Company or a Co-operative Life Insurance Society to which Part IV of that Act applies

3 (1) An insurer entitled to the benefits of this Act shall, subject to the provisions of section 5, be deemed in respect of any instalment of the deposit to be made by him under section 7 of the Insurance Act, 1938, which he was required to pay during the year commencing on the 1st day of January, 1940, or which he may be required to pay at any time after the end of that year and so long as this section continues to have effect, to have complied with the provisions of the said section 7 as to payment of instalments of deposits, if he has paid or pays in accordance with the provisions of that section not less than one half the total amount which would have been required by that section as the instalment, had the insurer not availed himself of the provisions of this Act

(2) If an insurer entitled to the benefits of this Act, when paying an instalment of deposit, has, in respect of any instalment due during the year commencing on the 1st day of January, 1940, paid more than one half the total amount required by the said section 7 as the instalment, he may at his option have the amount of any such surplus payment appropriated to the payment of the next or any subsequent instalment of deposit required from him under the said section 7 read with sub section (1) of this section

(3) This section shall cease to have effect on the expiration of one year from such date as may be fixed, for the purposes of this Act, by the Central Government by notification in the official Gazette as the date of termination of the present hostilities

4 An insurer shall be entitled to the benefits of this Act only if—

(a) he carries on life insurance business only, and

(b) the date on which he first assumed risk on any policy issued by him was earlier than the 3rd day of September, 1939, but not earlier than the 3rd day of September, 1929

5 (1) An insurer otherwise entitled to the benefits of this Act shall cease to be so entitled in any year if in the preceding year his total premium income, including annuity considerations, as shown in the revenue account prepared under the Insurance Act 1938, exceeded rupees thirty thousand.

(2) An insurer otherwise entitled to the benefits of this Act shall cease to be so entitled in respect of any future instalment—

(a) if after the 1st day of January, 1941, he declares any bonus or dividend at a rate higher than the rate at which such bonuses or dividends were last declared by him before the 3rd day of September, 1939, or

(b) if the proportion of his renewal premium income spent by him in payment of commission and other expenses including capital expenditure, determined in accordance with Rule 25 of the Insurance Rules, 1939, exceeds in any year the proportion as so determined for the accounting period ending on the 31st day of December, 1939

6. (1) When section 3 ceases to have effect, or if before that date an insurer ceases under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 5 to be entitled to the benefits of this Act, instalments of deposits shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of section 7 of the Insurance Act, 1938 (except that no insurer shall be required to pay as an instalment an amount exceeding the amount which would have been payable by him had he not availed himself of the provisions of this Act), until the last instalment required to be paid under the said section 7 has been paid and the balance of the deposit then remaining unpaid in consequence of the reduced instalments authorised under this Act shall be paid by the insurer in such further instalments of such amount and at such times as the Central Government may direct

(2) If while section 3 continues to have effect an insurer ceases in any year under sub section (1) of section 5 to be entitled to the benefits of this Act, instalments of deposit in that year shall be paid by him in accordance with the provisions of section 7 of the Insurance Act 1938 except that he shall not be required to pay as an instalment an amount exceeding the amount which would have been payable by him had he not availed himself of the provisions of this Act and the provisions of sub section (1) of this section shall apply to the payment by such insurer of any balance of the deposit due from him which remains unpaid after the last instalment required to be paid under the said section 7 has been paid

7 For the purposes of the Insurance Act 1938 an insurer entitled to the benefits of this Act who has failed to pay before the 1st day of January, 1941, an instalment of deposit due in the year 1940 shall not be liable to any consequences on that account in respect of a failure to comply with the provisions of section 7 of the said Act as to deposits if before the 15th day of February, 1941, he has paid as such instalment not less than one half the total amount required by the said section 7

8 If any difficulty arises in determining the amount payable as an instalment of deposit by an insurer under this Act the matter shall be decided by the Central Government whose decision shall be final

INTEREST—POST DECREE—DISCRETION OF COURT.—Though it is correct to allow interest at the bond rate up to the expiry of the period of grace, there is nothing in the Code compelling the Court to do so. The statutory authority for allowing interest at bond rate beyond the date of the preliminary decree appears to be in O 34, r 11 and even that only says that the Court "may" order 140 I C 104=13 Pat L T 545=1932 P 332. See also 59 C 722=139 I C 455=1932 C 689. Interest can be allowed under this Act as damages for the breach of contract which occurs when the debt is wrongfully detained after it has fallen due, and it can be allowed only in a suit brought within six years of such breach under Art 116. There can be no recurring cause of action in such cases, and the starting point for limitation is the date of failure to pay the money. If however, the interest in question is "money charged on land" the article applicable would be Art 132 and not Art 116. 18 M 331. Effect of Contract Act, S 73. On this Act see 7 M L J 264=24 M 481. This Act provides for the award of interest on debts in certain cases, and provides that, where the conditions required by the Act are satisfied, interest will be recoverable, quite irrespective of the question whether any actual loss or damage has been caused to the creditor, but compensation under S. 73 of the Contract Act will not be recoverable by the creditor from the debtor on the ground that the payment of the money due to him has been withheld by the debtor, unless he can show that actual loss or damage has been caused to him 26 C 655. CERTAIN TIME.—See 9 Bom H C 7, 7 B. H C (A C) 89. When by a contract, a sum of money is payable at a time certain, and upon a sum to be ascertained on a certain date, but a dispute occurs as to the amount which is settled by the Court, interest is payable 32 C L J 239. Interest pending suit is not claimable in a suit for unliquidated damages. See 60 I C 288, 26 S L R 167=1932 Sind 9. In a suit to recover the value of certain articles entrusted with the defendant, interest cannot be allowed on the amount decreed, as it will be tantamount to awarding damages upon damages 137 I C 217=9 O W N 239=1932 O 165. The mere fact that the contract does not come within the protection afforded by the Act is not a reason for holding that it is not controlled by the Act. The term 'payable at a certain time' in the Act refers to payment agreed between parties and not under a presumption of law 40 M L J 18=12 L W 568. See also 8 L 524=1927 L 287. A sum certain is not payable by the written instrument at a time certain if its payment is contingent upon events which may never happen and the amount payable is capable of ascertainment only if and when those events happen and the time for the happening of those events, if they ever do happen, may be indefinitely postponed and no interest can be allowed on such sum 119 I C 615=1929 P C 185=77 M L J 662 (P C).

INSTALLMENT BONDS.—In case of instalment bonds where there is a double penalty, namely enhanced interest on defaulted instalments and an exigibility clause in case of certain defaults, the correct method in granting interest is to allow the enhanced interest on the defaulted instalments up to the date when the exigibility clause comes into operation and then from that date to allow interest at the original rate on the whole principal amount till the date of suit. From the date of suit further interest may be allowed on the whole sum found due until the date fixed for payment 142 I C 603=1933 N. 104 (Relying on 1929 N. 6).

CURRENT RATE OF INTEREST.—Where a certain sum of money is payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, the Court can under the Interest Act allow interest, if it thinks fit, at a rate not exceeding the current rate, from the time when the money is payable Where there is no certainty, a rate of one per cent per mensem, is not unreasonable 52 I C 953 (N) As to what is reasonable rate of interest, see 1939 All 308=I L R (1939) All 399 (Promote) 1939 All 323, 1937 Pat 73, 1939 Pat 552, 1939 Pat 203

IF SUCH DEBTS BE PAYABLE BY VIRTUE OF SOME WRITTEN INSTRUMENT.—A certificate of the Administrator-General admitting a debt to be due is not a "written instrument" such as is contemplated by the Act, because the amount mentioned therein is not payable by virtue of the certificate, which merely purports to certify the registration of the amount of the admitted debt for the purpose of convenience in administering the estate 25 C 54 See also 75 I C 64=1923 L 302 It is doubtful whether a decree or an order of a Settlement Officer under S 40, Act XVII of 1876, is a written instrument within the meaning of the Interest Act 1 O C 94 A principal is not entitled to interest on moneys received and detained by the agent on behalf of the principal in the absence of a contract to the contrary 41 A 254=17 A L J 169=49 I C 696 Interest is not allowed in a suit for recovery of money for use and occupation, because such sums are not payable by an instrument in writing and at a certain time 9 I C 221 (Oudh)

THE KAZIS ACT (XII OF 1880)

PREFATORY NOTE—The following are extracts from the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Bill and Proceedings in Council in connection with the passing of the Kazis Act —

“Under the Muhammadan Law the Kazi was chiefly a judicial officer. His principal powers and duties are stated at some length in the Hedaya (Book XX). He was appointed by the State and may be said to have corresponded to our Judge or Magistrate. In addition however to his functions under the Muhammadan Law, the Kazi in this country before the advent of British rule appears to have performed certain other duties partly of a secular and partly of a religious nature. The principal duties seem to have been preparing attesting and registering deeds of transfer of property, celebrating marriages and performing other rites and ceremonies. It is not apparent that any of these duties were incumbent on the Kazi as such. It is probable that the customary performance of them by him arose rather from his being a public functionary and one known by his official position to be acquainted with the law than from his having as Kazi a greater claim to perform them than any one else. Such was the position of the Kazi in this country under the Muhammadan Government. On the introduction of the British rule Judges and Magistrates took the place of Kazis and the Kazi in his judicial capacity disappeared but the British Government though no longer recognizing the judicial functions of the Kazi did not abolish the office. By certain Regulation viz Bengal Regulation (XXXIX of 1793) for Bengal Bihar and Orissa, Bengal Regulation (XIX of 1795) for Benares Bengal Regulation (XLVI of 1803) for the Ceded Provinces, Madras Regulation (III of 1808) for Madras, Bombay Regulation (XXVI of 1827) for Bombay passed from time to time the appointment of Kazi ul Kuzaat and Kazis by the State was provided for and the performance of their non judicial duties was recognized by law. In the case of Bengal, indeed certain additional duties were imposed on them. The duties of the Kazi under these Regulations comprised some or all of the following, viz —

- (1) preparing and attesting deeds of transfer and other law papers
- (2) celebrating marriages and presiding at divorces,
- (3) performing various rites and ceremonies
- (4) superintending the sale of distrained property and paying charitable and other pensions and allowances

In the course of subsequent legislation the first and last of the above duties devolved on officers specially appointed for the purpose and there remained nothing to be performed by the Kazi but the second and third which were purely ceremonial. Under these circumstances it appeared no longer necessary that the Government should appoint these officers. Accordingly in 1864 by Act XI of that year, all the regulations relating to the appointment of Kazis by Government and the duties to be discharged by them were repealed but in order that it might be clear that no interference with the ceremonial functions of these officers was intended a section was added to that Act as follows —“Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed so as to prevent a Kazi ul Kuzaat or other Kazi from performing when required to do so any duties or ceremonies prescribed by the Muhammadan Law”. (See section 2 of Act XI of 1864.)

Certain of his duties having thus survived the passing of Act XI of 1864 the Kazi is still a functionary of considerable importance in the Muhammadan community. What was originally in some sense an accidental adjunct of his judicial office has become his principal and only duty, and in some parts of the country at least the presence of a Kazi at certain rites and ceremonies appears now to be considered by the Muhammadans essential from their point of view.

Act XI of 1864 has however raised a difficulty of a sort which was not anticipated at the time it was passed. As mentioned above, the Kazi was under Muhammadan Law appointed by the State and it had been held by the Courts, both of Bombay and Madras such a position that any bias in favour of one side or the other can be imputed to him. Actual bias need not be proved if the relationship is such that bias may seem likely. It is impossible to say that a debtor is not from the nature of the case subject to bias in favour of a creditor who can call in his money. It is not enough for the Court to say it is satisfied that in a particular case no bias existed or was shown. It is necessary that the position be such that the general public may feel confident that justice has been done by an impartial tribunal and it is of the highest importance that this principle should not be encroached upon. The Assistant Tauxg Master of the High Court taxed three bills of costs of the respondent bank against the applicant. At the time he was a debtor of the respondent bank but he did not disclose the fact at the time. Held that the officer was not competent to entertain the taxation and the taxation was therefore ab initio void. 40 Bom L R 904=1939 Bom 431=I L R (1939) Bom 829 that the appointment cannot be made except by the State. But as, by Act XI of 1864, the State divested itself of the power of appointment the preamble of that Act declaring it was inexpedient that such appointment should be made by Government, it would seem that no valid nomination to the office can now be made.

The inconvenience resulting to Muhammadans from this state of things had been brought to the notice of the Government on several occasions by members of that community and more particularly by the Muhammadans of the Madras Presidency. It was considered by the Government that the grant of the relief that was sought, viz., that Government should once more undertake the appointment of Kazi was but a reasonable concession to the wants of the Muhammadan population.

With this object the Kazi Bill had been prepared. It extends in the first instance to Madras only, where the want of duly appointed Kazis appears chiefly to have been felt but it contains a clause empowering any other Local Government to extend to the territories administered by it, should the Muhammadans in those territories hereafter request its extension. It confers no legal rights or duties on Kazis. It simply in order to satisfy the wants of the Muhammadan community provides for the appointment of Kazis whatever these may be as they now are. To prevent any possible misapprehension on this point a saving clause has been added to the effect that nothing in the Bill confers any judicial or other powers on a Kazi, or makes his presence necessary at any marriage or other ceremony at which his presence is not now necessary. (See Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

This Act is of a permissive character and it confers no official, administrative or judicial powers upon the Kazis. (See Fort St George Gazette, Supplement, 27th July, 1880 p. 2.)

THE LAND ACQUISITION ACT (I OF 1894).

[Rep. in part by Acts I of 1938 and X of 1914 Amended by Acts IV of 1914, XVII of 1919, XXXVIII of 1920, XIX of 1921, XXXVIII of 1923 and XVI of 1933]

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Bill —“For several years past the amendment of the old Land Acquisition Act, 1870 has been under consideration by the Government of India in communication with Local Governments and before the passing of that Act the valuations of the lands which it was found necessary to take up for the execution of public works was entirely in the hands of arbitrators from whose decision there was no appeal. This system led to a lamentable waste of the public money both because the arbitrators were incompetent and sometimes it is to be feared, corrupt, and also because the law as it then stood, laid down no instructions for their guidance in the performance of their duties. This latter defect, among others was remedied by the Act of 1870 which it is now proposed to amend and which contains detailed instructions as to the matters which are to be considered and which are to be neglected in awards of compensation for lands acquired under its provisions. The Act of 1870 provided for the abolition of the system under which uncontrolled discretion was entrusted to arbitrators and in lieu thereof required the Collector, when unable to come to terms with the persons interested in land which it was desired to take up, to refer the difference for the decision of a Civil Court usually that of the District Judge. In the disposal of such references the Court is aided by assessors and its finding is final if the Judge and one or more of the assessors agree. If, however the Judge and the assessors disagree an appeal is allowed, which usually lies to the High Court.

“The Act of 1870 has not in practice been found entirely effective for the protection, either of the persons interested in lands taken up or of the public purse. The requirement that the Collector shall refer for the decision of the Court every petty difference of opinion as to value and every case in which any one of perhaps a large number of persons fails to attend before him has involved in litigation with all its trouble and delay and expense, a great number of persons whose interest in the land was extremely insignificant. It has, in fact frequently been the case that the owners of small pieces of land have had to pay Court costs to an amount far exceeding the value of the land itself. On the other hand the provisions of the Act as to the incidence of costs, the whole of which fall on the Collector if the final award is ever so little in excess of the amount of his tender, are such as to encourage extravagant and speculative claims. The chances of altogether escaping the payment of costs is so great that claimants are in the position of risking very little in order to gain very much and have therefore every motive to refuse even liberal offers made by the Collector and to try their luck by compelling a reference to the Court. Much the same may be said as to the provisions of the existing law regarding the payment of interest. No matter how fair the original offer of the Collector and how groundless the refusal to accept the compensation he has tendered interest is payable on the amount of the award finally arrived at from the date of the Collector taking possession of the land. This may be for a period of two or three years and interest continues to run until the date of payment. All this costs very heavy and unnecessary expenses on the public purse.

“It is proposed therefore to amend the law by making the Collector's award final, unless altered by the decree in a regular suit. Persons interested in land taken up for public works will thus have the opportunity if they desire it, of preferring to an authority quite independent of the Collector their claims to more substantial compensation than the Collector has awarded and will in all cases have a further right of appeal to the regular appellate Courts. They will no longer however be encouraged to litigate by the feeling that they can hardly lose but may make a great gain by doing so.

“This change in the procedure for determining the valuation of land taken up for public works will also render it possible to dispense with the services of the assessors who are now supposed to assist the Court. Considering the difficulty almost throughout the country, of obtaining the services of such assessors as are really qualified to form a sound opinion on the subject of the valuation of land it is believed that the proposal to dispense with them and to leave the matter to the sole arbitrament first of the Collector, and then of the Judge will in no way diminish the efficiency of the Courts in inquiries in which the value of land is in issue. It will certainly tend to shorten litigation and to diminish its expense.”

A notification made to be conclusive evidence even where the notice had been issued subsequent to the filing of the suit for an injunction restraining Government from making the acquisition. The validity of a declaration cannot be culled in question before it is in fact made. To find out if the requirement of the proviso to S. 6 has been fulfilled, Court should have regard to the state of things at the time of the declaration. Its validity cannot be made to depend upon some future contingent event. Where Government proposed to acquire house sites by advancing 80 per cent. of the cost in the first instance and recover the same from the grantees of the sites in the course of the next twenty years, held, the condition in the proviso to S. 6 (1) was fulfilled. 1930 M. 798=59 M.L.J. 274; 1929 M.W.N. 779=1930 M. 248. See also 1931 M. 361=1931 M.W.N. 126. A declaration under S. 6 (3) is ordinarily conclusive of the fact that the land is needed for a public purpose or for a company. It cannot be conclusive of the liability to acquisition, if it be found that any illegality was committed at the proceedings or if there was material violation of any of the provisions of the Act in any of the stages prior to the declaration. If the declaration says that the land is required for a public purpose, whereas in fact the land is admittedly required for a company, it is difficult to see how such a declaration can be conclusive of anything. It cannot be conclusive of the fact that the land is needed for a public purpose, since that is not so; and it can hardly be conclusive of the fact that the land is required for a company, if this is not stated. But where the parties are fully aware of the purpose for which the acquisition is made, a defect in the declaration will not vitiate the acquisition proceedings. 1939 A.L.J. 757=1939 All. 557. The validity of the acquisition proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act depends upon the existence of a public purpose and not upon the question whether the whole cost of the scheme could legally be debited to the Municipality or public body on whose behalf the acquisitions are made. A notification under S. 6 does not therefore become illegal because it seeks to acquire lands for the purpose of recouping the cost of the scheme. Where the Municipality or public body has power conferred upon it under the statute creating it, to acquire adjacent land for a particular purpose and to dispose of that land, the fact that the scheme is to be financed or partly financed out of the proceeds cannot make the acquisition illegal. 39 Bom. L.R. 1257=1938 Bom. 148. Public purpose—Proof—Notification not conclusive—Onus. Held, that, on the terms of the grant, the right to refuse compensation must depend on proof on the part of the Government that the land was required for a public purpose, for which purpose the Government might put in the notification as evidence on their side, but it was not conclusive for the purpose of defeating the claimant's right to compensation; that evidence led could not be considered for the purpose of defeating the Government's right to issue the notification to acquire the land, but would be relevant only for the purpose of determining the claimant's right to compensation under the Act. 1 L.R. It proceeded to erect certain building on the land without the necessary notification which was not served until 4th November, 1920, when the Government notified under S 6 of the Act that the lands were needed for a public purpose and the Collector took order for the acquisition thereof. Held, that the Government officials were in possession 'not as mere trespassers' but under such a colour of title that the building erected by them on the land ought not to be included in the valuation as having become the property of the land-owner. Justice of the case was met by holding that the claimant was entitled to compensation for occupation of the lands by the officials before notification of the 4th November, from the date when Government took possession. 56 I A 259=53 B 589=57 M L J 139 (P C). A declaration was made that a certain land was acquired for quarries in connection with the construction of a bridge. It contained a provision as follows: "Mines of coal, ironstone, slate or other minerals lying under the land or any particular portion of the land except only such parts of the mines and minerals as it may be necessary to dig or carry away or use in the construction of the work for the purpose of which the land is being acquired are not needed. On a reference to the Court as to whether the underground minerals had been acquired, held (1) that under the declaration stones other than those required for the construction of the bridge vested in the owner of the land, (2) that the stones so required came under the category of "other minerals" mentioned in the declaration. 8 P 742=1930 P 112.

1. PROCEDURE—Statement of claim in claimant is necessary. Merely sending certified copy of sale deed is not same as a claim to the amount stated therein as sale price. See 1. 416=1926 L 401. All that S 9 requires is that a person claiming should (1) specify the interest he claims (2) specify the amount he claims for such interest, and (3) give particulars of his claim to compensation. It does not require him to specify the amount of compensation he claims in respect of each of the six sub-heads referred to in S 23 of the Act. Failure, therefore, to specify the amount claimed in respect of any particular sub-head of S 23 is no bar to Judge reviewing the award of the L A Officer in respect of such sub-head. 1933 S 21=146 I C 1040=27 S L R 84. But see 1936 L 733 where it was held that if an item is not specified, he will not be awarded compensation for it merely because the amount awarded does not exceed the total amount claimed.

Sec 9 (2) and (3). Notice.—The provision that 15 days' time should be allowed shall require all persons interested in the land to appear personally or by agent before the Collector at a time and place therein mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of publication of the notice), and to state the nature of their respective interests in the land and the amount and particulars of their claims to compensation for such interests, and their objections (if any) to the measurements made under section 8. The Collector may in any case require such statement to be made in writing and signed by the party or his agent.

(3) The Collector shall also serve notice to the same effect on the occupier (if any) of such land and on all such persons known or believed to be interested therein, or to be entitled to act for persons so interested, as reside or have agents authorised to receive service on their behalf, within the revenue district in which the land is situate.

(4) In case any person so interested resides elsewhere, and has no such agent, the notice shall be sent to him by post in a letter addressed to him at his last known residence, address or place of business and registered under Part III of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866.

AWARD BY LAND ACQUISITION OFFICER—
CONTENTS OF—The duty of the Collector under S 11 is to make an award in regard to three matters viz., (1) area of the land included in the award, (2) total compensation to be allowed for that land and (3) apportionment of that compensation among all the persons interested in that land 59 I A 155=62 M L J 682 (P C) Act does not contemplate that where more than one person is interested in a parcel of land there should be more than one award relating thereto Each award should contain within its four corners the fixing of value of the land with which it deals and the apportionment of that value between the various persons interested in that land 59 I A 155=1932 P C 102=62 M L J 682 (P C) The Board of Trustees for Improvement of Calcutta has power to enter into a contract for settling the price of the land with the owner before proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act are started In the land acquisition proceedings the Collector is under no obligation to disregard the contract and to proceed to determine the market value under S 11 of the Act He should rather respect the contract and make an award on its basis If a reference is made by the Collector under S 18 the Improvement Tribunal is not bound to take evidence of market value and to award compensation on its basis The contract between the owner and the Board which is a perfectly valid one and which can be enforced in a Civil Court would prevent the owner from leading any evidence relating to market value before the Improvement Tribunal or in proceedings upon any other footing than that of the contract 41 C W N 1291=66 C L J 134=1937 Cal 680

SECS. 11 AND 26 AWARD UNDER—DIFFERENCE—Under S 26 the award of the Court is not the same as an award by the Collector under S 11 An award by the Collector under S 11 must include the apportionment of the compensation among all the persons known or believed to be interested in the land of whom or of whose claims he has information whether or not they have respectively appeared before him That forms no part of the award as defined in S 26 Hence an award of Court under S 26 cannot be deemed to be a decree executable against the Collector 1933 R 176=11 R 344

SECS 11 AND 34—Although the Collector, after he has made his award under S 11, is not competent to amend it or make a supplementary award except in cases of clerical errors or other mistakes or omissions apparent on the face of the records he is not in any way incompetent to enter into a compromise with the claimants who have got a reference under S 18 Land Acquisition Act and pay them an extra sum of money on the basis of such settlement on condition of their withdrawing the reference An entry of such an order for payment in the award statement kept in Form A prescribed in Appendix 7 of the Civil Accounts Code does not amount to an amendment of the award itself The award statement is therefore not inadmissible in evidence 73 C L J 595=43 C W N 1185

SEC. 12—The Local Government has power to appoint special Collector but once appointed it has no power to interfere with his award or ask him to substitute a smaller amount 36 B 599=14 Bom L R 592 A separate suit for the recovery of the value of the land acquired is not maintainable 48 I C 702=29 C L J 53

world have jurisdiction to award compensation on a different or new basis in a proper case though no express objection was taken on that basis and no specific claim for compensation to that effect was urged before the land acquisition. The rule enacted in S 18 (2) is one of procedure rather than of jurisdiction. 1937 M W N 773=46 L W 492=1937 Mad 902. See also (1939) 2 M L J 98 (P C). Jurisdiction of Courts under the Act is a special one and is strictly limited by the terms of Ss 18, 20 and 21. It only arises when specific objection has been taken to Collector's award and it is confined to a consideration of that objection. Where the only objection taken is to the amount of compensation, that alone is the "matter referred" and the Court has no power to determine or consider anything beyond it as for instance an objection to the measurement of the land. 57 I A 100=57 C 1148=1930 P C 64=58 M L J 223 (P C). If a claim for compensation for injurious affection on account of severance under the item thirdly in S 23 has not been made in reply to a notice under S 9 of the Act such a claim cannot be made or allowed for the first time in a reference to the Court under S 18 of the Act. I L R (1941) Har 217=196 I C 285=1941 Sind 152. On a reference to a Court the matters for decision may include either a question as to the total amount of compensation a question in which the Collector is clearly interested or a dispute between the parties claiming amongst themselves as to the person or persons to whom compensation should be paid a question in which the Act does not consider the Collector to be interested. On such a reference the Court has not to decide whether or not the Collector had been so negligent that he should be required to pay the compensation twice over to different persons and a question of that sort is one which can only be decided satisfactorily in a separate suit. 1933 R 176=41 R 344. Secs 18, 19 and 20. POWERS OF COLLECTOR AND COURT.—The decision on a question of limitation on an application under S 18 rests with the Collector and not with the District Judge. S 19 also indicates that the question of limitation is to be decided by the Collector. The District Judge can not sit as a Court of Appeal over the Collector when the latter has come to the conclusion that the application is made within time. The function of the District Judge is confined to giving a decision on objections raised 189 I C 534=1940 Pesh 35 Making reference is an act within the jurisdiction and authority of the Collector. Having made the reference it is not open for the Collector or the Secretary of State to say that the reference was wrongly made although ground for saying so may be that the application by the owner was belated. The Court does not sit on appeal over the Collector and the Act does not give any authority to the "Court" either in express terms or by implication to go behind the reference 27 A L J 1186=1929 A 769

Secs 18 and 21. REFERENCE ON QUESTION OF AMOUNT OF COMPENSATION.—QUESTION OF TITLE TO LAND ACQUIRED.—IF RELEVANT.—The jurisdiction of the Court on a reference by the Collector is a special jurisdiction. If the only objection is to the amount of compensation that alone is the matter referred to and the Court has no power to determine or consider anything beyond what is referred. The question of title to the land acquired is therefore not relevant in a reference on the question of the amount of compensation only because in an inquiry as to the amount of compensation only the question is how much more the claimant is to get and how much more is the Government to pay. The only question is the additional amount of compensation. It does not involve the determination of the question of the right to claim or the liability to pay any additional compensation 187 I C 364=44 C W N 411=1940 Cal 56

Sec. 21—In compensation between land lord and tenant the reasonable course is to find the value of the land as a whole first. The rights between the landlord and tenant is to be raised subsequently as between them. The valuation of the land should be ascertained by considering cases of similar sales. It is not a proper method of approach to value the different interests separately unless it is quite clear what the rights of the different parties are and unless the evidence affords instances of dealings in exactly the same rights as are in question. 58 C 1345 = 135 I C 438 = 1932 C 143. MARKET VALUE, DATE OF.—The market value is the value to the seller of the property in its actual condition at the time of expropriation with all its existing advantages and with all its possibilities, excluding any advantage due to the carrying out of the scheme for the purpose for which the property is compulsorily acquired. 1931 S 67=131 I C 178, 163 I C 172=1936 R 226 40 C W N 1143=1936 C 688. But where under the Works of Defence Act an earlier declaration was cancelled by a later one, it was held that it was the date of the second notification which must be taken into consideration as regards the market value of the property concerned. 1941 Rang L R 40=1941 Rang 205.

COMPENSATION—PRINCIPLES APPLICABLE.—The value of land should be calculated with reference to the most lucrative and advantageous way in which the land might be used. The special adaptability of the land acquired cannot be altogether ignored in the determination of its market value. Such value consists of all advantages which the land possesses present or future, but it is the present value alone of such advantages that falls to be determined. The operative effect of special adaptability or future utility must be estimated not by idle speculation and unpractical imagination but by prudent business considerations such as would weigh with an intending purchaser at the imaginary market which would have ruled had the land been exposed for sale when it was subjected to compulsory acquisition. 8 P 793=1909 P 733 58 C L J 38=1934 C 97. If the owner wants compensation for the land irrespective of the consideration that it is a land used to grow a certain crop and then separately claims compensation for the loss of income from the crop he cannot be penalized simply because he claimed under two heads what he ought to have claimed in the head of market value. The fact that the claim under one head was placed somewhat low and in higher

POST NOTIFICATION TRANSFERS—REFERENCE—
PERMISSIBILITY—In valuing immovable property Court is justified in taking a broad view as favourable to the owner as the evidence permits. But the findings must be based on evidence and legitimate deductions from it and if there is an appeal both the evidence and deductions are subject to reconsideration by the Court of appeal. In determining the value of post notification transactions need not necessarily be ignored. But if a considerable interval has elapsed the Court will attach little value to the subsequent sale. 35 Bom L.R. 703=1933 B. 361.

"LOSS OF BUSINESS," MEANING OF—The expression "loss of business" does not mean the profit that a person will make by using the corpus (e.g. in the case of manufacturing bricks) the result of which would be that after some lapse of time the property would be altogether valueless. It means that a man pursuing some trade or business is compelled to give it up or carry it on elsewhere which would give him less profit than what he was making at the former place. Where the owner claimed compensation on the ground that he intended to use a part of the land required for the purpose of making bricks but the operations themselves had not been begun and there was nothing to show that such operations could not otherwise be conducted in the vicinity, held, that the claim on the ground of alleged loss of business was not sustainable. 56 C. 819=1929 C. 826.

AGRICULTURAL LAND—Compensation In respect of agricultural land should be allowed on the basis of 20 years' purchase, in a should be had to the question whether the lease was one for a considerable period and the rent received was an amount which was likely to be received for a lengthy period. If it was a long lease or one which was not likely to be determined early, the rent may be taken as an index to the value. If, on the other hand, it is a short lease and the bargain was one such as the landlord was hardly ever likely to get once again, it can not be made a basis for computing the market value. 34 Bom.L.R. 1457=1933 B. 37.

INAM LAND.—In determining the compensation payable for inam land under the Act, the element of non transferability of the land cannot enter into consideration. The publication of the declaration under S. 6 has the effect of removing all restrictions on the rights of the owner and consequently lifts the embargo on its transferability. So after the declaration, the inam land stands on the same footing as any freehold land. 142 I.C. 384=1933 N. 208. See also 40 Bom L.R. 432=1938 Bom. 325. NOTES of the Berar Inam Rules the grantee was a superior holder with an interest in the land and not a mere licensee 142 I C 364 Even if no action is taken under S 31 (3) of the Act, the fact that the land was service inam cannot be ignored, in computing the amount of compensation S 31 does not exclude the operation of S 23, on the other hand it presupposes the determination of the pecuniary value of the right or interest in the land held by the claimant in accordance with the direction contained in S 23, and S 31 (3) comes into operation only at the time of awarding a money compensation 142 I C 364

HOUSE PROPERTY AND BUILDINGS—Where the subject to be valued for purposes of compensation is a building apart from the site, the value of the building has to be fixed by ascertaining the cost of reproducing the building at the present time and then allowing for depreciation in consideration of the age of the building and for the costs of such repairs as might be required apart from depreciation 44 C W N 5=66 I A 258=50 L W 406=1939 P C 235=(1939) 2 M L J 722 (P C) It has long been the practice of the Courts in this Presidency to calculate the profits from any form of landed property as equal to the profits made by investing money in gilt edged securities. In arriving at the proper value of a site with building thereon for the purpose of awarding compensation under the Land Acquisition Act, the compulsory acquisition being at a time when the interest obtainable on Government securities is 3 per cent the proper and correct course would be to capitalise the annual rental value of the property at 33 1/3 years' purchase 54 L W 724=1941 Mad 684=(1941) 2 M L J 75 House property—Rent income—Compound appertenant to house but in possession of cultivating tenant 40 A 367=44 I C 923=16 A L J 301 House property—Onus—Principle of assessment, when based on rental value 11 I C 62 House property—Valuation 25 I C 393 In valuing house sites the value of the adjoining land which is unfit for building purposes should not be taken as the basis 14 I C 625=1912 M W N 460 See also 1938 Cal 75 (Premises abutting on common passage with an interest therein—Acquisition of path—Valuation) Where except for a small portion of land, the land in dispute had no value as a building site because the demand for buildings was limited the value of the land should be assessed on the basis of what was its worth as an agricultural land 1933 L 508=146 I C 556

FRONTAGE—Frontage of 100 feet should be allowed. 112 I C 797=1928 L 263 (33 B 235, Rel on) Where the value of the land in a populous locality to be acquired under the Act, is to be determined, frontage i.e., immediate contiguity to highway and where there is no frontage propinquity and easy access to high road are the powerful elements of the value to be taken into consideration, 1936 C 346

BUILDING—DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FRONTAGE AND BACK—A differentiation may be made in the properties acquired between frontage and back but no ratio can be fixed between the values of the former and of the latter as each case will turn on its own merits. The depth of frontage is a matter of importance and it can be best settled by assuming that the owner of a property will make the best possible use of it and that the actual 'lay out' of the property at the time of acquisition was in all the circumstances of the case the most advantageous and lucrative, it being open to the owner to show that, owing to special circumstances such as minority or litigation or poverty or unbusinesslike methods full advantage had not been taken of the property in which case assistance can be derived from the frontage or other buildings in the locality 1931 L 364=135 I C 183

BELTING SYSTEM—VALUE OF—FRONT AND BACK LANDS—SOUNDNESS OF DISTINCTION—The value of belting system though widely used depends much on a variety of acts. It may be appropriate in the case of lands in populous and important towns, such as Calcutta. But in localities where land is sold by bighas or acres and there is no real evidence of any proportionate diminution in value the system must be regarded as unsatisfactory. Of course there is a distinction in value between front lands and back lands everywhere but that would not justify a recourse to the belting system in each and every case. It is a highly artificial system and cannot be resorted to as a hard and fast rule 59 C 921 See also 68 C L J 90 A Municipality has no right or power under the District Municipal Act to refuse permission to build upon lands which the Municipality intends to acquire and by this means prevent building sites from being used for building and thereby render them valueless so that the Municipality may be enabled to acquire them under the Land Acquisition Act at a reduced valuation. In cases of apportionment of the compensation amount between the landlord and the tenant, it is almost impossible to lay down any rigid rule of universal application. In vast majority of cases the apportionment is bound to appear arbitrary. The ratio of apportionment between them may be different in different cases and would depend on the particular facts admitted or proved. Where there is no evidence one way or the other it has to be made only on general considerations—namely to divide it according to the relative value of the interest of the landlord and tenant. It was held that the ratio of ten to six as between landlord and tenant was fair. 1911 N.L.J. 620. The value of the interest of the superior holder must be included in the award and not deducted from the value of the occupant's interest. 25 Bom.L.R. 480=1924 B. 54. It cannot be assumed that the value of an easement or restrictive covenant to the person entitled thereto is the same as the amount by which the existence of that easement or covenants depreciates the value of the land subject thereto 44 Bom L R 57 If the owner of an easement claims compensation for the acquisition of the easement he is clearly entitled to compensation under the Act and the compensation is the value of the easement to him. If it happens that the easement is of no great value then Government may acquire both the servient tenement and the easement at a price which is less than the market value of the land free from the easement. The value of the whole is greater than the combined value of the parts and the increased value arising from the union of interests necessarily belongs to Government in whose hands the union takes place. Easements or restrictive covenants must prejudicially affect the value of the land and it is impossible to say that the existence of those covenants though they may be of no benefit to the person entitled to enforce them depreciates the land by only a nominal sum. There is nothing in the Act to suggest that any person interested is to be paid for anything except the interest which he possesses 44 Bom L R 57 Where a possible contingent right to the land acquired is vested in a superior proprietor by way of reversion even if the right is such as a right in embryo and may never fertilise when Government compulsorily acquires the land from the usufructuary occupants who ever they are the superior proprietor is entitled to a portion of compensation money in respect of his possible right of reversion which is cut off for ever by the compulsory acquisition 128 I C 660=1933 P C 261 (P C)

BURDEN OF PROOF AND EVIDENCE—Where a claimant challenges the valuation made by the Special Land Acquisition Officer, the burden of proof is on him to prove that the valuation is insufficient and unfair. The price paid within a reasonable time in bona fide transactions relating to the land is the most cogent evidence of market value under the Land Acquisition Act. So also great weight should be attached in arriving at the market value to admissions in solemn deeds executed by parties to a litigation. No doubt evidence of offers in respect of the land has to be considered by the Court but the probative value of such evidence is very low. For offers alleged in land acquisition proceedings are scarcely ever bona fide. They can easily be arranged without any loss or inconvenience to either party so also although the opinion of experts is evidence in such cases its value is not great and it would not be possible to place reliance on this kind of evidence unless it is supported by or coincided with other evidence and where such evidence is not only not supported by or coincident with the best evidence in the case but there is such divergence or disagreement on material points between the evidence of the so called experts no reliance can be placed over it. Moreover even experienced architects and municipal land surveyors cannot be regarded as valuers or experts merely because in course of their business or duty they have had an occasion to value some property here and there 1938 Sind 225 The putting of written interrogatories to an expert witness for submission of written answers later on is an unusual procedure 68 C L I 90 Where in order to enable the determination of the market value of the acquired property an award accepted by an owner of an adjacent property is produced in evidence it is not obligatory on the part of the Government to examine such owner with reference to the circumstances under which the award came to be accepted. PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF.—In an appeal under the Act from the decision of the High Court which reversed the judgment of the Special L. A. Judge and affirmed the award of the Collector, where the appellant was unable to make out that there was any wrong application of principle by the High Court in rejecting the evidence of an expert on which the Special Judge chose to act, or that any important point in the evidence was overlooked or misapplied, the P.C., refused to disturb the conclusions of the POWER TO ENFORCE CONTRACT IN ABSENCE OF CONTRACTING PARTIES.—From the provisions of S. 23, it is fairly clear that the L. A. Officer and the Court dealing with the matter on a reference from him have only to decide the market value of the property, subject to the considerations mentioned in that and the following sections. Neither the L. A. Officer nor the Court has got the power to enforce a contract as such in the absence of the contracting parties. 155 I.C. 280=1935 M. 279 (2)

S. 23, Clause fourthly: APPLICABILITY—"LOSS OF INCOME"—MEANING OF.—The loss of income which is contemplated in Clause fourthly of S. 23 is the loss of personal income to the owner of the land. It contemplates a case in which, on account of the acquisition of a certain land, the value of other properties of the owner has deteriorated or the owner has suffered loss of his own income not derived from the land itself. The clause has no application in case the loss of income complained of is the loss of the income of the property itself which is being acquired. That loss of income is a factor to be taken into consideration in fixing the market value of the land itself which the owner is to get under Clause firstly, S. 23. The price of land is fixed on the basis that the owner should get full compensation for the loss of the income which he was getting from the land and this compensation is the market value of the land acquired. There fore for the land itself the owner is not entitled to get anything more than the market value of the land and the statutory compensation payable to him under the law. He cannot get the market value of the land and then compensation for the loss of income from the land itself. 1938 Pat. 618=17 Pat. 760=20 Pat.L.T. 293

But it does not mean that the possibility that a particular purchaser of land will give a higher price for it by reason of its possessing a special adaptability must be disregarded merely because the land will be more valuable in his hands when he exploits that adaptability than it would be if left in the hands of the vendor who was unable to exploit it 66 I A 104=I L R (1939) Mad 532=43 C W N 557=1939 P C 98 = (1939) 2 M L J 45 (P C) See also 46 L W 492=1937 Mad 902

Sec. 26 (2)—The new sub-S (2) of S. 26 of the Act does not have the effect of enabling an appeal to be taken to His Majesty in Council from a judgment and decree of the High Court, Calcutta, on appeal from an award of the Calcutta Improvement Tribunal in respect of land compulsorily acquired under the Calcutta Improvement Act (39 I.A. 197, Ref.) 51 I.A. 259=1931 P.C. 149=61 M.L.J. 864 (P.C.). Under S. 26 (2) 'judgment' includes a decision of the High Court in a L.A. appeal from an award of the L.A. Judge. The decision in such appeal is appealable under Cl. 15 Letters Patent (Calcutta) 40 C.W.N. 1143=1936 C. 688. Where there were several connected references under the Act and they were all disposed of by single award, and appeals were preferred in all the cases, Held, that a copy of the award must accompany the memorandums in each appeal. 9 L. 76=94 I.C. 145=1925 L. 433. 104 I.C. 281. Although S. 26 requires the Judge to specify in his award the several particulars referred to therein, it is sufficient for the L.A. Officer under S. 11 to state what he considers to be fair compensation to be allowed for the whole of the land under acquisition and how it should be apportioned. S. 25 refers to the whole claim made by the claimant, and the whole amount of compensation awarded to him under S. 11 and empowers the Judge to alter the award of the L.A. Officer under any one or more of the sub-heads by either decreasing or increasing the amount awarded, provided he did not award less than the total amount awarded by the officer or more than the total amount claimed before that officer by the claimant. 1933 S. 21 Award under Ss. 11 and 26—Difference between. See 1933 R. 176=11 R. 344 cited under S. 11, supra.

Sec. 27—The same method of calculating costs should be adopted in land acquisition cases as in ordinary suits. 37 I.C. 760=126 P.R. 1916. A claimant for compensation in a land acquisition matter is in the position of a plaintiff who has instituted a suit to recover a sum of money and when it is found that he is not entitled to success under the provisions of the law relating to the subject, there is no ground upon which the tribunal hearing the claim could decree the opposite party, the Secretary of State, of the costs to which he would be entitled under the ordinary provisions of the law. There is no justification for refusing such costs on sentimental grounds. 1942 O.W. N. 131=1942 A.L.J. 141. For a case where Collector was ordered to pay claimant's costs though claim was extravagant, see 1923 L. 253. The word "persons" in S. 27 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act can not be construed as referring only to persons who are parties to the proceedings. The language of S. 27 (1) is perfectly clear and very wide, and must on the face of it give power to the Court to order costs to be paid by a person whether he be an actual party or not. A person who is present before the Court as trustee of a devasthanam, though he has no personal interest in putting forward the claim, may be made liable for costs. S. 27 (1) in no way conflicts with or limits or restricts the provisions of S. 35 C.P. Code. Reading S. 27 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act with S. 35, C.P. Code it must be held that the Court has jurisdiction in a suitable case to direct the cost to be paid by the trustee of a devasthanam personally although he merely represents the devasthanam in the proceedings when he makes a most extravagant claim and acts recklessly and when it would be unjust to call upon the real party (devasthanam) to meet the burden of costs. 52 L.W. 660=1941 Mad. 168=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 753. Where the Collector awarded compensation at Rs. 25 a cent and the claimant appealed claiming at Rs. 31 and the Court awarded compensation at Rs. 28 but disallowed his costs. Held that under the circumstances the Collector should have been directed to pay the claimant's costs, because the claim was not extravagant and there was no negligence in putting it forward. 1932 M.W.N. 83. See also 1937 M.W.N. 1006. The general rule is that costs should follow the event. The appellate Court should interfere with the exercise of discretion by the lower Court as to costs when there has been any misapprehension of facts, or violation of any established

Where the jamindar or intermediate tenure holder claims compensation to the extent of the amount which the zamindar had agreed to grant abatement in the rent, it is necessary for him to show that he has a permanent interest that the landlord had started with his prima facie right to enhance the rent and that the rent was miokarari. Prima facie the zamindar has the whole of the interest, it is for the tenure holders to show what part of the interest the zamindar has divested himself in their favour. 140 I C 385=36 C W N 866. In apportioning the compensation between landlord and tenant the Court should proceed on the principle of ascertaining what is the value of the interest of the landlord on the one hand and that of the tenant on the other and apportion the compensation according to those values. 32 P I R 864=1932 L 123. Secs 29 and 30—It is only common sense that as between lessor and lessee the acquisition should not place either party in a better or a worse position than he was before the acquisition. The acquisition transforms the property into a certain sum of money but the rights of the parties relatively to this sum ought to be the same as they were with reference to the property. Where a property is subject to a lease, theoretically speaking the total compensation for the property should be the sum total of the compensation payable in respect of the interests of lessor and lessee. If the total compensation is not however arrived at by separately calculating the interest of lessor and lessee, the amount should be divided between them in such proportions as would represent the value of their respective interests. It must follow on this basis that 30 When the amount of compensation has been settled under section 11, if any dispute arises as to the apportionment of the same or any part thereof, or as to the persons to whom the same or any part thereof is payable, the Collector may refer such dispute to the decision of the Court.

When a joint property is acquired under the Land Acquisition Act the enjoyment which the co owners are entitled to under the Act is to get proportionate shares of the compensation money that is given by the award. Consequently if one co sharer receives anything in excess of his share or the whole amount of the compensation money he is bound to refund it to the true owners and this is a right which is recognized by the proviso to S 31 (2). Where land belonging to an impartible estate is acquired under the Act the compensation money should not be paid over to the holder for the time being but should be converted into other land to form part of the impartible estate which will not thus suffer from the acquisition and hence the acquisition officer is right in depositing the money under S 31. 58 M 442=68 M L J 570=1935 M 215. The words "if there be no person competent to alienate the land" in S 31 (2) must necessarily apply to a case where there is no present title in the person who has come forward as a claimant to the compensation fixed by the Collector. Ss 31 and 32 provide for the case of persons who by reason of a personal disability have no absolute power to alienate and are intended to protect the interest of reversioners when land is taken away from the possession of such persons who hold it only on a life estate or similar limited estates such as minors lunatics Hindu widows administrators etc. where the legal estate is in one person and the beneficial estate in another. In the case of mam granted as a personal mam to the family of the grantee the grantee having a heritable estate in full proprietorship the grant being of the soil and conveying a full interest in the land without any condition in restraint of alienation the mamdar and his assigns are owners of the villages and have an interest in the land and are entitled to the benefit of that interest. Such a person cannot be said to have no power to alienate the land within the meaning of S 31 (2) of the Act. Such an mamdar does not fall under Ss 31 and 32. The amount of compensation awarded for acquisition of such mam lands cannot therefore be directed to be deposited in Government securities and interest alone directed to the mamdar. Land Acquisition Act invests the Court with certain powers in regard to the moneys deposited under S 31 (2). The section lays on the Court the duty to order the moneys deposited in the purchase of other lands and even in the case of moneys that have been invested in Government or other approved securities the Court is also given power to have them re-invested in the purchase of other lands. It is a judicial function which has to be performed by it in accordance with the procedure usually attributed to it after hearing the parties and taking the necessary evidence. The Court has to be satisfied as to the propriety of the purpose, the value and title of the land before it can make an order for investment. It is no doubt true that the purchase has to be made through the Collector. The Court can refer the matter to the Collector and direct him to revive all the evidence and any information which the parties may place before him and to consider the same along with the information which he would independently obtain and to submit a report. On receipt of the report of the Collector the Court should hear the parties and pass appropriate orders. But the Collector's report is not final and conclusive. It is open to the Court to have the opinion of an expert taken as regards the valuation of the land etc. if it thinks necessary it is open to the Court to disregard the report of the Collector and arrive at an independent valuation after consideration of the report and direct the purchase accordingly. But the Collector's opinion regarding the purchase is not the final word on the matter. The order ultimately to be passed is a judicial order made by the Court 1937 Mad 948=(1937) 2 M L J 429 properties. The Tribunal proposed to invest the compensation money in the purchase of other lands on the ground that there was no one competent to alienate the land. Held that as the receiver represented not only the Shahs but also the Thakur he was competent to alienate the land and so S. 32 was not applicable. Secondly even otherwise under S. 32 (b) the receiver appointed by the Court was a person who had become absolutely entitled to the amount and to whom the Tribunal was consequently bound to pay and the Tribunal had no discretion to invest it on the purchase of other lands. 34 C.W.N. 370=1932 C. 660. Under S. 32 (1) of the Act, the Calcutta Improvement Tribunal has jurisdiction, even after once adopting the alternative in S. 31 (1) (b) and has power unconditionally conferred on it, to order the money to be re-invested in the purchase of land. 59 C. 1272=36 C.W.N. 848=1932 C. 844. The effect of Murshidabad Act (XXV of 1891 amended by Act XXV of 1923) is that, in spite of certain powers conferred on the Secretary of State no right of ownership or disposition is conferred on the Secretary of State and the Nawab Bahadur continues as a limited owner but with the income intercepted in certain contingencies. Where such lands are proposed to be acquired the Tribunal has jurisdiction to act under S. 32 (1) of the Act. 59 C. 1272=36 C.W.N. 848=1932 C. 844.

MEANING OF TERMS.—The words "power to alienate" in S. 32 refer only to alienation to the Collector but not to alienations in general. 11 I.C. 304. ACQUISITION OF HINDU WIDOW'S INTEREST.—The President of the Calcutta Improvement has jurisdiction to re-invest money invested in G.P. Notes being the compensation money in respect of the acquisition of the interest of a Hindu widow in the purchase of other lands and, in this matter he acts as a Judge and must exercise his function in a judicial manner and in the interest of the person for whom the money is held in trust. The primary consideration for the Court is the interest of the person for whom he benefits the legislature has given the power. 60 C.L.J. 88. See also 1939 L. 735.

PROCEDURE.—The Act does not lay down any procedure which is to be followed in the matter of re-investment in lands of money already deposited in G.P. Notes. But the Court should hear the person who is interested in the money before it decides whether it is desirable or advantageous that the money which has remained invested in G.P. Notes without any objection from any body should be re-invested in the purchase of other lands in view of the grounds alleged by such person. 60 C.L.J. 88. The President of the Calcutta Improvement Tribunal has no jurisdiction under S. 32 of the Act to issue a notice to party to show cause why the compensation money invested in Government securities should not be re-invested in lands. Such a notice is also wrong in law. 60 C.L.J. 227. When there is an investment of the compensation money in Government securities already made as far back as 20 years S. 32 does not make a re-investment in land obligatory. 60 C.L.J. 227.

Sec. 32 (2) CONSTRUCTION.—"REASONABLE CHARGES AND EXPENSES".—ATTORNEY.—As it was considered necessary to engage the services of an attorney for the purchase of land advertised for sale by the Registrar of the High Court on the original sale by way of investment of money deposited in respect of acquired lands belonging to a person incompetent to alienate property an attorney was engaged with the approval of the Special L.A. Judge. He made the necessary investigation as to the suitability, market value and title and did other things incidental to the completion of the purchase. The attorney having submitted a bill of costs held that he was entitled to reasonable remuneration for the work done by him by way of "reasonable charges and expenses" within the meaning of S. 32 (2) of the Act, and that the said charges and expenses were payable by the Collector although the purchase was effected not immediately after the deposit but only subsequently. 39 C.W.N. 21=1935 C. 119.

See 38 A —The necessity for the insertion of this new S. 38 A has been explained as follows —The L A Act, 1894 makes it possible where the previous consent of the Local Government has been obtained to acquire land compulsorily on behalf of companies, provided that the land is needed for a work "likely to prove useful to the public" The Royal Commission on Labour have recommended that the Act be so amended as to enable land to be thus acquired where it is needed for the housing of labour either by companies or by other employers. They stated that in a number of instances brought to their notice land eminently suitable for the development of housing schemes had been held at random by the owners fantastic values being placed upon it as a result of the construction of factories and other industrial concerns in the neighbourhood. The provision of adequate housing for workmen is one of the urgent needs of Indian industry and the Bill seeks to give effect to the Commissioner's recommendation (Statement of Objects and Reasons)

This right is not taken away by the proviso to S 50 (2) of the Act. The proper interpretation of the proviso to S 50 (2) is that it relates only to that sub

THE LAND ACQUISITION (MINES) ACT (XVIII OF 1885)

Am Act XXXVIII of 1920 Act XY of 1937

Declared in force—in the Sonthal Parganas Reg III of 1872 S 3 as amended by Reg III of 1899,

 S 3 in the Angul District Reg III of 1913 S 3

PREFATORY NOTE —The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Land Acquisition (Mines) Bill —

The object of the Act is to provide for cases in which mines or minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act 1870

Act XXII of 1863 which was repealed by the Land Acquisition Act, 1870 contained specific provisions (Ss 51 and 52) for cases in which mines and minerals lay under land taken up under the Act These provisions were not however re enacted in the Act of 1870 which as the Government is advised contemplates the acquisition of the underlying minerals as well as the surface of the land

Hitherto this state of the law has caused no inconvenience Now however owing to its being proposed to extend railways across districts where there is a certain amount of coal to be found notice has been drawn to the inconveniences of the existing law which practically compels the Government either to purchase all the mines and minerals under the land over which it is proposed to construct a line or to abandon the undertaking altogether

Under these circumstances the present Bill has been prepared It does not however simply re-enact the provisions of Act XXII of 1863 inasmuch as they do not appear to be adapted to the circumstances of the case It follows rather the rules contained in the English Railway Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 (8 Vic c 20 Ss 77 et seq) which extends to the acquisition of lands for all purposes and not merely for the construction of railways

It provides first that when a declaration is made by the Local Government under S 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, the Local Government may if it thinks fit insert in the declaration a statement that any mines or minerals lying under the land to be acquired are not needed and that if any such statement is inserted in the declaration, the mines or minerals being under the land shall not when the Collector takes possession of the land under S 16 or 17 of the Act vest in the Government (Vide S 2)

It then declares that if the owner lessee or occupier of any mines or minerals lying under any land so acquired is desirous of working the same he shall give the Local Government notice in writing of his intention so to do thirty days before the commencement of working (Vide S 3)

Next the Bill empowers the Local Government to cause the mines or minerals to be inspected by it for the purpose (Vide S 4)

If it appears to the Local Government that the working of the mines or minerals is likely to cause damage to the surface of the land or any works thereon, the Local Government may at any time before the expiration of thirty days from the receipt of the notice, offer either (a) to pay compensation for the mines or minerals to the owner, lessee, or occupier; or (b) to pay compensation to the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines or minerals in consideration of his working or getting them in such manner and subject to such restriction as the Local Government may in its offer specify. (Vide S. 5.)

If the offer mentioned in Cl. (a) is made, then, the owner, lessee or occupier is prohibited from working the mines or minerals, whilst if the offer mentioned in Cl. (b) is made, then he may not work or get the mines or minerals, save in the manner and subject to the restrictions specified by the Local Government.

The Bill next provides for the manner in which the amount of compensation to be paid under S. 5 is to be determined. Should, however, the Local Government not offer to pay any compensation, S. 7 permits the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines or minerals to work the mines in a manner proper and necessary for the beneficial working thereof and according to the usual manner of working such mines in the local area where the same are situated. Should any damage or obstruction be caused by improper working of the mines, the section provides for the repairing of the damage or the removal of the obstruction by or at the cost of the owner, lessee or occupier.

Sections 8 and 9 provide for the inspection of mines for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are being worked so as to damage the land which has been acquired and S. 10 declares that, if any mines have been improperly worked the Local Government may require the owner, lessee or occupier thereof to construct such works and to adopt such means as may be necessary for making safe the land acquired and preventing injury thereto.

Lastly, S. 11 makes the provisions of Ss. 3 to 10 applicable to cases where the land acquired has been transferred to a company and S. 12 defines what the term 'company' as used in the Act means. (See Statement of Objects and Reasons, Report of the Select Committee, and Proceedings in Council.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for cases in which mines or minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870¹; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, commencement and local extent

1. (1) This Act may be called THE LAND ACQUISITION (MINES) ACT, 1885; and

(2) It shall come into force at once

(3) It extends in the first instance to the territories administered by the Governor of Madras in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; but any other Provincial Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any specified part of the territories under its administration

Saving for mineral rights of the Crown

2 Except as expressly provided by this Act, nothing in this Act shall affect the right of [the Crown] to any mines or minerals

3 (1) When the Provincial Government makes a declaration under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870,² that land is needed for a public purpose or for a Company, it may, if it thinks fit, insert in the declaration a statement that the mines of coal, iron-stone, slate or other minerals lying under the land or any particular portion of the land, except only such parts of the mines or minerals as it may be necessary to dig or carry away or use in the construction of the work for the purpose of which the land is being acquired, are not needed.

(2) When a statement as aforesaid has not been inserted in the declaration made in respect of any land under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870,³ and the Collector is of opinion that the provisions of this Act ought to be applied to the land, he may abstain from tendering compensation under section 11⁴ of the said Land Acquisition Act in respect of the mines, and may—

(a) when he makes an award under section 14⁵ of that Act, insert such a statement in his award;

(b) when he makes a reference to the Court under section 15⁶ of that Act, insert such a statement in his reference; or

(c) when he takes possession of the land under section 17⁷ of that Act, published such a statement in such manner as the Provincial Government may, from time to time, prescribe

(3) If any such statement is inserted in the declaration, award or reference, or published as aforesaid, the mines of coal, iron-stone, slate or other minerals under the land or portion of the land specified in the statement, except

See 5—Dharle J—Whenever the Government makes a declaration under S 5 (2) the working of the mines is restricted for all time and by any person and Government becomes liable to compensate all persons having an interest in the working of the mine and thus affected by the restrictions imposed. The compensation is thus in no case restricted to the actual worker. The restrictions which are imposed must ex necessitate rei be permanent. Having regard to the scheme of the Act, piecemeal dealing with the total interest in the coal is not contemplated and the embargo which is to be perpetual involves payment of compensation to all interests affected. The moment the declaration is made, the full amount of compensation becomes payable by reason of the coal coming under a perpetual embargo 15 Pat 510=17 Pat L T 279=1936 Pat 513

Secs 5 and 6 SCOPE AND EFFECT OF—COMPENSATION TO PERSONS INTERESTED—RIGHT OF—The object of the Land Acquisition (Mines) Act is that all persons interested shall be compensated when the person entitled to work the mines has been restricted. The effect of Ss 5 and 6 of the Act is merely to provide that the restriction shall not be imposed unless the Government be willing to compensate all persons interested. The obligation to compensate follows upon the imposition of the restrictions and is not dependant on an announcement by the Government that they are willing to pay such compensation. The effective part of the declaration is the restriction which would have effect against the whole world 15 Pat 510=17 Pat L T 279=1936 Pat 513 beneficial working thereof, and according to the usual manner of working such mines in the local area where the same are situate.

(2) If any damage or obstruction is caused to the surface of the land or any works thereon by improper working of the mines, the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines shall at once, at his own expense, repair the damage or remove the obstruction, as the case may require.

(3) If the repair or removal is not at once effected, or, if the Provincial Government so thinks fit, without waiting for the same to be effected by the owner, lessee or occupier, the Provincial Government may execute the same and recover from the owner, lessee or occupier the expense occasioned thereby.

8. If the working of any mines is prevented or restricted under section 5, the respective owners, lessees and occupiers of the mines, Mining communications if their mines extend so as to lie on both sides of the mines the working of which is prevented or restricted, may cut and make such and so many airways, headways, gateways or water-levels through the mines, measures or strata, the working whereof is prevented or restricted, as may be requisite to enable them to ventilate, drain and work their said mines; but no such airway, headway, gateway or water-level shall be of greater dimensions or section than may be prescribed by the Provincial Government in this behalf, and, where no dimensions are so prescribed, not greater than eight feet wide and eight feet high, nor shall the same be cut or made upon any part of the surface or works, or so as to injure the same, or to interfere with the use thereof.

MINES WORKED BY LESSEE UNDER ROYALTY HOLDERS' — COMPENSATION FOR—RESPECTIVE RIGHTS OF PARTIES.—In the case of mines worked by a lessee under royalty holders, the amount of compensation jointly payable to the royalty holders and the lessee cannot exceed in the aggregate the value of the coal locked up, which would otherwise have been raised and sold, less the working costs.

The value so ascertained has to be divided up amongst the claimants, each of the lessors or royalty holders taking out of such sum his appropriate royalty, and the balance going to the lessee working the mine as his profit. The payment by the Government of the whole amount of compensation to one of the several claimants is no defence against a claim by another claimant who has lost his profit by reason of the restrictions imposed by the Government, 15 Pat 510=17 Pat.L.T. 279=1936 Pat. 513.

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following is the Report of the Select Committee —

1. The principal matter for our consideration was the question whether, and to what extent, the machinery provided by the Bill should be applicable for the purpose of levying land customs duties on goods imported from, and exported to, Indian States, and we agree that the provisions of this Bill which are more drastic than those of the Madras Act VI of 1844 and the Bombay Act XXIX of 1857, should be confined in their application only to the import and export of goods from and into foreign countries, including the European settlements in the Continent of India. As regards a further question whether the Madras and Bombay Acts should be kept in force for the purpose of providing machinery for the levy of land customs duties on goods passing between those provinces and the Indian States which are co terminous with them, respectively, we think it is only reasonable to maintain the law as it exists at present. We understand that it is not the present intention or desire of Government to establish a customs barrier between British India and any of these States, but we realize that the preservation of machinery which could be used for the purpose of enforcing in respect of these States the power conferred by S. 5 of the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, is important, in view of the possibility, however remote, of an emergency necessitating the use of the power. We have decided, therefore, to leave the old Madras and Bombay Acts in force in case they are needed for such an emergency. In other words, we leave the law precisely as it stands at present as regards Indian States. This involves, besides minor amendments, an alteration in sub-clause (f) of clause (2), the substitution of a new clause for clause (10), and the omission of the Second Schedule

2. We now proceed to refer in detail to the other amendments which we have made in the Bill.

Clause (5).—Whilst we agree that the possession of a permit is an essential condition to the import or export of any goods, whether dutiable or not, we see no reason to allow the confiscation of non-dutiable goods which are being passed across a foreign frontier without a permit, although we retain in clause (7) a small penalty for this infraction of the law.

LEG. REF.

XXXVIII of 1920.

² See now Land Acquisition Act I of 1894.

Clause (7).—We agree that the abettor of an offence under this clause should be punishable, and have, therefore, inserted the amendment of which notice was given by the Hon'ble Sir Basil Blackett. We have further reduced the penalty in the case of non-dutiable consignments and provided that only dutiable goods should be liable to confiscation.

We discussed at some length a suggestion that the penalty provided by this clause should only be imposed after conviction of the offender by a Criminal Court. A majority of us are of opinion that such a departure from the ordinary methods of customs administration would be inadvisable, either in the interests of Government or of the offending party, both of whom would be put to considerable additional expense and inconvenience, by the adoption of such a procedure. Those of us who favour the rejection of the suggestion are further of opinion that Ss. 182 and 183 of the Sea Customs Act which are applied by clause (9) of the Bill confer ample guarantee of impartial justice to offenders.

Clause (9).—The only other alteration which we have made in the Bill is the omission from the Schedule of section 168 of the Sea Customs Act. In view of the fact that an abettor is punishable under clause (7) and that some members of our Committee feel that the section if applied might be open to abuse, we consider that the power to confiscate vehicles and animals used in the carriage of goods, liable to confiscation under the Bill, might be relinquished even though the power might in some cases be useful as an aid to the prevention of smuggling. SCHEDULE.

[30th September, 1924.]

An Act to consolidate, amend and extend the Law relating to the levy of duties of customs on articles imported or exported by land from or to territory outside ¹[British] India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate, amend and extend the law relating to the levy of duties of customs on articles imported or exported by land from or to territory outside ¹[British] India; It is hereby enacted as follows.—

Short title, extent and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called THE LAND CUSTOMS ACT, 1924.²

(2) It extends to the whole of British India ³[* *].

(3) It shall come into force on such date⁴ as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) any reference to the passing or import or export of goods "by land" shall be deemed to include the passing or import or export of goods by any inland water-way constituting a foreign frontier or part of a foreign frontier;

(b) "Chief Customs authority" means the Central Board of Revenue constituted under the Central Board of Revenue Act, 1924, and includes, in relation to any power or duty¹ which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, transfer² from the Central Board of Revenue³ [and entrust to a Provincial Government or an officer of a Provincial Government under section 124 (1) of the Government of India Act, 1935, that Government or officer as the case may be];

(c) "Collector of Land Customs" means a Collector of Land Customs appointed under section 3;

(d) "dutiable goods" means any article on which a duty of land customs is leviable by virtue of a notification issued under section 5 of the Indian Tariff Act, 1894;

(e) "foreign frontier" means the frontier separating any foreign territory from any part of British India;

(f) "foreign territory" means any territory⁴ [* *] which has been declared under section 5 of the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, to be foreign territory for the purposes of that Act;

(g) "land customs area" means any area adjoining a foreign frontier for which a Collector of Land Customs has been appointed under section 3; and

3. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint⁵ for any area adjoining a foreign frontier and specified in the notification, a person to be the Collector of Land Customs and such other persons as⁶ [it] thinks fit to be Land Customs Officers.

(2) The Central Government may delegate⁷ [* ] to the Chief Customs authority any power conferred upon [it] by sub-section (1) and [ *] the Chief Customs authority may delegate⁸ to any Collector of Land Customs any power to appoint Land Customs Officers which has been so delegated to it.

Establishment of land customs stations and determination of routes.

4. The Chief Customs authority may, by notification⁹ in the Official Gazette,—

(a) establish land customs stations for the levy of land customs in any land customs area, and

(b) prescribe the routes by which alone goods, or any class of goods specified in the notification, may pass by land out of or into any foreign territory, or to or from any land customs station from or to any foreign frontier.

5. (1) Every person desiring to pass any goods, whether dutiable goods or not, by land out of or into any foreign territory shall apply¹⁰ in writing, in such form¹¹ as the Chief Customs authority may by notification in the Official Gazette prescribe, for a permit for the passage thereof, to the Land Customs Officer in charge of land customs station established in a land customs area adjoining the foreign frontier across which the goods are to pass.

(2) When the duty on such goods has been paid or the goods have been found by the Land Customs Officer to be free of duty, the Land Customs Officer

(3) Any Land Customs Officer, duly empowered by the Chief Customs authority in this behalf, may require any person in charge of any goods which such Officer has reason to believe to have been imported, or to be about to be exported, by land from, or to, any foreign territory to produce the permit granted for such goods, and any such goods which are dutiable and which are unaccompanied by a permit or do not correspond with the specification contained in the permit produced, shall be detained and shall be liable to confiscation.

Provided that nothing in this sub section shall apply to any imported goods passing from a foreign frontier to a land customs station by a route prescribed in that behalf.

(4) The Chief Customs authority may, by notification¹ in the Official Gazette, direct that the provisions of this section, or any specified provisions thereof, shall not, in any land customs area specified in the notification, apply in respect of goods of any class or value so specified.

6 A Land Customs Officer empowered in this behalf by the Chief Customs authority shall pass free of duty any goods imported or exported by land by any passenger, if he is satisfied that the goods are the passenger's personal baggage in actual use.

Penalties

7 ²[(1)] Any person who—

(a) in any case in which the permit referred to in section 5 is required, passes or attempts to pass any goods by land out of or into any foreign territory through any land customs station without such permit, or

(b) conveys or attempts to convey to or from any foreign territory or to or from any land customs station any goods by a route other than the route, if any, prescribed for such passage under this Act, or

1883	XIX	The Land Improvement Loans Act 1883	Repealed in part XII of 1891 XVI of 1908 S 93 Repealed in part and amended VIII of 1906 Amended XVIII of 1889 IV of 1914

PREFATORY NOTE—The following are extracts from the Statement of Objects and Reasons —

The law under which advances can be made for the improvement of land is Act XXVI of 1871 as amended by Act XXI of 1876. The object of the Act was to define the improvements for which advances could be made by Government to provide for the security as a first charge on the land improved and to lay down the conditions on which advances were to be made. It was hoped by the Government when the Act was passed that it would be largely used and that the benefit to the country would be considerable. The hope has not been realised. In section 3 Chapter IV of the second part of their report the Famine Commissioners write—The evidence we have received regarding the working of this Act renders it unquestionable that it has failed to realise the intention of promoting improvements and that there is a very general reluctance to make use of its provisions. The sums which have been advanced under the Act are extremely small and bear no proportion whatever to the need which the country has of capital to carry out material improvements.

In accordance with the suggestion of the Famine Commissioners the Government of India called for the opinions of the Local Governments on the working of the Act and the causes of its failure.

There was in the replies received an almost unanimous consensus of opinion that both the Act and the rules under it require simplification.

It has accordingly been decided to bring forward a Bill to consolidate and amend the present law. For the somewhat complicated provisions of Ss 6 to 13 of Act XXVI of 1871 the Bill proposes to adopt the simpler rule that advances may be made to any person who is entitled under the law for the time being in force to make improvements on his land. For the rest, everything which it is not absolutely necessary to provide for in the body of the law is left to rules to be framed by the Local Governments. The objections sometimes taken to this method of legislation do not seem to apply to this case, as the only interests which can be affected by the rules are those of the Government, and it may be presumed that sufficient care will be taken to guard them.

The local conditions and peculiarities of the several parts of India are so varied that it is only leaving great discretion to the Local Governments that rules suitable to the working of the Act of this kind can be framed.

If this Bill is passed the Legislature will have done all that it can to remove the obstacles alleged to stand in the way of the success of the measure. There is reason however to fear that the owners of land will not resort to Government for advances of this description to any large extent. It is impossible for the District officials to have any intimate knowledge of the character and means of each applicant, and therefore a certain amount of inquiry and consequently of delay and trouble must precede the payment of money from the public treasury.

It is possible that private companies may be established whose agents will be able to offer more facilities to applicants. It is proper, therefore, to take advantage of the present opportunity to provide encouragement to private enterprise in this field.

Provisions have accordingly been inserted in the Bill to enable the Government to authorise companies or associations of approved character to make advances for the improvement of lands. A company or association so authorised will be bound to transact its business on principles and conditions laid down by the Government for its guidance, and advances made in accordance with those principles and conditions will be considered advances under the Act, and will be secured and recoverable in the same manner as if they were loans from the Government treasury." THE LAND IMPROVEMENT LOANS ACT (XIX OF 1883).

[12th October, 1883.]

Enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that the following Act may be called the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to loans of money by the Government for agricultural improvements; It is hereby enacted, as follows:

(1) This Act may be called the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, but shall not come into force in any part of British India, until such date as the Provincial Government may by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint in this behalf.

LEGISLATION. The words "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council" in Ss. 1 and 4 were repealed by S. 2 of the Land Improvement and Agricultural Loans (Amendment) Act, 1906 (VIII of 1906).

2 (1) The Land Improvement Act 1871 and Act XXI of 1876 (An Act to amend the Land Improvement Act, 1871), shall except as regards the recovery of advances made before this Act comes into force and costs incurred by the Government in respect of such advances be repealed

(2) When in any Act Regulation or Notification passed or issued before this Act comes into force reference is made to either of those Acts the reference shall so far as may be practicable be read as applying to this Act or the corresponding part of this Act

3 In this Act "Collector" means the Collector of land revenue of a district or the Deputy Commissioner or any officer empowered by the Provincial Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Collector under this Act

4 (1) Subject to such rules as may be made under section 10 loans may be granted under this Act by such officer as may from time to time be empowered in this behalf by the Provincial Government for the purpose of making any improvement to any person having a right to make that improvement or with the consent of that person to any other person

(2) Improvement means any work which adds to the letting value of land and includes the following namely—

(a) the construction of wells tanks and other works for the storage supply or distribution of water for the purposes of agriculture or for the use of men and cattle employed in agriculture

(b) the preparation of land for irrigation

(c) the drainage reclamation from rivers or other waters or protection from floods or from erosion or other damage by water of land used for agricultural purposes or waste land which is culturable

(d) the reclamation clearance enclosure or permanent improvement of land for agricultural purposes

(e) the renewal or reconstruction of any of the foregoing works or alterations therein or additions thereto and

(f) such other works as the Provincial Government [* * * * *] may from time to time by notification in the Official Gazette declare to be improvements for the purposes of this Act

5 (1) When an application for a loan is made under this Act the Officer to whom the application is made may if it is in his opinion expedient that public notice be given of the application publish a notice in such manner as the

Sec 4—The words of S 4 are unambiguous and can only be held to apply to improvements which have not been effected at the time when the loan was granted and cannot be held to apply to improvements which had already been carried out at the time when the loan was made Therefore the Government cannot be allowed to have priority in respect of advances applied for and made before the improvements were

Provincial Government may, from time to time, direct, calling upon all persons objecting to the loan to appear before him at a time and place fixed therein and submit their objections

(2) The Officer shall consider every objection submitted under sub-section (1), and make an order in writing either admitting or overruling it.

Provided that, when the question raised by an objection is, in the opinion of the officer, one of such a nature that it cannot be satisfactorily decided except by a Civil Court, he shall postpone his proceedings on the application until the question has been so decided

6 (1) Every loan granted under this Act shall be made repayable by instalments (in the form of an annuity or otherwise) within such period from the date of the actual advance of the loan, or, when the loan is advanced in instalments ¹[from the date of the advance of the last instalment actually paid] as may, from time to time, be fixed by the rules made under this Act

(2) The period fixed as aforesaid shall not ordinarily exceed thirty-five years

(3) The Provincial Government ²[* * * ] in making ³[ * * *] the rules fixing the period, shall, in considering whether the period should extend to thirty-five years, or whether it should extend beyond thirty five years, have regard to the durability of the work for the purpose of which the loan is granted, and to the expediency of the cost of the work being paid by the generation of persons who will immediately benefit by the work

7 (1) Subject to such rules as may be made under section 10, all loans granted under this Act, all interest (if any) chargeable (thereon) and costs (if any) incurred in making the same shall when they become due, be recoverable by the Collector in all or any of the following modes, namely —

NOTES

Sec 10 — A pleader who presses a Court to put a question which the Court considers improper, and insists on a note being made of his request, is not liable to fine under Act I of 1846. No opinion was offered on the point whether such conduct on the part of a pleader amounted to an offence under S 228 of the Penal Code. Where the pleader under the above circumstances was fined for an offence under S 228 without being called on to make a statement in his defence, held, that the procedure was irregular and that though there was no appeal from the order, the High Court could in revision interfere with the order on account of such irregularity. 7 B H. NOTES

Sec 1 CONSTRUCTION OF ACT AND SCOPE—(Per Full Bench)—The Act does not merely consolidate pre existing law but also amends it, which implies both addition to and derogation from the pre existing law It is a complete Code in itself as regards the subject it deals with 1930 A L J 402 = 1930 All 225 (F B) (Per Full Bench) Inherent powers of the Supreme Court of Calcutta were not conferred on the Allahabad High Court by the Indian High Courts Act of 1861 and no power to exercise inherent disciplinary jurisdiction over legal practitioners independently of the Legal Practitioners Act and the Indian Bar Councils Act now exists in the Allahabad High Court in respect of their professional or other misconduct 1930 A L J 402 = 1930 All 225 (F B) No minor can appoint an attorney and if he does, the attorney has no valid appointment under which he can act 1934 A L J 387 = 35 Cr L J 1053 = 1934 All 589

JURISDICTION OF HIGH COURT TO REINSTATE DEBARRED PLEADER—CONSIDERATIONS—The High Court has jurisdiction in the exercise of its general power of superintendence over pleaders to reinstate on the Roll and to readmit a pleader who had been struck off the Roll for professional misconduct 1 L R (1937) Bom 99 = 38 Bom L R 1161 = 1937 Bom 48 As to the considerations to be had by the High Court in cases of reinstatement after disbarment, see 1 L R (1937) B 99 1939 Rang 78 1 L R (1937) All 411 = 1936 A L J 1396 = 1937 All 50 (F B) 14 Rang 390 = 1936 Rang 368 (S B) 1 L R (1939) Bom 99 = 38 Bom L R 1161 1939 Rang 142 = 1939 Rang L R 213 (S B) 45 M L J 639 1 L R (1940) Mad 81, 1 L R (1940) Mad 84 1940 Rang 32 (1939) 2 M L J 630 (F B)

Local extent

This section and section 2 extend to the whole of British India

The rest of this Act extends, in the first instance, only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant Governors of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces and Assam. But any other Provincial Government may from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend all or any of the provisions of the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

It is an unwritten rule of the bar that where two counsels have been briefed in a case appearing on the daily board, one or other counsel must return his briefs in good time if there is a chance of neither being able to attend when the case is called on. 34 Bom L R 1425=1932 Bom 634. A resolution by the Bar Association that no member thereof should appear for the prosecution in any criminal case against any other member is a flagrant and unwarranted interference with the rights of legal practitioners contrary to the best traditions of the Bar and to all accepted notions of forensic propriety. 36 C W N 294=1932 Cal 370. It is incumbent on counsel to prepare cases before coming to Court. The time of the Court should not be taken by search for relevant passages during trial in Court. Client should also supply counsel with the necessary copies and records. 1939 A L J 118.

DUTY OF LEGAL PRACTITIONERS—CLIENTS WITH CONFLICTING INTEREST.—There is no such thing as a general agency between pleader and client. The contract of agency becomes complete when the Vakalat is executed and ends with the termination of the suit. 50 M 249=1927 Mad 157=51 M L J 804. See also 12 Mys L J 222=39 Mys H C R 203. A pleader employed by a party to a proceeding before a Court is bound faithfully and exclusively to serve that party throughout the whole proceeding. The pleader in the mofussil is not merely an Advocate. He is the confidential legal adviser of his client and does for him those things which in the Presidency towns are often done by solicitors. A pleader must not accept a vakalatnama when he knows that he cannot act for his client throughout the proceedings. 14 Bom L R 700=16 I C 788=36 Bom 606. See 1939 Rang L R 514=1939 Rang 183 (S B).

AUTHORITY TO COMPROMISE.—An advocate has no authority to compromise the suit without a power of attorney from his client. 8 R 290=127 I C 604=1930 R 313. A vakalatnama which empowers a pleader to file a compromise cannot be held to empower him to enter into a compromise and sign it for the party. 125 I C 171=1930

O 112. But see 58 M L J 551 (P C). Although vakalat gives power to pleader to compromise still if the compromise is purported to be entered into not on the basis of such power the compromise would not be binding on the client. 161 I C 919=1936 Cal 68. The power to compromise a suit is inherent in the position of an advocate. The implied authority can however be countermanded by the express directions of the client. Where a legal practitioner was engaged by a pardanasalin lady in an application for the appointment of receiver but it appeared that the client had in fact conferred a general authority on the counsel and was also aware of the negotiations leading to the compromise, held, that the advocate could compromise the suit by virtue of his implied authority and that the compromise was binding on the client. 57 I A 133=57 C 1311=58 M L J 551 (P C), 17 Lah 456=1936 Lah 199. ADMISSIONS BY LEGAL PRACTITIONERS.—Admission of counsel on a point of law is not binding on his client. 1933 C 513=144 I C 701. 144 I C 610. 1935 L 71, 12 Mys L J 190=39 Mys H C R 156. An admission by counsel of a point of law cannot be binding upon a Court and a Court need not consider itself precluded from deciding the rights of the parties on a true view of the law. 187 I C 770=1940 P C 90 (P C). See also 1933 L 368. AUTHORITY TO ACT—APPEARANCE WITHOUT VAKALATNAMA—PROCEDURE—When an accused is represented by a pleader without vakalatnama in an appeal the proper course is to adjourn the hearing of the appeal until it is produced and thus afford the accused an opportunity of being represented by a pleader 56 I C 61=21 Cr L J 413 A mukhtar though appearing in trial Court cannot file an appeal unless his power of attorney authorises him to do so Mere general words in power are not sufficient (132 I C 895 Dist.) 1933 L 504 As to Advocate accepting vakalat and failing to appear at the hearing see 1939 M L R 16 (C) It is ordinarily the duty of an advocate to be present or to make suitable arrangements for the conduct of the case and the Courts are not to be inconvenienced by the postponement of cases until the proper advocate is available 1939 Rang L=1939 Rang L R 514=182 I C 77

AUTHORITY—CONSTRUCTION—GENERAL POWERS FOLLOWED BY SPECIFIC INSTANCES OF SPECIAL AUTHORITY—Per F B (Mukerji J dissenting)—In the case of an appointment of a vakil by vakalatnama to conduct a case it is prima facie implied that he has full power to conduct the case in the way he considers best and therefore such a document should be construed liberally. If the vakalatnama confers very wide powers in very general terms on the vakil and authorizes him to conduct the case and to take other proceedings and expressly states that whatever is done by the vakil should be accepted by the litigant and then it goes on to specify certain particularly important powers like those of appointing arbitrators and compromising disputes etc unless there is a special clause excluding his authority to act in a particular way in the course of the suit such an authority should be implied. The mere fact that certain important powers are emphasised in particular does not in any way derogate from the general authority conferred upon him. It follows therefore that when general authority to conduct a case is conferred upon a vakil and it is followed by special powers to compromise a case and to refer the dispute to arbitration the power to abide by the oath of a witness whether under the Oaths Act or by way of an agreement or compromise is necessarily implied 146 I C 84=1933 A L J 1127=1933 A 861 (F B)

AUTHORITY—PRESUMPTION OF—ISSUE OF NOTICE—When a member of the Bar writes a letter purporting to be instructed by a client there is a presumption, until the contrary is proved that the letter is written under instructions 144 I C 996=1933 R 147

ACTS REQUIRED FOR PROPER CONDUCT OF TRIAL—IMPLIED AUTHORITY OF PLEADER—A counsel appearing in the case from the very nature of his duties and for the purposes of a proper conduct of the case must be deemed to have implied authority to admit or deny a document, to press or withdraw an issue in the case to examine a witness or call no witness and do such other acts which are required for the proper management and conduct of the trial 14 Luck 723=1939 Oudh 257

STATUS OF BARRISTER PRACTISING AS AN ADVOCATE IN INDIA—The right of a Barrister at Law to appear in the High Court or in the Courts subordinate to it arises from his enrolment as an Advocate and not otherwise. The peculiar position of a Barrister-at Law in England disappears here on his enrolment as an Advocate his rights duties and disabilities are the same as those of any other non Barrister Advocate. He can see the client settle his fees and act for him with or without the intervention of a solicitor. A Barrister practising as an Advocate in the High Court can accordingly sue his client for recovery of fees due (25 A 509 overruled) 55 All 570=1933 A L J 451=1933 A 417 (F B)

ADVOCATES AND PLEADERS—NO DISTINCTION—Though the methods of appointment of advocates and higher or lower grade pleaders are different and the discipline by which they are controlled arises from different sources their duties as representing their clients are similar and the principles applying in one class of legal advisers ought to be applied in the case of another 1939 Rang L R 514=1939 Rang 183 (S B)

ETIQUETTE—MEMBER OF CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY—APPEARANCE FOR SOCIETY—Merely because a legal practitioner is a member of a Co-operative Society he is not prevented by any rule of professional etiquette from accepting instructions from the Society of which he is a member. There can be no impropriety in his doing so provided that his engagement is not directly due to his being a member. But it is improper for a legal practitioner who is a Director to appear for remuneration for the Society in its legal business 56 M 970=1933 M 62=65 M L J 367

DUTIES AND OBLIGATION ON DRAFTING PLEADINGS—GRAVE AND SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS—

NOTES

Per Thom J—No counsel is entitled to frame a serious charge against a party to a litigation unless he is in possession of admissible and relevant evidence upon which if accepted counsel could reasonably ask the Court to hold the allegations true. It may well be that the evidence in support of the allegations is untrue and it is certainly not the duty of a counsel in the ordinary course to test the truth of the witnesses whom he intends to put into the witness box but at the conclusion of the evidence which he has led he should be in a position to submit as a reasonable proposition to the Court that the evidence which he has led if accepted establishes the allegations for which he had made himself responsible. If he is not in possession of such evidence to support them he is not entitled to make grave and serious allegations. 1935 All 425 (F B). Per Iqbal Ahmad J—It is in the interest of administration of justice that too rigid a test of the conduct of an advocate in the matter of drafting pleadings should not be emphasized and that the test should be such as not to deter a counsel from fearlessly placing before the Court such allegations as their clients instruct them to make so long as those allegations do not appear manifestly reckless and unfounded. It is no doubt the duty of counsel to use their own judgment, experience and discretion and not to make irrelevant or unduly insulting allegation in the pleadings but it is equally their duty to embody the case of their clients in the pleadings fearlessly provided the instructions received from the clients justify the case in the pleadings. While on the one hand a counsel is expected to be careful and not reckless in drafting the pleadings he cannot on the other hand assume the role of a Judge and refuse to embody allegations that his clients instruct him to make unless and until he has examined the evidence on the subject. A counsel is in one sense the mouthpiece of his client but he does not guarantee or pledge himself for his client's veracity. Per Allsop J—On the one hand counsel must look to the interests of his client and not be deterred by fear or favour from making any allegations which in these interests it is necessary for him to make. On the other hand he cannot take shelter behind his client and claim to be an entirely irresponsible instrument in his client's hands. There remains in him a duty and an obligation to his fellow citizens and he is certainly not entitled to make scandalous and serious allegations against those fellow citizens unless he has some basis upon which the allegations can be grounded. 155 I C 1043=1935 A 425 (F B).

PRIVATE PLEADER—A District Magistrate has no authority to direct other subordinate Magistrates to exercise their judicial discretion of allowing a person to practise as a private pleader in their Courts.

Any person aggrieved by the refusal of any Magistrate to allow him to appear as a private pleader in any particular case should move the High Court in revision. 16 L W 879=1923 M 183. Authority to counsel 'to act and appear for the party in the trial Court or any other Court' includes authority to present an appeal. 33 P L R 34. A mukhtar though appearing in trial Court cannot file an appeal unless his power of attorney authorises him to do so. Mere general words in power are not sufficient. (132 I C 895 Dist.) 1933 L 504.

COSTS—LIABILITY OF LEGAL PRACTITIONER FOR—CIRCUMSTANCES JUSTIFYING ORDER AGAINST PLEADER—There is no justification for the assumption that S 35 C P Code is not intended to cover any case where the act of a legal practitioner comes within the term 'misconduct' within the meaning of the Legal Practitioners and the Bar Councils Acts. A pleader may therefore be liable for costs of the proceedings taken by him in cases where the costs occasioned to his client are the direct result of the initiation and prosecution of the proceedings by him. Where an application for review purports to be made by a pleader personally on his own behalf and not on behalf of his client the minor or his guardian on grounds wholly untenable there is no justification for his action and he can be asked to pay the costs personally. 1942 Oudh 279=1942 O W N 68.

AUTHORITY TO APPEAR—Counsel who has not filed any vakalat from his client has no authority to appear for him. 12 Mys L J 383.

APPEARANCE OF COUNSEL AGAINST INTEREST OF HIS CLIENT—IF PERMISSIBLE—A counsel should not be allowed to appear against the interests of a person who has briefed him at one or other stage of the case. It is absolutely necessary for taking opinion that the party should lay all his cards before the counsel concerned and it is only after he has thoroughly gone into the facts of the case that a lawyer can be in a position to advise his client. In the circumstances it would be unfair to allow the counsel to appear against the same person later on and an assurance on the part of that individual would also be of no avail in the matter. 1935 Pesh 65 (1). It is undesirable for a member of the Bar to plead in a case concerning which he has a personal interest. 39 C W N 274.

TRANSFER OF BRIEF—PLEADERS APPEARING FOR ANOTHER—As to duty of pleader to be in attendance at time of hearing of case see 1940 Rang 162 (F B). Where a pleader appears for another who is unable at the moment to attend Court, he ought to let the Court know that he is so appearing. 33 I C 831=20 C W N 283. APPEARANCE—POWER OF COURT TO RESTRAIN—PLEADER LIKELY TO BE WITNESS IN CASE—

DUTIES OF PLEADER—That a Judge or Magistrate has authority to restrain a pleader from appearing for either party in a case, when it would be manifestly improper for the pleader to do so cannot be gainsaid but a very strong case must be made out before an order restraining a pleader from acting in a particular case is passed. The mere fact that the defence asserts that the pleader for the prosecution will be required as a witness for the defence, and that the Magistrate himself thinks that he will be a material witness for the defence are not sufficient grounds for restraining the pleader from appearing in the case for the prosecution. A pleader who is conducting a case is nevertheless a competent witness therein and there is no harm in his giving evidence in a case in which he is appearing. But it is desirable that a pleader should not appear in a case if he knows or has reason to believe that he will be an important witness in the case. If he accepts the brief not knowing or having reason to believe that he will be such a witness but discovers subsequently that he is a witness on a material question of fact he should retire from the case 1939 Rang L R 224=1939 Rang 342. Accused has a right to choose any advocate he wants. Prosecution cannot fetter that choice by summoning the advocate as a witness. On the other hand the Court is bound to see that the administration of justice is not in any way embarrassed. If an advocate is called as a witness by the other side it can safely be left to the good sense of the advocate to determine whether he can continue to appear as an advocate or whether by doing so he will embarrass the Court or the client. If a Court comes to the conclusion that a trial will be embarrassed by the appearance of an advocate who has been called as a witness by the other side and if notwithstanding the Court's expression of its opinion the advocate refuses to withdraw in such a case the Court has inherent jurisdiction to require the advocate to withdraw. But the prosecution or the party calling the opposite party's advocate as a witness must in such a case establish to the satisfaction of the Court that the trial will be materially embarrassed if the advocate continues to appear as advocate for his client 41 Bom L R 282=1939 Bom 140. See also 48 L W. 276=(1938) 2 M L J 446

FEES—When an Advocate enters into a contract with his client it is appropriate that in order to avoid any future misunderstanding as to the amount of the fees to be charged for various works there should be a clear written contract between the parties and the amount charged should be clearly mentioned and agreed to by the client 1936 A L J 300=1936 All 359 (F B). Before relationship of advocate and client arises by concluding a contract of service it is open both to the client and the advocate to bargain for services in such methods as may seem proper. But after the relationship arises the advocate should not use his privileged and responsible position to obtain anything more than a fair and just remuneration 1937 Rang 299. In India as at English Common Law a solicitor has a particular lien which does not depend on actual possession of the property as distinguished from possessory lien. This lien is not liable to be defeated on the ground that the assignee of a decree or the attaching creditor of the solicitor's client had no express notice of the lien. The fact of there being a fund in Court amounts to notice of the existence of a solicitor's lien (51 B 855 Foll.) 60 M L J 133=1931 M 183. See also 1940 Cal 179=I L R 1939) 1 Cal 212=43 C W N 290 (This lien is not defeated by the insolvency of the party). The lien of an attorney or solicitor is really an equity claimed on his behalf and is subject to all the equities between the attorney's client and any other party or parties interested in the property over which the lien is claimed. An attorney has no higher rights than his client. A plaintiff's right to set off costs payable to him by the defendant against the sum found due from him to the defendant on the taking of accounts in the same suit is not affected by the defendant's solicitor's lien. The Courts in India have complete discretion to allow a set off whether in the same action or in different actions and it extends to the setting off of costs against costs and also in a proper case to the setting off of debt or damages against costs and vice versa. The discretion has to be exercised judicially having regard to the facts and circumstances of each case. The circumstances considered by the Court are matters relating to the attorney whose lien is sought to be affected irrespective of his client because as between the parties themselves there can hardly be a ground for resisting a set-off. After a set-off has already been allowed an attorney's lien is not protected 41 Bom L R 1091=1 L R (1940) Bom 692=1939 Bom 518. Where a solicitor is engaged by the next friend of a minor plaintiff the client is the next friend and not it is to the next friend, and not to the minor, that the solicitor looks for his costs. Though the solicitor has a lien enforceable against the next friend the lien does not exist against the minor. Where, therefore, there is a change of next friend and a new next friend comes in, the

There may be cases in which the fee due to a vakil may be adjusted otherwise than by actual payment of money. Such an adjustment however should be something more than a mere agreement to pay. When a promissory note especially a negotiable instrument is given it may be equivalent to payment. A certificate may not be dishonest even if no fee was received and it may be too strong an expression to describe such a certificate as a false certificate. See 58 C 505=1931 C 523. According to the rules only such sum can be taxed as legal practitioner's fee as has been actually paid and certified by the legal practitioner to whom it has been paid. Where a receiver of an insolvent's estate who happens to be a legal practitioner conducts his own case and does not pay any fees to any legal practitioner the Court can not direct any legal fees to be taxed as costs. 163 I C 831=1936 A L J 698=1936 All 489. Where several pleaders are engaged by a party to a litigation in the absence of any agreement as to the amount of their fees each pleader is entitled to his fees up to the full fee assessed at the hearing. Where undue influence is not apparent and a solicitor has agreed to accept taxed costs in the event of success so as to lighten the burden on his client in the event of failure the agreement cannot be looked upon with disfavour and the Court will respect the terms of such an agreement of employment. Where a solicitor for a respondent to a Privy Council appeal agrees to accept a reduced fee stipulating that in the event of the client's success in the appeal he should be paid the full taxed costs that agreement cannot be regarded as invalid or unenforceable either in practice or in law. It is competent to the solicitor to recover the amount covered by his bill of costs from the amount of security deposited by the appellant. ATTORNEY—LIEN—KINDS OF—PASSIVE OR RETAINING LIEN—NATURE OF—The rights of an attorney in India are the same as the rights of a solicitor in England except in so far as the latter have been diminished or increased by statute. A solicitor in England is entitled to three kinds of lien to protect his right to recover his costs from his client namely (i) a passive or retaining lien, (ii) a common law lien on property recovered or preserved by his efforts (iii) a statutory lien enforceable by a charging order. Indian statutory law contains no provision for the last mentioned lien but the other two kinds of lien are available in India. The lien on property recovered or preserved by the efforts of the solicitor is a particular lien and not a general lien and it is not available for the general balance of account between the attorney and his client but extends only to the costs of recovering or preserving the property in suit. The passive or retaining lien is not affected or curtailed by S 171 of the Contract Act. This lien enures in favour of the solicitor in respect of all deeds papers or other personal chattels which come into his possession in the course of his professional employment. This is a general lien but with reference to moneys recovered by the solicitor for his client he has no such general lien. Whether he obtains possession of the money which is the fruit of his exertions or whether it is still in deposit in Court in either case his lien or right to be paid out of those funds is confined to the costs incurred in respect of those funds subject only to this that he has the ordinary rights of set off which one creditor has against another 60 C 1442=149 I C 331=1934 C 341

Sec 12 SCOPE OF SECTION.—The High Court has jurisdiction under this section to take action against a pleader who has been convicted of a criminal offence though the offence was not one committed in his professional capacity 59 M 732=1936 Mad 318=70 M L J 498 (F B). The use of word 'may' in S 12 after the words 'the High Court' shows that the discretion of the High Court in each particular case is absolute 33 C W N 829=1929 C 771. It is not sufficient for the applicability of the section that the pleader has been convicted of a criminal offence. Though the Court cannot in the exercise of its disciplinary jurisdiction question the propriety of the conviction it has yet to inquire into the nature of the crime in order to decide whether the offence was such as to imply defect of character rendering him unfit to continue in the profession 12 Pat L T 773=1931 P 369 (F B). See also 1938 Rang 394 1938 Rang 125. Where a legal practitioner has been convicted of a criminal offence and his case is sent to the Bar Council for enquiry to determine if any disciplinary action was called for the Bar Council should merely record the conviction and should call on the legal practitioner to show cause why action should not be taken against him. It is not open to it to justify the action of the legal practitioner 1938 Rang 394. A legal practitioner was convicted of criminal breach of trust and abetment thereof, in respect of certain moneys of a client. It was found that he was to a certain extent the victim of his senior. He paid the amount of defalcation after his conviction. High Court in consideration of the fact that he was victim of circumstances and had expressed his repentance and assured to lead honourable life suspended the practitioner for one year 33 C W N 829=1929 C 771. S 12 has no application unless the conviction alone shows the convict to be unfit to be a pleader 27 N L R 29=1931 N 33 (S B). The words 'criminal offence' used in S 12 mean an offence punishable under Penal Code as well as any act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force which is indictable and punishable criminally by Courts of justice 12 Pat L T 773=1931 P 369 (F B). S 12 contains no implication that disciplinary action against a pleader convicted of an offence cannot be based on his conduct when such conduct includes the commission of any offence for which he has been punished. Disciplinary action is not taken by way of punishment, but on consideration whether the person formerly admitted to practice is a proper person to continue to practise or not. No one can be admitted to practice until he makes a solemn declaration and the inference is that one who has contravened this declaration and is likely to do so in future is not such a person. The fact that the motive of the pleader in taking part in a Civil Disobedience movement was to draw attention to the dissatisfaction with the forest policy of Government is no justification nor is the fact he was only a participant and not a leader in the movement material in considering the necessity for disciplinary action 27 N L R 29=1931 N 33 (S B). A pleader who was 60 years old and who had been of unblemished character was convicted under S 409 I P Code for embezzlement of client's money. Held that the pleader was liable to be removed from the rolls notwithstanding his age and previous good character 1938 Rang 288. See also (1939) 2 M L J 632 176 I C 752. But see 165 I C 601=1936 Lah 717. A pleader is not entitled to go behind the conviction in order to show that his conviction was not justified either in law or on facts and that he committed no offence 27 N L R 29=1931 Nag 33 (S B). Conviction of legal practitioner is sufficient without any further enquiry to justify the High Court in taking proceedings under S 12. It is not permissible to go behind the conviction and the pleader cannot be allowed to have indirect appeals against the judgment of conviction 1929 C 771, 59 M 732=1936 M 318=70 M L J 498 (F B). Though it is not incompetent for the High Court to deal under Art 8 Letters Patent with charges of a criminal nature against a practitioner unless and until these have been investigated by a Criminal Court it is eminently fitting that in such cases the criminal prosecution should precede any disciplinary decision 58 I A 152=53 A 183=61 M L J 130 (P C). The charges of professional misconduct must be clearly proved and should not be inferred from mere ground of suspicion however reasonable or from what may be a mere error of judgment or indiscretion. 1939 R D 641 (2)=1940 A W R (B R) 5 (1) Where the allegations against a legal practitioner amount to a criminal charge the proper procedure is to prosecute him criminally in the first instance before bringing proceedings under the Legal Practitioners Act. Otherwise he is likely to be prejudiced inasmuch as these are summary proceedings in the nature of a summons trial. 178 I C 456=I L R (1938) 2 Cal 138=1938 Cal 783. See also 54 M 857=61 M L J 148 (F B).

CONVICTION OF PLEADER—CONVICTION BY A FOREIGN COURT—The conviction of a legal practitioner for perjury is good ground for striking off his name from the roll of practitioners. Where the conviction is by a foreign Court but the law is the same as in India and there has been a fair trial the same principles will apply. An order of disbarment is not conclusive for all time if circumstances change and the Court is convinced that the delinquent has been brought to a higher sense of honour and duty the order can be cancelled. Disbarment of a member of the English Bar by the Benchers of his Inn does not ipso facto lead to his being struck off the rolls of an Indian High Court. The matter would have to be decided under the discretion given by the Letters Patent. 45 M L J 639=46 M 903=1924 M 265 (F B). Legal practitioners are officers of the Court and it is their clear duty to respect law themselves and to get it respected by others. If a legal practitioner disobeys an order promulgated by a public servant lawfully empowered to promulgate such order his action amounts to defiance of law and he is therefore liable to be dealt with under the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court. 42 P L R (I and K) 77.

NO DISTINCTION ON PRINCIPLE CAN BE MADE BETWEEN POLITICAL OFFENCES AND OTHER KINDS OF LAW BREAKING—Pleader convicted of waging war against the King under S. 121 I P Code has 'defect of character' which unfits him to continue in practice. 59 M 732=1936 M 318=70 M I 498 (F B). Where a pleader wilfully breaks the law upon one or two isolated occasions it may not be necessary for the Court to take any action under S. 12 of the Legal Practitioners Act. Where on the other hand it is shown that the pleader has wilfully and habitually broken the law, then the Court may quite reasonably come to the conclusion that his acts imply such a defect of character as to render him unfit for practice as a pleader and in such a case the Court may dismiss him from practice. Where the acts of the pleader fall midway between the two extremes then the Court may take a more lenient view and may think it sufficient to warn the pleader by inflicting upon him a period of suspension or otherwise that if he persists in breaking or defying the law such conduct will inevitably lead the Court to the conclusion that he is totally unfit to practise in the Courts which have been established to enforce the law. 38 C W N 276. A pleader was prosecuted three times and convicted twice for semi-political offences. Held that the case fell within the mediate position and warning with suspension was sufficient. 35 Cr L J 592=148 I C 57=1934 C 242 (2). An order binding over a pleader under S. 118 Cr P Code, may not be a conviction for an offence. But a pleader who is convicted under S. 17 (2) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act is guilty of nothing short of an open and defiant violation of law. Seeing that it is the duty of the members of the legal profession to assist the Courts to maintain and enforce obedience to law such conduct in a pleader is such a defect of character as would unfit him to be a pleader and make him liable to action under S. 12 of the Act. 152 I C 943=1934 C 808. Where a pleader was convicted under the Defence of India Rules for uttering a slogan to the effect that none should assist the British Government in their war efforts as it was the duty of everybody to resist all wars by non-violence. Held that in the circumstances of the case the exercise of disciplinary jurisdiction under S. 12 was not called for. 46 C W N 405. In order to see whether disciplinary action under S. 12 of the Legal Practitioners Act should be taken against a pleader who has been convicted under R. 38 read with R. 34 (6) (e) of the Defence of India Rules 1939 the Court must not merely accept the fact that he has been convicted but must consider the material upon which he has been convicted. Where the speech for which he has been convicted incites others to break the law which it is the duty of the Courts to administer and to do acts tending to subvert order, the Court is entitled to take disciplinary action against him. I L R (1941) Lah 736 (F B).

A pleader convicted under S 3 Police Incident to Disaffection Act and under S 17 Criminal Law (Amendment) Act 134 I C 945=12 Pat L T 773=1931 P 369 (F B). The mere fact of conviction of any criminal offence implying moral turpitude can be a sufficient basis in law for an order of suspension or dismissal of a pleader or mukhtar only but not of a vakil whose cases of misconduct are not provided for by the Legal Practitioners Act, but by paragraph 8 of Letters Patent 8 O W N 267=1931 O 161 (F B).

CONVICTION FOR CONDUCTING LOTTERY —A pleader of good character and about thirty years of age who was permitted to engage in business barked upon a scheme which the Courts decided was nothing less than a lottery and the pleader was convicted for taking part in the lottery. When the question came before the High Court whether he should be debarred from practising as a pleader Held that the pleader behaved very foolishly in acting as he did but taking into consideration his young age his name should not be struck off the register 164 I C 350=37 Cr L J 1118=1936 Rang 382.

Secs 12 to 14, DISCIPLINARY JURISDICTION —HIGH COURT'S DISCRETION —IF CAN BE FETTERED BY LOCAL GOVERNMENT —The Local Government have no locus standi in any way to fetter the discretion of the High Court to take or not to take any action under Cl 8, Letters Patent or under the Legal Practitioners Act against any legal practitioner, the matter is one which is entirely within the discretion of the High Court. As the Local Government is not competent to claim that action should be taken against any particular legal practitioner, it has also no right or power either to abandon any proceedings or to condone the conduct of the legal practitioner so far as it comes within the purview of the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court so as to bind it in any way 15 L 354=1934 L 251 (S B).

Sec 13 SCOPE OF SECTION —See 44 C 639 The jurisdiction of Court is not vindictive 45 M L J 718 (F B). Notice is necessary before taking action 19 M L J 504. DISCIPLINARY ACTION BY HIGH COURT —CONSIDERATIONS —The point to be considered in all cases of disciplinary action against a member of the Bar is whether his conduct involves unfitness on his part for the exercise of his profession. Moral turpitude which would entitle the Court to take action must be such as is connected with the pleader's profession or consists of any attack upon the system of which the Court forms part or embarrasses in any way the administration of justice by the Courts. A speech of a vakil alleged to injure the feelings of an important sect of the Mohanimadans does not fall in any of these categories and is therefore not one which would induce the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir to take any action against him. The State imposes suitable penalties for the infringement of its law and provides proper sanctions for

(a) who takes instructions in any case except from the party on whose behalf he is retained or some person who is the recognised agent of such party within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure, or some servant, relative or friend authorised by the party to give such instructions, or the enforcement of such penalties and there is no reason why the disciplinary jurisdiction vested in the High Court should be employed merely in aid of the Criminal Law. 37 P L R I & K 16

PROFESSIONAL MISCONDUCT—Per Krishnan J The Legal Practitioners Act 1879, deals with the Pleader only in his professional capacity and not in his private capacity though misconduct other than professional may fall under cl (f). 38 M L J 230=55 I C 198 (F B). Under S 13 the impropriety must be such as would render the continuance of the pleader in practice undesirable or unfit him for being a member of the profession. 38 M L J 230. See also 88 I C 279=26 Cr L J 1111=1925 Rang 110. MISCONDUCT—TEST—RULES FOR GUIDANCE The principles to be applied in considering whether certain conduct amounts to misconduct or not are as follows: (1) that the mere holding of certain views and expression of such views in language however emphatic or strong is no ground for taking disciplinary action against a legal practitioner, (2) that mere conviction for an offence is not sufficient but the Court must look into the nature of the act on which the conviction is based to decide whether the legal practitioner is an unfit person to remain in the profession, (3) that a legal practitioner is a part of the machinery provided for the maintenance of order and the enforcement of the law of the land; it is therefore inconsistent with his duties as legal practitioner to incite others either to boycott the Courts or to break the law which it is the duty of the Courts to administer; those who live by the law cannot preach the breaking of the law, (4) that organized breach of the peace incitement to acts tending to subvert order is a reasonable cause to suspend or remove a legal practitioner, and (5) that acts involving moral turpitude or which imply general infamy make a legal practitioner unfit to remain on the rolls of the Court. 15 Lah 354=1934 Lah 251 (S B). A legal practitioner is not merely a lawyer but also a moral agent. As such he is a judge of right and wrong and an advocate of what is right. Search for truth is to be his ideal. The practice of law is a personal right or privilege limited to selected persons of good character. It is a franchise which may be revoked for misconduct, the test being whether the misconduct is such as shown him to be unfit or unsafe to discharge the duties of his office or unworthy of confidence.

no legal practitioner can disclaim responsibility for his acts. Just as he is entitled to enjoy the privileges of his profession, he has also peculiar obligations and responsibilities attached. 12 Mys L J 292=39 Mys H C R 380. In an enquiry into charges of professional misconduct it is the duty of the legal practitioner concerned to be absolutely candid with the Court. He may unwisely maintain a stolid silence and take up the position that the case against him must be completely proved. In such case he runs a grave risk. On the other hand if he elects to state his defence it ought not to be a perversion of truth. 12 Mys L J 222=39 Mys H C R 203. Misconduct is not necessarily the same thing as conduct involving moral turpitude. 15 Lah 354=1934 Lah 251 (S B). The motive of the informer in starting disciplinary action against an advocate is immaterial. 15 Lah 354 (S B).

GENERAL RULE FOR ACCEPTING OR REJECTING CASES—A lawyer must as a general rule take up a case for any member of the public if (1) a fair and proper fee is tendered to him, (2) adequate instructions are given, and (3) the case is of a class which the lawyer is accustomed to do. He can legitimately decline to take up the case if he has an out station engagement, or is engaged in some social function is incapacitated by ill health or any reason which a sensible man would recognize adequate. The fact that proceedings in respect of such offence are instituted against a pleader as the result of a grudge makes no difference to the gravity of the offence and cannot be pleaded in excuse. 1938 Mad 264=(1938) 1 M L J 410 (F B). 17 Pat L T 263=1936 Pat 337 (S B). Bribery or attempted bribery by advocate is grossest professional misconduct and an advocate found guilty of an offence like bribery or attempted bribery cannot in any circumstances suffer so slight a penalty as suspension for four years. It is an offence which can necessarily only be purged after strenuous efforts and after a long period during which he has tried his best to restate himself in society. No doubt the door is not inevitably and permanently shut to persons who are disbarred they may after the lapse of a suitable period of time provided their conduct has been uniformly satisfactory ultimately reach reinstatement. But reinstatement is not a matter of course and it is not something which can be hoped for within a brief period of time. 1099 Rang. L. R. 214=1930 Rang. 142 (S. N.). Where a pleader brings certain witnesses who are likely to be summoned by the opposite side in connection with an election petition, into swearing affidavits to the effect that they do not know anything about the matter and also tries during the hearing of the petition to tamper with other witnesses by offering them bribes, his conduct is such as disqualifies him to remain on the roll of pleaders. 177 I. C. 731=1938 Rang. 204.

FORGERY.—If a pleader is found guilty of endeavouring to appear on behalf of a person in whom he had never been instructed and seeks to justify his conduct by the production of a forged document it would not be a matter for suspension for a month or a year; he would be totally unfitted to exercise the responsible duties of a pleader and would have to be struck off the rolls of pleaders forthwith. 183 I. C. 746=1939 Rang. 312.

TAKING PART IN POLITICS.—The jurisdiction of the High Court to take action against legal practitioners is not confined to acts in professional capacity but may extend to other activities e.g. organized resistance to payment of tax which entails grave danger to the public peace. 49 C. 815=49 I. CRIM. DISQUALIFICATION.—Where certain practising barristers and pleaders joined the movement called the Satyagraha Sabha and signed a pledge whereby they undertook to refuse custody to obey such laws as a committee to be hereafter appointed may think fit. Held that the barristers and pleaders had by signing the pledge, rendered themselves amenable to the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court but that under the circumstances a warning was enough. 22 Bom. A pleader who gives formal and public expression of his approval of the breach of the laws of the land is not a proper person to hold office of the pleader. 1931 S. 33=140 I. C. 233.

STRICTLY ENFORCING BREAKING LAWS AND ISSUING DISPERAL ORDERS.—The speech inciting the audience to break those laws which the All-India Congress Committee might declare should be broken and the speech in which the speaker exhorts the audience to resist orders for dispersal attract the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court. 15 I. C. 361=1934 L. 251 (S. N.).

COUNSEL ISSUING ELECTION MANIFESTO.—It is a well-recognised rule of etiquette in the legal profession that no attempt should be made to advertise oneself directly or indirectly. The issuing of circular letters or election manifestoes by a lawyer with his name, profession and address printed thereon, appearing to the members of his profession practising in the lower Court, who are of course in a position to recommend clients to counsel practising in the High Court, is obviously an indirect way of advertisement. It does not however amount to any professional misconduct, but only to a breach of a professional etiquette. 1934 A. 1067=153 I. C. 667 (S. B.).

ATTEMPT TO BRING INFLUENCE ON JUDGE.—A pleader attempting to bring influence on a Judge, before whom he is arguing an appeal through a relative of the Judge, is guilty of gross misconduct. His act is highly reprehensible and it is in the interest of the legal profession that serious notice should be taken of such acts and severe punishment is called for in such a case. 164 I. C. 384=1936 Lah. 732. Where however the pleader concerned is inexperienced, and expresses his penitence at once and makes no denial of what he had done, and the offence is not viewed by the public with that disfavour it should, he need not be censured and warned and ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings. 1936 Lah. 732.

CONTEMPT OF COURT BY LEGAL PRACTITIONER.—No power to punish for contempt of an inferior Court now exists independently of the I. P. Code and the Contempt of Courts Act and no disciplinary power over legal practitioners or power to punish for contempt outside the provisions of I. P. Code is vested in the subordinate Courts. 125 I. The filing of a memorandum of appeal on the last day of limitation without sufficient Court-fee knowing full well that it is under-stamped and hoping that the Court would be persuaded to accept the deficiency later is certainly not in consonance with the high traditions of the profession to which the advocate belongs. Before the Court could readmit an Advocate who has been struck off the rolls for misappropriation of moneys belonging to his client, the Court must be fully satisfied that the Advocate has fully regained his character and is fitted for re-admission into the ranks of an honourable profession. The Court would require solid facts and cogent reasons. Mere opinion is not sufficient. An Advocate can only be re-admitted if he can show that he has become worthy to act as an Advocate. His re-admission does not depend on the fact that he has been suspended or struck off the rolls for several years. In deciding such matters the Court has a duty to the public, and where the Advocate has been guilty of misappropriation it must be shown that there is no likelihood of such an offence being committed again. 1 L. INQUIRY INTO MISCONDUCT OF PLEADER—JURISDICTION, PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE— If a pleader or mukhtar practising in a Court commits an offence of professional misconduct in connection with any instructions which he has received from his client generally or in connection with any particular case then it is within the jurisdiction of any Court before whom such pleader or mukhtar is practising if brought to its notice that the practitioner has committed any unprofessional conduct, to take action against him and those proceedings would be entirely within jurisdiction. The presiding officer of the Court in which the pleader or mukhtar practises has ample jurisdiction to initiate proceedings though the particular matter in reference to which he commits the act complained of might not be before that Court. 18 Pat. L. T. 961=1938 Pat. 17=17 Pat. 96 (S. B.). Where a Subordinate Court after drawing up a charge against a pleader and holding an inquiry is of opinion that no report should be sent to the High Court and that the proceedings should be dropped the District Judge has no jurisdiction to forward those proceedings to the High Court recommending suspension. He has no jurisdiction to forward the proceedings which were never initiated by him or to act on the evidence which was never recorded by him. A reference to the High Court by the District Judge in such a case is ultra vires. 17 Pat. 261=1938 Pat. 385 (S. B.). If the District Judge disagrees with the findings of the Subordinate Court he is at liberty to draw up fresh proceedings and after giving notice to the pleader record himself all evidence in support of the charge or to refute the charge and then after adjudicating thereon he can report to the High Court if in his view the conduct of the pleader deserves a punishment to be meted out by the High Court. It is also open to the High Court to draw up fresh proceedings and then to dispose of the matter after giving notice to the pleader and after hearing his defence if any. 17 Pat. 261. If a Court thinks there has been any breach of professional etiquette or any matter calling for the exercise of disciplinary powers in the conduct of the pleader or advocate in the case it should decide on the merits of the case and reserve such question for further consideration after the disposal of the suit. 40 A. 147=44 I. JURISDICTION.—District Judge to institute the proceedings under S 14 See 49 C 850=35 C L J 520=67 I C 985 (S B) The expression "such Court" in the first clause of S 14 cannot be construed to mean the Court in which the misconduct is alleged to have been committed The section only means that any Court in which a pleader practises is competent to inquire into a charge of misconduct if the charge is brought in that Court 72 I C 521=24 Cr L J 409 (R) Infliction of punishment on the legal practitioner is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the High Court (15 C W N 764 Dist) 59 C 709=36 C W N 294=1932 C 370 A District Judge on being informed by a person who is admittedly at enmity with a legal practitioner that the legal practitioner is using his private motor as a public conveyance for passengers has no jurisdiction to hold any inquiry himself into the matter under S 14 without having referred the matter previously to the High Court The proper course is to report the matter to the High Court in order that it may take such steps as it deems fit under S 13 or otherwise 162 I C 485=1936 Rang 189 S 13 contemplates the High Court directing an inquiry before action is taken Unless the tribunal is constituted beforehand the inquiry cannot be lawful Approval of a tribunal ex post facto is repugnant to the spirit of the Act and the wording of S 13 If the tribunal conducting the inquiry has not been validly constituted acquiescence in the proceedings would not turn it into a law full tribunal. A District Judge who is directed to hold an inquiry under S 12 must hold it himself and has no power to delegate to an Additional District Judge with out reference to the High Court and with out obtaining the sanction of the High Court beforehand. Nor has the District Judge authority under S 3 A of the Madras Civil Courts Act to transfer his duty to the Additional District Judge. 11 R (1947) Mad 433=1940 Mad 370=(1940) 1 M L J 259 (F B).

REGULAR REFERENCE—FURTHER—For a proper reference to the High Court the formalities required by S 14 ought to be fulfilled and in the absence of those formalities being strictly complied with the reference is no valid reference. 27 A L J 1042=118 I C 712=1929 A 655 (F B). The High Court would exercise its disciplinary jurisdiction even though the reference under S 14 with regard to alleged misconduct of a pleader is not made by the trial Court in whose Court the occurrence has taken place but by the appellate Court which has no power to refer it. It would be necessary however that the High Court should make an enquiry. What the nature of that enquiry ought to be is clearly a matter for the discretion of the Court. P 689=4 Pat L T 235=71 I C 209. Subordinate Court can institute proceedings against a legal practitioner in respect of an act coming under Cl (f) to S 13. Where proceedings are commenced under Cl (b) to S 13 but if it is found that the act comes under Cl (f) to S 13 the High Court may avail itself even if the subordinate Court in such cases would have no jurisdiction to make the inquiry it did. 39 I C 305=21 C W N 516. The fact that the pleader concerned had become a vakil of the new High Court at Lahore since the action was taken under S 14 by a lower Court could not affect the jurisdiction of that Court. 152 P F R 1919=54 I C 982.

POWER OF SUSPENSION—Investigation in para 5 of S 14 means investigation in the High Court. It is only after a report to the High Court under para 4 that power is given to suspend under para 5. 13 C L J 457=9 I C 225=15 C W N 269. The District Judge cannot suspend any pleader from practice until he has recorded his finding that he ought to be suspended or dismissed. Suspension pending investigation is not proper. 1937 M W N 460=1937 Mad 672. See also 163 I C 586=1936 Rang 249.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS PENDING—RENEWAL OF PLEADER'S CERTIFICATE—Where a prosecution is ordered against a legal practitioner instead of proceeding according to S 14 the Judge ought not to wait until the result of the criminal proceedings are known before renewing the pleader's certificate. 38 A 182=14 A L J 82=33 I C 632. The fact that criminal proceedings in connection with an offence under S 193 I P Code are pending against a mukhtar is not a sufficient reason within the meaning of R 452 of the Rules of the Court of 4th April 1898, for refusing to renew his certificate unless the District Judge also takes action under S 14. 1901 A W N 60. A report to High Court under S 14 recommending the dismissal of a mukhtar having no licence to practise in a Revenue Office for gross misconduct does not lie where the misconduct was committed in the capacity not of a mukhtar but as a private individual and came to light in a proceeding wherein he was not a party but only a witness. 23 I C 74=19 C I J 100. A proceeding under this Act which is not properly initiated is not a judicial proceeding in the course of which a prosecution may be directed by the Court under S 476 Cr P Code. 15 C W N 259=13 C I J 457=9 I C 225. Proceedings against several pleaders are to be separate and distinct. 15 C W N 764=9 I C 247. An inquiry into the professional misconduct of a pleader being of a quasi-judicial nature the Court must have strict proof of the pleader's misbehaviour. 11 Bom L R 1150=4 I C 266. The section does not limit the consideration of a charge to the Court in which the misconduct is alleged to have been committed. 188 P F R 1901 R 37 of the Chapter XXI of the General Rules Civil (1911) applies even to a pleader of the High Court when he is practising in the Subordinate Courts. 17 I C 539=13 Cr L J 791. MISCONDUCT—APPEARANCE FOR OPPOSITE SIDE—Proper professional conduct is not a mere matter of compliance with technical rules. It is one of which every one who aspires to be called a gentleman should have an instinctive appreciation. The conduct of a pleader who had already taken instructions from defendant and received his confidence in the matter of the genuineness of a Small Cause Court suit but who notwithstanding that confidence accepts the instructions of the other side in a title suit referring to same subject matter deserves the severest censure. 15 P L T 305=150 I C 16=1934 P 352 (S B). 15. The High Court, in any case in which a pleader or mukhtar has been acquitted under section 14 otherwise than by an order of the High Court, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

16 Notwithstanding anything contained in any letters patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act as to the following matters (namely) —

(a) the qualifications and admission of proper persons to be mukhtars practising on the appellate side of such Court;

(b) the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons,

(c) the security which they may be required to give for their honesty and good conduct;

(d) the suspension and dismissal of such mukhtars; and

(e) declaring what shall be deemed to be their functions, powers and duties;

and may prescribe and impose fines for the infringement of such rules, not exceeding in any case five hundred rupees; and such fines when imposed, may be recovered as if they had been imposed in the exercise of the High Court's ordinary original criminal jurisdiction

CHAPTER IV.

OF REVENUE-AGENTS

17. The Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, may, from time to time, make rules¹ consistent with this Act as to the following matters (namely) —

(a) the qualifications, admission and certificates of proper persons to be Revenue-agents,

(b) the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons;

(c) the suspension and dismissal of such revenue-agents; and

(d) declaring what shall be deemed to be their functions, powers and duties

Publication of rules, All such rules shall be published in the Official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law

18 On the admission of any person as a revenue-agent under section 17, the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as such Authority from time to time appoint in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise up to the end of the current year in such revenue offices as may be specified therein

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Secretary or other officer and shall continue in force to the end of the current year.

Every officer so renewing a certificate shall notify the renewal to the Chief Controlling Revenue authority

19 Every revenue agent holding a certificate issued under section 18 may apply to be enrolled in any revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the limits of the territory under the Chief Controlling Revenue authority, and subject to such rules as the Chief Controlling Revenue authority may from time to time make in this behalf the officer presiding in such office shall enrol him accordingly, and thereupon he may practise as a revenue agent in such office and in any revenue-office subordinate thereto

20 Except as provided by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force no person other than a pleader duly qualified under the provisions hereinbefore contained shall practise as a revenue agent in any revenue office unless he holds a certificate issued under section 18 and has been enrolled in such office or some other office to which it is subordinate

Provided that any person duly authorized in this behalf may, with the sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue authority, or of an officer empowered by the Provincial Government in this behalf transact all or any business in which his principal may be concerned in any revenue-office

The sanction mentioned in this section may be general or special and may at any time be revoked or suspended by the Authority or officer granting the same

21 The Chief Controlling Revenue authority may suspend or dismiss any revenue agent holding a certificate issued under this Act who is convicted of any criminal offence implying a defect of character which unfits him to be a revenue-agent

22 The Chief Controlling Revenue authority may also after such inquiry as it thinks fit suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate as aforesaid—

(a) who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty or

(b) who tenders gives or consents to the retention out of any fee paid or payable to him for his services of any gratification for procuring or having procured the employment in any legal business of himself or any other revenue-agent or

(c) who directly or indirectly procures or attempts to procure the employment of himself as such revenue agent through or by the intervention of any person to whom any remuneration for obtaining such employment has been given by him or agreed or promised to be so given or

(d) who accepts any employment in any legal business through a person who has been proclaimed as a tout under section 36 or

(e) for any other reasonable cause]

23 If any revenue agent holding a certificate issued under this Act is charged with any such conduct in any office subordinate to the Chief Controlling Revenue authority or in the Court of any Munsif the officer at the head of such office or such Munsif as the case may be shall send him a copy of the charge, and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such a charge will be taken into consideration.

Proceed when revenue agent is so charged in subordinate office

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least fifteen days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established, and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

Any Revenue-officer not inferior to a Collector, and, with the Collector's sanction, any Revenue-officer subordinate to him, or any Munsif in his district, may, pending the investigation and the orders of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, suspend from practice any revenue-agent charged before him under this section.

Where any officer acting under this section is subordinate to the Commissioner of a Division, he shall transmit the report through such Commissioner, who shall forward with the same an expression of his own opinion on the case.

24. The Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, in any case in which a revenue-agent has been acquitted under section 23 otherwise than by an order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as seems fit.

CHAPTER V.

OF CERTIFICATES

25. Every certificate, whether original or renewed, issued under this Act shall be written upon stamped paper of the value prescribed therefor in the second schedule hereto annexed ¹[and of such description as the Provincial Government may, from time to time, prescribe.²]

Fee for certificates. Provided that a certificate issued on or after the first day of July in any year may be written on stamped paper of half the value so prescribed:

26. When any pleader, mukhtar or revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed under this Act, he shall forthwith deliver up his certificate to the Court or officer at the head of the office before or in which he was practising at the time he was so suspended or dismissed, or to any Court or officer to which the High Court or Chief Controlling Revenue-authority (as the case may be) orders him to deliver the same.

NOTES

See 36 SCOPE OF SECTION—See 6 A I J 22 S 36 creates a special jurisdiction but does not define the details of the mode in which that jurisdiction is to be exercised. The course to be adopted should be such as would do substantial justice to the parties brought before the Court. An enquiry under S 36 cannot be conducted in the manner prescribed in Cr P Code regarding enquiries altogether of a different nature. 44 M L J 437=69 I C 433=1923 M 188 (2). As to the effect of a resolution of a Bar Association that a person is a tout see 26 A L J 790=1928 A 334. To determine the regularity or otherwise of a Bar Association declaring certain persons to be touts any rules framed by the Association are irrelevant. 1928 All 334.

JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURE—Proceedings to declare a man a tout are not judicial ones but are only of a departmental nature. 166 I C 643=38 Cr L J 316=1937 Smd 4. Under S 36 of the Act it is not necessary that there should be a petition at all it does not contemplate the case of a party making definite allegations against an alleged tout. 44 M L J 437=69 I C 433=1923 M 188 (2). The proceedings under S 36 are of a quasi criminal nature and it is doubtful whether consent of the persons claimed against can validate any irregularity in the procedure. 1931 Cr C 137=1931 L 57. See also 62 I C 829=22 Cr L J 589. The exhibition of the copy of the 1st referred to in S 36 Cl (3) of the Act is necessary to constitute a man a proclaimed tout. The principles applicable in cases under S 110 of the Cr P Code apply to cases under S 36 40 A 153=41 I C 125. An order under S 36 declaring a person to be a tout is not valid if made by a District Magistrate on evidence recorded by a Subordinate Magistrate. 60 I C 321=24 C W N 1074. An enquiry under S 36 must be made by the District Magistrate himself and cannot be delegated to any subordinate officer. 13 Cr I J 510=15 I C 654 (C). See also 84 I C 462=1925 I 225 1931 Nag 187. The insertion of names of persons in the list of touts should be made after conducting a proper enquiry under S 36 132 I C 41=1930 A 796. Before directing inclusion of a person's name in the list of touts it is necessary under S 36 to give the person an opportunity of showing cause against the inclusion. The duties can not be delegated by any of the officers mentioned therein to their subordinates. 22 Cr I J 66=59 I C 322 (S B). Notice to show cause why a person should not be declared a tout must be given to him and evidence should be taken in his presence to show that he is a tout. 42 I C 996 (P B). The District Judge is bound to examine witnesses named by the person sought to be declared as a tout. The District Judge ought not to impart his own personal knowledge in a case unless he informs the person of the nature and source of his information and allows himself to be cross-examined thereupon. 120 P L R 1909. Where the District Judge sends to the Sen or Subordinate Judge the names of persons suspected to be touts for the purpose of enquiry and report, the District Judge should on receipt of such report pass final orders as to the inclusion of the persons in the list of touts. 32 Punj L R 9.

Proof—Proof by general repute or otherwise is necessary before a person can be declared a tout under the section. 11 P L R 1912=15 I C 307 44 I C 125=40 All 153 3 I C 982. If a resolution is based on general repute the Court may attach less weight to it but it cannot be said that such a resolution is invalid or legally inadmissible in evidence and cannot be taken into consideration by the Court. 1931 A 711. If a number of respectable pleaders in a particular district are found to be of opinion that a person is a tout the fact is sufficient to justify the District Judge in holding that the person charged is by general repute a tout. 3 I C 982. In a proceeding under S 36 certain legal practitioners who had been produced as defence witnesses by some of the persons proceeded against gave evidence in favour of those who had cited them and at the same time deposed that the rest were known to them by reputation or otherwise as touts. Held that such evidence could not be relied on as evidence against those persons on whose behalf the witnesses had not been cited. 12 Lah 385=1931 L 57. Where it appeared to the High Court on evidence that certain persons habitually acted as touts they were asked to show cause why an order should not be made under S 36 and on their failing to give evidence that they were living by honest and legitimate means they were included in the list of touts and a copy thereof ordered to be hung up in every Court. 1896 A W N 107. The decision of a Court determining that a person is a tout must be based on substantial legal evidence. 13 Cr I J 510=15 I C 654 (C). The person against whom the evidence is directed must have an opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses. 15 I C 654 (C). See also 3 I C 982.

ILLEGAL GRATIFICATION FOR FURNISHING CASES—A letter written by a High Court Vakil to another practising in the mofussil asking the latter to send up cases to him and agreeing to share the fees renders him culpable under S 36 and the High Court has jurisdiction to take up the case and suspend the pleader as his conduct amounts to a reasonable cause within S 8 of the Letters Patent of March 17, 1866. 17 A 498=22 I A 193 (P C).

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION OF HIGH COURT—CONFLICT OF AUTHORITIES—Proceedings under S 36 are not governed by the Civil or the Criminal Procedure Codes and cannot be revised under the civil or criminal jurisdiction. But the High Courts have held that they have jurisdiction to interfere under S 15 of the High Courts Act. 18 P R (Cr) 1914=25 I C 513 45 A 676=1924 A 69. See also 1941 Lah 1=1 L R (1941) Lah 133 I L R 1938 M 488=(1938) 2 M L J 100. The only provision under which the High Court would interfere with the order of a subordinate Court under S 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act is S 15 of the High Courts Act. The High Court ought not to interfere with the order of the Sessions Judge under S 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act on the ground that the finding of the latter was against the weight of evidence. 21 A 181. The jurisdiction to revise is of an exceptional character and cannot be invoked except in furtherance of justice. jecture the High Court would interfere with the order I L R 1938 Mad 988 =1938 M 634=(1938) 2 M L J 100 S 36 confers a special jurisdiction on Subordinate Courts and an order passed by a District Judge under S 36 declaring a person a tout is an order which the High Court has power to revise under S 115 C P Code being a case decided by a Court subordinate to the High Court S 439 of the Cr P Code does not apply to such a case. Nor can it be revised under the Government of India Act 1935 I L R 1938 M 988=(1938) 2 M L J 100. See also 1932 Nag 50. The High Court cannot in its revisional jurisdiction interfere under S 115, C P Code with an order under S 36. 56 I C 433=13 S L R 212. An order under S 36 does amount to a judgment contemplated by S 224 (2) Government of India Act and is not open to revision under S 115 C P Code any more than under the Cr P Code S 224 (2) Government of India Act 1935 bars the interference by the High Court on the administrative side and hence the High Court has no power to question a decision under S 36. I L R (1941) Lah 133=192 I C 363=1941 Lah 1 (Case law dismissed). The intention of the Legislature was not to allow anything of the nature of an appeal against the decision of a competent Court under S 36. 45 A 676=21 A L J 671=1924 A 69. The High Court has power to revise orders passed under S 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act by reason of power of superintendence vested in the Court by S 107 of the Government of India Act, but this power is of a very exceptional nature and cannot be invoked except in furtherance of justice. 129 I C 487=1930 L 889. Sec. 36 (1), Expl—Under S 36 (1) explanation the resolution is valuable evidence even though the facts on which the resolution is based are not disclosed. 28 N L R 159=139 I C 900=1932 N 141. A resolution or report of a Sub-Committee of only seven members out of an Association of about 22 members declaring certain persons to be tous is not a resolution by a majority of the members and hence it cannot be used as evidence of general repute under the Explanation 6 P 57=1927 P 282. Held that revision lies to High Court from an order of the District Magistrate including the name of a person in the list of tous under S 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act 1930 A L J 961=1930 A 641. The law does not require that all the members should be present at the meeting but requires that a meeting of the association should be convened for the purpose of considering whether a certain person is a tout, and if by a majority of the members present at such a meeting a resolution is passed it is sufficient. 56 C 800=115 I C 602 (2)=1929 C 196. See also 28 N L R 159=1932 N 141. Nor does it matter that some of the members who voted had lost their voting capacity for non payment of subscriptions, according to the rules of the Association. 165 I C 963=1936 Lah 382. Nor does the fact that opportunity was not given to the persons to be declared tous to appear before the association to show cause why the resolution should not be passed. 1936 L 382. To determine regularity or otherwise of a Bar Association declaring certain persons to be tous any rules framed by the Association are irrelevant. See 118 I C 524. In order to enable a Court to admit in evidence the resolution of the Bar Association declaring certain persons to be tous it is necessary to establish that it was meeting specially convened for the purpose of passing the resolution in question. Where it is not proved that all the members of the Association who were able to attend had been notified nor is it shown that those who were not notified were otherwise not capable of attending the meeting the special meeting convened to declare certain persons tous cannot be said to have been properly convened and consequently the resolution passed thereat is not a valid resolution as is contemplated by explanation to S 36 (1). 12 L 385=1931 L 57. After the amendment of the Act in 1926 while it is open to proceed under S 36 in the old way and call evidence it can also avoid the calling of witnesses once a resolution is presented to it which satisfies the requirements of Act XV of 1926. 130 I C 629=1931 A 315. The expression 'majority of members present' in the Explanation to S 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act is not the same thing as majority of members voting. Where the only evidence on which a person was declared a tout was a resolution of the Bar Association and it appeared that at the meeting of the Association 64 were present but only 26 voted in favour of the resolution 14 votes being against it and the rest being neutral held that there was no legal evidence on which the person could be declared a tout. 1930 A L J 977=1930 A 752. THE LEGAL PRACTITIONERS (WOMEN) ACT (XXIII OF 1923)

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following extracts from the statement of Objects and Reasons show the circumstances that led to the passing of this Act—

The Letters Patents of the several High Courts empower them to admit proper persons as Advocates Vakils and Attorneys and to make rules for their qualifications and admission Sections 6 and 17 of the Legal Practitioners Act 1879, similarly give powers to the High Courts and the Chief Controlling Revenue authorities to make rules for the qualification and admission of persons as Pleaders and Mukhtars and as Revenue Agents respectively. Sections 6 and 31 of the Bombay Pleaders Act 1920 (Bombay Act XVII of 1920), contain similar provisions as regards Pleaders in that Presidency. Conflicting decisions have been given by the High Courts as to the right of women who are otherwise qualified to be enrolled and to practise as legal practitioners.

The Government of India consulted Local Governments and other authorities on the question whether women should be as eligible as men to enter upon a career as legal practitioners. The general opinion expressed was that in the present conditions of India the question should be decided by Indian opinion. An opportunity of obtaining the views of the Assembly upon the question arose in connection with the motion moved by Dr H S Gour for the reference of his Bill further to amend the Legal Practitioners Act 1879 to a Select Committee. During the course of the debate upon that Resolution it was indicated that the acceptance of the motion by the Assembly would be regarded as an acceptance of the principle that no woman shall by reason only of her sex be disqualified from being admitted or being enrolled as a legal practitioner or from practising as such in any Court of law. The motion was accepted and in accordance with the undertaking given in the course of the debate on the motion the present Bill has been prepared to give effect to this view. (See Statement of Objects and Reasons Fort St George Gazette 10th April, 1923 Part III p 177)

THE LEGAL PRACTITIONERS (WOMEN) ACT (XXIII OF 1923)

[2nd April, 1923]

An Act for the removal of doubts regarding the right of women to be enrolled and to practise as legal practitioners

WHEREAS it is expedient to remove certain doubts which have arisen as to the right of women to be enrolled and to practise as legal practitioners It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title and extent 1 (1) This Act may be called THE LEGAL PRACTITIONERS (WOMEN) ACT, 1923

(2) It extends to the whole of British India including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas

Definition 2 In this Act "Legal practitioner" means a legal practitioner as defined in section 3 of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879

3 Notwithstanding anything contained in any enactment in force in British India or in the Letters Patent of any High Court or in any rule or order made under or in pursuance of any such enactment or Letters Patent no woman shall by reason only of her sex, be disqualified from being admitted or enrolled as a legal practitioner or from practising as such, and any such rule or order which is repugnant to the provisions of this Act shall, to the extent of such repugnancy, be void

Year	No	Short title	Amendment
1926	XXI	The Legal Practitioners (Fees) Act 1926	Repealed in part XII of 1927

[25th March, 1926]

An Act to define in certain cases the rights of legal practitioners to sue for their fees and their liabilities to be sued in respect of negligence in the discharge of their professional duties

WHEREAS it is expedient to define in certain cases the rights of legal practitioners to sue for their fees and their liabilities to be sued in respect of negligence in the discharge of their professional duties, It is hereby enacted as follows—

Short title, extent and commencement 1 (1) This Act may be called THE LEGAL PRACTITIONERS (FEES) ACT, 1926

(2) It extends to the whole of British India

(3) It shall come into force on such date¹ as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint

Interpretation 2 For the purposes of this Act unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) 'legal practitioner' means a legal practitioner as defined in section 3 of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, and

(b) a legal practitioner shall not be deemed to "act" if he only pleads, or to agree to "act" if he agrees only to plead

3 Any legal practitioner who acts or agrees to act for any person may by private agreement settle with such person the terms of his engagement and the fee to be paid for his professional services

Agreement for engagement of legal practitioner

4 Any such legal practitioner shall be entitled to institute and maintain legal proceedings for the recovery of any fee due to him under the agreement or, if no such fee has been settled a fee computed in accordance with the law for the time being in force in regard to the computation of the costs to be awarded to a party in respect of the fee of his legal practitioner

Right of legal practitioner to sue for fees

Sees 3 and 4—A legal practitioner can not only by private agreement settle with a client the terms and fee but also sue for his fee due under that agreement and the former cannot be said to stand in any confidential relation towards the latter in view of the plain language of Ss 3 and 4. Such a private agreement can be impugned like any other contract and in case the agreement is avoided then the fee would have to be computed according to the rules for the time being in force as provided in S 4. 132 I C 719=1931 R 104. Where the fee payable is not settled with the client under S 3 then under S 4 the pleader is entitled only to such fee as would come to on computation in accordance with the law for the time being in force in regard to the computation of the costs to be awarded to a party in respect of the fee of his legal practitioner. 1931 P 137=131 I C 542. Where client engaged a pleader and filed a vakalatnama in his favour but it was not signed by the pleader, the pleader is entitled to his remuneration for the work done by him on the principle of quantum meruit. 1931 P 137=131 I C 542. When there are several gentlemen retained by a client in the same vakalatnama each of the vakils is entitled to claim his client the full fee stipulated for by him and not merely a share in the single fee allowed as against the losing party. Sec 4—The right of a Barrister at Law to appear in the High Court in the Courts subordinate to it arises from his enrolment as an Advocate and not otherwise. The peculiar position of a Barrister at Law in England disappears here on his enrolment as an Advocate his rights duties and disabilities are the same as those of any other non-Barrister Advocate. He can see the client settle his fees and act for him with or without the intervention of a solicitor. A Barrister practising as an Advocate in the High Court can accordingly sue his client for recovery of fees due. (25 A 509, over.) 55 A 570=1933 A L J 451=1935 A 417 (F B). There is no provision in the C P Legal Practitioners Fees Rules for the case in which a pleader who has been engaged in the suit itself is re engaged

5 No legal practitioner who has acted or agreed to act, shall, by reason only of being a legal practitioner, be exempt from liability to be sued in respect of any loss or injury due to any negligence in the conduct of his professional duties

Establishing a High Court in the North Western Provinces of the Bengal Presidency dated 17th March 1866

Victoria by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen Defender of the Faith To all

Recital of Acts 24 and 25 Vict c 104 to whom these presents shall come greeting Whereas and twenty fifth years of Our reign entitled "An Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India", it was amongst other things enacted that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Letters Patent under the Great seal of the United Kingdom to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal for the Bengal division of the Presidency of Fort William aforesaid and that such High Court should consist of a Chief Justice and as many Judges not exceeding fifteen as Her Majesty might, from time to time think fit to appoint who shall be selected from among persons qualified as in the said Act is declared. Provided always that the persons who at the time of the establishment of such High Court were Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature and permanent Judges of the Court of Sudder Dewany Adawlut or Sudder Adawlut of the same presidency, should be and become Judges of such High Courts without further appointment for that purpose and the Chief Justice of such Supreme Court should become the Chief Justice of such High Court and that upon the establishment of such High Court as aforesaid the Supreme Court and the Court of Sudder Dewany Adawlut and Sudder Nizamat Adawlut at Calcutta in the said Presidency should be abolished.

And that the High Court of Judicature so to be established should have and exercise all such civil criminal admiralty and vice admiralty testamentary intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction original and appellate and all such powers and authority for and in relation to the administration of justice in the said Presidency as Her Majesty might by such Letters Patent as aforesaid grant and direct subject however to such directions and limitations as to the exercise of original civil and criminal jurisdiction beyond the limits of the Presidency town as might be prescribed thereby and save as by such Letters Patent might be otherwise directed and subject and without prejudice to the legislative powers in relation to the matters aforesaid of the Governor General of India in Council the High Court so to be established should have and exercise all jurisdiction and every power and authority whatsoever in any manner vested in any of the Courts in the same Presidency abolished under the said Act at the time of the abolition of such last mentioned Courts.

And whereas it is further declared by the said recited Act that it shall be lawful for Us by Letters Patent to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature in and for any portion of the territories within Her Majesty's dominions in India not included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court to consist of a Chief Justice and such number of other Judges with such qualifications as were by the same Act required in persons to be appointed to the High Courts established at the said Presidencies as We from time to time might think fit and appoint and that subject to the directions of the Letters Patent all the provisions of the said recited Act relative to High Courts and to the Chief Justice and other Judges of such Courts and to the Governor General or Governor of the Presidency in which such High Courts were established shall as far as circumstances may permit be applicable to any new High Court which may be established in the said territories and to the Chief Justice and other Judges thereof and to the persons administering the Government of the said territories.

And whereas We did upon full consideration of the premises think fit to erect and establish and by Our Letters Patent under the Great seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland bearing date at Westminster the fourteenth day of May in the twenty fifth year of Our reign in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty two did accordingly for Us Our heirs and successors erect and establish at Fort William in Bengal for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William aforesaid a High Court of Judicature which should be called the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and did thereby constitute the said Court to be a Court of Record.

1 Now know Ye that we upon full consideration of the premises and of

CI 10 EFFECT OF AMENDMENT OF CLS 10 AND 27 —The Letters Patent of the Allahabad High Court has been amended by further Letters Patent, dated 9th December 1927, in two material respects CI 10 of the Letters Patent of the Court provided for an appeal to the High Court against decision of a single Judge of the Court but under the change now made such appeal will lie only when the Judge against whose decision it is intended to prefer an appeal certifies that the case is a fit one for appeal CI 27 of the Letters Patent provided for the opinion of the senior Judge prevailing in certain cases when two Judges constituting a Division Bench differed in opinion. This clause has been amended so as to do away with the opinion of the senior Judge prevailing in any case (32 C W N Journal p xlv) This amendment of Letters Patent is not retrospective in its operation in respect of right of appeal 32 C W N 1130=1928 C 640 (F B) See also 48 C L J 150 55 M L J (Short Notes 37) Second appeal disposed of prior to date on which amendment took effect—Appeal preferred subsequent to that date—New provision applicable 30 Bom L R 942=1928 B 371 Under this CI 10 an appeal lies from an order of a single Judge passed in an appeal from an order 1936 A L J 1326=1937 A 165 The word judgment covers not merely final orders but also preliminary or interlocutory orders 20 A L J 801=45 A 66 As to the test to determine whether an adjudication is or is not a judgment see 45 A 66 A final decision which effectually disposes of the appeal before the High Court amounts to a judgment whether it amounts to a decree or not If it does not amount to a decree it would amount to an order The word judgment in cl 10 should not be read in a restricted sense and an appeal lies against an order of remand passed by a single Judge under O 43 R 23 1933 A L J 127=1933 A 262 (1 B), 55 A 326 As a general working rule there has grown up in the Allahabad

Appeal from the Court of original jurisdiction to the High Court in its appellate jurisdiction

Court of Judicature at Allahabad from the judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction in respect of a decree or order made in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction by a Court subject to the superintendence of the said High Court, and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction, and not being a sentence or order passed or made in the exercise of the power of superintendence under the provisions of section 107 of the Government of India Act, or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction) of one Judge of the said High Court or one Judge of any division Court, pursuant to section 108 of the Government of India Act, and that, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore provided, an appeal shall lie to the said High Court from a judgment of one Judge of the said High Court or one Judge of any division Court, pursuant to section 108 of the Government of India Act, made in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction in respect of a decree or order made in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction by a Court subject to the superintendence of the said High Court where the Judge who passed the judgment declares that the case is a fit one for appeal, but that the right of appeal from other judgments of Judges of said High Court or of such Division Court shall be to Us, Our Heirs, or Successors in Our or Their Privy Council, as hereinafter provided.]

11 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces, shall be a Court of Appeal from the Civil Courts of the North-Western Provinces, and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as are subject to appeal to the said High Court by virtue of any laws or regulations now in force.

NOTES

REVIEW—No application for a review of judgment is allowable where the decree was given in an appeal under cl. 10 of the Letters Patent 48 I C 476=16 A L J 964 Per Banerji and Bennett JJ—Procedure is one thing and jurisdiction is another. There is a clear distinction between procedure and jurisdiction. A Bench hearing a Letters Patent appeal derives its jurisdiction to hear the appeal from the Letters Patent and not from the Code because the Letters Patent provides that such an appeal should lie to a Bench and the Code makes no such provision and as S 114 is not intended to provide for the review of judgments passed in the exercise of jurisdiction derived from other laws 53 A 535=1931 A 244 (F B)

Cl 11—No appeal lies against an order of remand by the District Judge in an appeal. See 48 A 684, 23 A L J 965=48 A 104. The term rival courts does not cover a tribunal created under a particular statute for a particular purpose e.g. a Court created under the U P Municipalities Act 23 A L J 385=47 A 513=1925 A 380 (F B)

Cl 12—The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery exists in the Allahabad High Court by reason of cl. 12 of Letters Patent but the High Court will not exercise that jurisdiction in a case where an application was made by the father as member of a joint Hindu family to be appointed guardian of the property belonging to his minor sons 26 A L J 595 See also 112 I C 873. In a case where the father and the mother are living apart and where each of them claims to have the custody of the child the main question for the consideration of Court is what would be more conducive to the child's welfare i.e. whether the child would be better looked after by the mother or by the father. The Court has also to take into consideration the personal law to which the parties are subject 150 I C 149=1934 A L J 399=1934 A 722. On an application under cl. 12 of the Letters Patent praying that the applicant may be appointed guardian of the person of a minor the High Court has jurisdiction to grant the relief prayed for even though the applicants more appropriate remedy would be to make an application to the District Judge under S 9 of the Guardians and Wards Act for the guardianship of the the Presidency of Fort William, by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, but subject to the provisions of any laws or regulations now in force

13 And We do further ordain that with respect to the law or equity and rule of good conscience to be applied to each case coming before the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces, in the exercise of its extraordinary original civil jurisdiction such law or equity and rule of good conscience shall (until otherwise provided) be the law or equity and rule of good conscience which have been applied to such case by any local Court having jurisdiction therein

14 And We do further ordain that with respect to the law or equity and rule of good conscience to be applied by the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces to each case coming before it in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction such law or equity and rule of good conscience shall be the law or equity and rule of good conscience which the Court in which the proceedings in such case were originally instituted ought to have applied to such case

Criminal Jurisdiction

15 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces shall have ordinary original criminal jurisdiction in respect of all such persons within the said Provinces as the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal shall have criminal jurisdiction over at the date of the publication of these presents and the criminal jurisdiction of the said last mentioned High Court over such persons shall cease at such date. Provided nevertheless that criminal proceedings which shall at such date have been commenced in the said last mentioned High Court shall continue as if these presents had not been issued

16 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction shall be empowered to try all persons brought before it in due course of law

17 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces shall have extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction over all persons residing in places within the jurisdiction of any Court now subject to the superintendence of the Sudder Nizamat Adawlut and shall have authority to try at its discretion any such persons brought before it on charges preferred by any Magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in that behalf

18 And We do further ordain that there shall be no appeal to the said High Court from any sentence or order passed or made in any criminal trial before the Courts of original criminal jurisdiction, which may be constituted by one or more Judges of the said High Court. But it shall be at the discretion of any such Court to reserve any point or points of law for the opinion of the said High Court ch 11 There is no general rule that the High Court should in all cases take action under cl 12 as there may be cases in which complicated questions of fact have to be ascertained and such cases might be more suitably dealt with in the Court of the District Judge where witnesses could be examined and cross examined 1934 A L J 399=1934 A 722

19 And We do further ordain that, on such point or points of law being so reserved as aforesaid, the said High Court shall have full power and authority to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such point or points of law, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court shall seem right

20 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature, for the North Western Provinces, shall be a Court of Appeal from the Criminal Courts of the said Provinces and from all other Courts from which there is now an appeal to the Court of Sudder Nizamut Adawlut for the said Provinces, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as are subject to appeal to the said Court of Sudder Adawlut virtue of any law now in force

21 And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall be a Court of reference and revision from the Criminal Courts subject to its appellate jurisdiction, and shall have power to hear and determine all such cases referred to it by the Sessions Judges or by any other officers now authorized to refer cases to the Court of Sudder Nizamut Adawlut of the North-Western Provinces, and to revise all such cases tried by any Officer or Court possessing criminal jurisdiction as are now subject to reference or to revision by the said Court of Sudder Nizamut Adawlut

22 And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall have power to direct the transfer of any criminal case or appeal from any Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction, and also to direct the preliminary investigation or trial of any criminal case by any officer or Court otherwise competent to investigate or try it, though such case belongs in ordinary course to the jurisdiction of some other Officer or Court

Act under which punishments to be inflicted

23 And We do further ordain that all persons brought for trial before the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces either in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, or in the exercise of its jurisdiction as a Court of appeal, reference or revision, charged with any offence for which provision is made by Act No XLV of 1860, called the 'Indian Penal Code,' or by any Act amending or excluding the said Act which may have been passed prior to the publication of these presents, shall be liable to punishment under the said Act or Acts, and not otherwise

24 And We do further ordain that whenever it shall appear to the Lieutenant Governor of the North-Western Provinces, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, convenient that the jurisdiction and power by these Our Letters Patent, or by the recited Act, vested in the said High Court, should be exercised in any place within the jurisdiction of any Court, now subject to the superintendence of any Sudder Dewany Adawlut or the Sudder Nizamut Adawlut of the North Western Provinces, other than the usual places of sitting of the said

Testamentary and Intestate Jurisdiction

25 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces, shall have the like power and authority as that which is now lawfully exercised within the said Provinces, by the said High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, in relation to the granting of probates of last wills and testaments, and letters of administration of the goods, chattels, credits and all other effects whatsoever of persons dying intestate, and that the jurisdiction of the said last mentioned High Court in relation thereto shall cease from the date of the publication of these presents. Provided always that any proceedings already commenced in relation to any of the matters afore said in the said last mentioned High Court shall continue as if these presents had not been issued. Provided also that nothing in these Letters Patent contained shall interfere with the provisions of any law which has been made by competent legislative authority for India, by which power is given to any other Court to grant such probates and letters of administration

Matrimonial jurisdiction

26 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces shall have jurisdiction within the said Provinces in matters matrimonial between Our subjects professing the Christian religion. Provided always that nothing therein contained shall be held to interfere with the exercise of any jurisdiction in matters matrimonial by any Court not established by Royal Charter within the said Provinces lawfully possessed thereof

Powers of single Judges and Division Courts

27 And We do hereby declare that any function which is hereby directed to be performed by the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction may be performed by any Judge or by any Division Court thereof, appointed or constituted for such purpose ¹[in pursuance of section 108 of the Government of India Act, 1915], and if such Division Court is composed of two or more Judges and the Judges are divided in opinion as to the decision to be given on any point, such point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges if there shall be a majority, but if the Judges should be equally divided ¹[they shall state the point upon which they differ and the case shall then be heard upon

Civil Procedure

28 And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces from time to time to make rules and orders for the purpose of adopting, as far as possible, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, being an Act passed by the Governor-General in Council and being Act No VIII of 1859, and the provisions of any law which has been or may be made, amending or altering the same, by competent legislative authority for India, to all proceedings in its testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdictions, respectively

Criminal Procedure

29 And We do further ordain that the proceedings in all criminal cases which shall be brought before the said High Court, in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction, shall be regulated by the procedure and practice which was in use in the High Court of Judicature for Fort William in Bengal, immediately before the publication of these presents, subject to any law which has been or may be made in relation thereto by competent legislative authority for India, and that the proceedings in all other criminal cases shall be regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure, prescribed by an Act passed by the Governor General in Council, and being Act No XXV of 1861, or by such further or other laws in relation to criminal procedure as may have been or may be made by such authority as aforesaid

Appeals to Privy Council

30 And We do further ordain that any person or persons may appeal to Us, Our Heirs and Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, in any matter not being of criminal jurisdiction, from any final judgment, decree or order of the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces, made on appeal, and from any final judgment, decree or order made in the exercise of original jurisdiction by the Judges of the said High Court, or of any Division Court from which an

PROCEEDING UNDER BAR COUNCILS ACT FOR MISCONDUCT OF ADVOCATE.—LEAVE TO APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL.—When special power has been conferred upon the High Court under S 10 Bar Councils Act, to get an inquiry made into the alleged misconduct of an advocate and on receipt of the finding to fix a date for the hearing of the case and to hear the parties concerned and then pass such final orders in the case as it thinks fit and make an order as to the payment of the costs of the inquiry and of the hearing in the High Court, and if necessary, later on to review its order the High Court in such proceeding is acting judicially and not merely in an administrative capacity. The entire proceeding is of a judicial nature and the proceeding is a hearing before the High Court and orders for the payment of costs of such proceedings can be passed. No doubt in essence the action taken is a disciplinary action but the proceeding in itself is of the nature of a judicial proceeding and the inquiry is a public inquiry in which the parties concerned are entitled as of right to be heard. It cannot therefore be said that in such a judicial proceeding the High Court is not exercising any 'jurisdiction' within the meaning of cl 30 Letters Patent. Such a jurisdiction is not an appellate jurisdiction, nor is it a criminal jurisdiction. As it is the High Court only which passes final orders in the case on the receipt of the finding it must be held to be exercising original jurisdiction and not any appellate jurisdiction. The order passed in such a proceeding is therefore an order passed in the exercise of original jurisdiction of the High appeal shall not lie to the said High Court, under the provisions contained in the 10th clause of these presents. Provided, in either case, that the sum or matter at issue is of the amount or value of not less than 10,000 rupees, or that such judgment, decree or order shall involve, directly or indirectly, some claim, demand or question to or respecting property amounting to, or of the value of, not less than 10,000 rupees, or from any other final judgment, decree or order made either on appeal or otherwise as aforesaid, when the said High Court shall declare that the case is a fit one for appeal to Us, Our Heirs or Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council subject always to such rules and orders as are now in force, or may, from time to time, be made, respecting appeals to Ourselves in Council from the Courts of the said Provinces, except so far as the said existing rules and orders, respectively, are hereby varied and subject also to such further rules and orders, as We may with the advice of Our Privy Council, hereafter make in that behalf

31 And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces at its discretion on the motion or if the said High Court be not sitting, then for any Judge of the said High Court, upon the petition of any party who considers himself aggrieved by any preliminary or interlocutory judgment, decree, order or sentence of the High Court, in any such proceedings as aforesaid, not being of criminal jurisdiction, to grant permission to such party to appeal against the same to Us, Our heirs and Successors in Our or Their Privy Council, subject to the same rules, regulations and limitations, as are herein expressed respecting appeals from final judgments, decrees, orders and sentences

32 And We do further ordain that, from any judgment, order or sentence of the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces, made in the exercise of original criminal jurisdiction, or in any criminal case where any point or points of law have been reserved for the opinion of the said High Court in manner hereinbefore provided, by any Court which has exercised original jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the person aggrieved by such judgment, order or sentence to appeal to Us, Our heirs or Successors in Council Provided the said High Court shall declare that the case is a fit one for such appeal and under such conditions as the said High Court may establish or require, subject always to such rules and orders as We may, with the advice of Our Privy Council, hereinafter make in that behalf

33 And We do further ordain that, in all cases of appeal made from any judgment, order, sentence or decree of the said High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces, to Us, Our heirs or Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, such High Court shall certify and

Court, conferred upon it by the Indian Bar Councils Act, modifying to some extent the power conferred upon it by the Letters Patent. The High Court has therefore jurisdiction to grant leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council provided it is satisfied that it is a fit and proper case. In the case of an advocate the High Court found that not only was the filing of fee certificate contrary to the rules framed by the High Court but that he acted in bad faith in filing it. The point raised was that there was some contradiction in the two sub-sections of the Rule at the time when the advocate had got his form of certificate printed, which contradictions had been lately removed by amendment that there was latitude allowed to him inasmuch as it was provided that the certificate shall be 'so far as is possible' in the form prescribed and that in filing a certificate he had made it clear in it that he had not received the amount in cash but had accepted a promissory note in lieu of the fee. Held that this was a case which should be certified as a fit one for appeal to the Privy Council under S 109 (c), C P Code or at any rate under Cl 30 Letters Patent 1934 A L J 722=1934 A 898. And We do further ordain that the said High Court, shall in all cases of appeal to Us Our heirs or Successors conform to and execute or cause to be executed such judgments and orders as We Our heirs or Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, shall think fit to make in the premises in such manner as any original judgment decree or decretal orders or other order or rule of the said High Court should or might have been executed

34 And it is Our further will and pleasure that the said High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces shall comply with such requisition as may be made by the Government for records returns and statements in such form and manner as such Government may deem proper

35 And We do further ordain and declare that all the provisions of these Our Letters Patent are subject to the legislative powers of the Governor General in Legislative Council and also of the Governor General in Council under section 71 of the Government of India Act 1915 and also of the Governor General in cases of emergency under section 72 of that Act and may be in all respects amended and altered thereby

[N B—As the Letters Patent for Madras, Bombay and Calcutta are all in very similar terms, the Letters Patent, Madras, is given as the main one, and the differences in the wording of the other two Letters Patents indicated within square brackets]

For the High Court of Judicature for the Presidency of Madras

Bearing date the Twenty eighth day of December in the Twenty ninth year of the Reign of Victoria in the year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty five

Victoria by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen Defender of the Faith To all to whom these Presents shall come Greeting Whereas by an Act of Parliament passed in the twenty fourth and twenty fifth years of Our Reign entitled 'An Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India' It was amongst other things enacted that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature at Madras, for the Presidency of Madras aforesaid [at Fort William in Bengal for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William aforesaid] [at Bombay for the Presidency of Bombay aforesaid] and that such High Court should consist of a Chief Justice and as many Judges not exceeding Fifteen as Her Majesty might from time to time think fit to appoint who should be selected from among persons qualified as in the said Act is declared Provided always that the persons who at the time of the establishment of such High Court were Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature and permanent Judges of the Court of Sudder Dewany Adawlut or Sudder Adawlut of the same Presidency should be and become Judges of such High Court without further appointment for that purpose and the Chief Justice of such Supreme Court should become the Chief Justice of such High Court and that upon the establishment of such

Recital of Acts 24 & 25
Vict c 104

High Court as aforesaid the Supreme Court and the Court of Sudder Dewany Adawlut and Faujdarry Adawlut at Madras [Calcutta] [Bombay] in the said Presidency, should be abolished

And that the High Court of Judicature so to be established should have and exercise all such civil criminal admiralty and vice-admiralty testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction original and appellate and all such powers and authority for and in relation to the administration of justice in the said Presidency as Her Majesty might by such Letters Patent as aforesaid grant and direct subject however to such directions and limitation as to the exercise of original civil and criminal jurisdiction beyond the limits of the Presidency town as might be prescribed thereby and save as by such Letters Patent might be otherwise directed and subject and without prejudice to the legislative powers in relation to the matters aforesaid or the Governor General of India in Council the High Court so to be established should have and exercise all jurisdiction and every power and authority whatsoever in any manner vested in any of the Courts in the same Presidency abolished under the said Act at the time of the abolition of such last mentioned Courts

And whereas We did upon full consideration of the premises think fit to erect and establish and by Our Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland bearing date at Westminster the twenty sixth day of June in the Twenty fifth Year of Our Reign in the year of our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty two did accordingly for Us Our heirs and Successors erect and establish at Madras for the Presidency of Madras aforesaid a High Court of Judicature which should be called the High Court of Judicature at Madras [at Fort William in Bengal for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William aforesaid a High Court of Judicature which should be called the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal] [at Bombay for the Presidency of Bombay aforesaid a High Court of Judicature which should be called the High Court of Judicature at Bombay] and did thereby constitute the said Court to be a Court of Record and whereas We did thereby appoint and ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] should until further or other provision should be made by Us or Our heirs and Successors in that behalf in accordance with the recited Act consist of a Chief Justice and five Judges and did thereby constitute and appoint certain persons being respectively qualified as in the said Act is declared to be Judges of the said High Court

And whereas by the said recited Act it is declared lawful for Her Majesty at any time within three years after the establishment of the said High Court by Her Letters Patent to revoke all of such parts or provisions as Her Majesty might think fit of the Letters Patents by which such Court was established and to grant and make such other powers and provisions as Her Majesty might think fit and as might have been granted or made by such first Letters Patent

And whereas by the Act of the twenty-eighth year of Our Reign chapter fifteen entitled An Act to extend the term for granting fresh Letters Patent for the High Courts in India and to make further provision respecting the territorial jurisdiction of the said Courts the time for issuing fresh Letters Patent has been extended to the first of January One thousand eight hundred and sixty six

And whereas in order to make further provision respecting the constitution of the said High Court and the administration of justice thereby, it is expedient that the said Letters Patent dated the twenty sixth of June One thousand eight hundred and sixty two should be revoked and that some of the powers and provisions thereby granted and made should be granted and made with amendments and additional powers and provisions by fresh Letters Patent.

1. Now know ye that We, upon full consideration of the premises and of Our special grace, certain knowledge, and mere motion have thought fit to revoke, and do by these presents (from and after the date of the publication thereof, as hereinafter provided, and subject to the provisions thereof) revoke Our said Letters Patent of the Twenty-sixth of June, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, except so far as the Letters Patent of the forty-first year of His Majesty King George the Third, dated the twenty-sixth of December, One thousand eight hundred, establishing a Supreme Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] were revoked or determined thereby.

2. And We do by these presents, grant, direct and ordain that, notwithstanding the revocation of the said Letters Patent of the Twenty-sixth of June, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, the High Court of Judicature called the High Court of Judicature at Madras, shall be and continue, as from the time of the original erection and establishment thereof, the High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] for the Presidency of Madras aforesaid [Bengal Division of Fort William aforesaid] [Bombay aforesaid]; and that the said Court shall be and continue a Court of Record, and that all proceedings commenced in the said High Court prior to the date of the publication of these Letters Patent shall be continued and depend in the said High Court as if they had commenced in the said High Court after the date of such publication, and that all rules and orders in force in the said High Court immediately before the date of the publication of these Letters Patent shall continue in force except so far as the same are altered hereby, until the same are altered by competent authority.

3. And We do hereby appoint and ordain that the person and persons who shall immediately before the date of the publication of these Letters Patent be the Chief Justice or Judges or Acting Chief Justice or Judges, if any, of the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] shall continue to be the Chief Justice and Judges, or Acting Chief Justice or Judges of the said High Court, until further or other provision shall be made by Us or Our heirs and Successors, in that behalf, in accordance with the said recited Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India.

4. And We do hereby appoint and ordain that every clerk and ministerial officer of the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] appointed by virtue of the said Letters Patent of the Twenty-sixth of June, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, shall continue to hold and enjoy his office and employment, with the salary thereunto annexed until he be MADRAS CASES.—Amended Letters Patent does not take effect retrospectively. The institution of a suit carries with it the implication that appeals then in force are preserved to it through the rest of its course unless the legislature has either abolished the Court to which an appeal then lay or has expressly or by necessary intendment given the act a retrospective effect. removed from such office and employment; and he shall be subject to the like power of removal, regulations and provisions as if he were appointed by virtue of these Letters Patent.

5. And We do hereby ordain that the Chief Justice and every Judge who shall be from time to time appointed to the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] previously to entering upon the execution of the duties of his office, shall make and subscribe the following declaration before such authority or person as the Governor in Council may commission to receive it:—

"I, A.B., appointed Chief Justice or (a Judge) of the High Court of Judicature at Madras, do solemnly declare that I will faithfully perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability, knowledge and judgment."

6. And We do hereby grant, ordain and appoint that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] shall have and use, as occasion may require, a seal bearing a device and impression of our Royal Arms, with an exergue or label surrounding the same, with this inscription, "The Seal of the High Court at Madras" [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay]. And We do further grant, ordain and appoint that the said seal shall be delivered to and kept in the custody of the Chief Justice and in case of the vacancy of the office of Chief Justice, or during any absence of the Chief Justice, the same shall be delivered over and kept in the custody of the person appointed to act as Chief Justice under the provisions of section 7 of the said recited Act: and We do further grant, ordain and appoint that, whensoever it shall happen that the office of Chief Justice or of the Judge to whom the custody of the said seal be committed shall be vacant, the said High Court shall be and is hereby authorised and empowered to demand, seize and take the said seal from any person or persons whomsoever, by what ways and means soever the same may have come to his, her or their possession.

7. And We do hereby further grant, ordain and appoint that all writs, summons, precepts, rules, orders and other mandatory process to be used, issued or awarded by the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] shall run and be in the name and style of Us, or of Our heirs and Successors, and shall be sealed with the seal of the said High Court.

8. And We do hereby authorise and empower the Chief Justice of the said High Court of Judicature at Madras [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay] from time to time, as occasion may require, and subject to any rules and restrictions which may be prescribed by the Provincial Government to appoint so many and such clerks and other ministerial officers as shall be found necessary for the administration of justice, and the due execution of all the powers and authorities granted and committed to the said High Court by these Our Letters Patent.

[* * *] And it is Our further will and pleasure, and We do hereby for Us, Our heirs and Successors, give, grant, direct and appoint that all and every the officers and clerks to be appointed as aforesaid shall have and receive respectively such reasonable salaries as the Chief Justice shall, from time to time,

The fact that the scandalous allegations are contained in a notice under S. 80 C.P. Code cannot therefore prevent them from being contempt of Court and the Attorney who makes such allegations renders himself liable to be dealt with under the disciplinary powers of the High Court under Cl. 10. 195 I.C. 359=43 Bom. L.R. 250=1941 Bom. 228. Cl. 10 of the Letters Patent which empowers the High Court to remove or suspend from practice advocates vakils or attorneys on reasonable cause gives a wide discretion to the Court in regard to the exercise of this disciplinary authority. 'Reasonable cause' in the clause means the same as professional or other misconduct under S. 10 of the Bar Councils Act. 'Misconduct' is a sufficiently wide expression it is not necessary that it should involve moral turpitude. Any conduct which in any way renders a man unfit for the exercise of his profession or is likely to hamper or embarrass the administration of justice by the High Court or any of the Courts subordinate thereto may be considered to be misconduct calling for disciplinary action. What the Court has to consider is the conduct of the Advocate or Attorney as it affects his position as an Advocate or Attorney and his relations to the Court. 195 I.C. 359=43 Bom. L.R. 250=1941 Bom. 228. Disciplinary jurisdiction over pleaders who passed resolution congratulating an accused in a pending criminal trial—Criticism of pending proceedings in Court constitutes contempt. 24 Bom. L.R. 1079=47 B. 117=1922 B. 361. Advocates and Pleadings—Passive resistance—Signing of pledge to civilly disobey law—Unprofessional conduct. 51 I.C. 679=22 Bom. L.R. 13. See also 26 Bom. L.R. 887 (Attorneys). Attorneys' fraud on client making advances to him of money to be invested on mortgage is guilty of professional misconduct and can be removed from office.

Cl. 10—Calcutta cases—Under Cl. 10 of the Letters Patent no persons have rights of audience in the Original Civil Jurisdiction of the High Court except advocates and attorneys and suitors in person. Where the suitor is a company it cannot appear in person, not having as a legal entity any visible person. The company must appear either by counsel or solicitor and the liquidator as such has no right of audience. 41 C.W.N. 424=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 173. There is no special procedure for disciplinary action of the Court in the case of an attorney. The English procedure cannot be adopted in its entirety. 19 I.C. 993=41 C. 113. A case of suspicion is not enough to justify disciplinary action. 41 C. 113. Reasonable cause. Any cause which in the opinion of the Court affords reasonable ground for taking action will suffice even though it may not be purely professional misconduct. See 34 C. 723=6 C.L.J. 55 (Advocate arranging with client direct). 4 C.L.J. 259 (F.B.). (Advocate stipulating with client to share in the result of the litigation). See also 8 C.L.J. 165 (F.B.). The plaintiffs having filed a suit in the Bombay High Court after obtaining leave under Cl 12 of the Letters Patent the 2nd defendant pleaded that the High Court of Bombay had no jurisdiction because he had accepted the Bills at Calicut and no part of the cause of action arose in Bombay as against him. The 1st defendant did not appear at all. THE CONSTRUCTION OF CL. 12 upon which all the High Courts are agreed is that as regards suits for land the High Court can take cognizance if the land is situate wholly within the local limits or where the land is situate in part only within such limits if leave has been first obtained, and that as regards suits other than those for land the High Court has jurisdiction if the cause of action has arisen in part only within the limits if the leave of the Court shall have been first obtained or if the defendant dwells or carries on business or personally works for gain within these limits 56 C 940=1929 C 358 The term 'suit' in cl 12 is not to be construed in a restricted sense If an order made on the originating summons will have the same effect upon the title to immovable property as the decree passed in an ordinary suit for the same relief the originating summons must be deemed to be a suit within the meaning of cl 12 56 C 979 See also 58 C 768=1931 C 651 Although the legislature had power in 1908 to override the Letters Patent, the legislature has not by introducing S 21 C P Code overridden the provisions of cl 12 56 C 940=1929 C 358 Neither the practice of the English Courts nor the practice of the Indian Courts in proceedings under the Divorce Act can apply to proceedings under Cl 12 of the Letters Patent which are governed by the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure 57 C 1089=34 C W N 319=1930 C 558 Per Derbyshire C J, and Ameer Ali J—Where the parties to a marriage are not domiciled in India and the husband is a non-resident foreigner the High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a suit brought by the wife under cl 12 of the Letters Patent for a declaration under S 42 of the Specific Relief Act that her Christian marriage with the defendant has been dissolved as a result of her conversion to Islam and the refusal of the defendant to embrace Islam when presented to him Per Derbyshire C J—Even the submission of the defendant to the jurisdiction of the Court will not avail the plaintiff 46 C W N 465 An application to revoke a leave once granted under cl 12 is maintainable The party is not obliged to wait until the trial and to take the point by way of defence in his written statement The application to revoke should however be based on something better than a mere criticism of the clarity of the pleadings In granting leave or revoking it the Judge should go by the cause of action alleged Where in the case of contracts part of the cause of action arises within the jurisdiction of the Court the defendant cannot ask for revocation unless he shows that cl 12 has no application at all 58 C 539=1931 C 659 Per Ramkun C J—It cannot be said that the Judge in granting leave should not consider matters of evidence outside the plaintiff (Ibid) Application to revoke leave—Case involving important and difficult questions—Proper procedure See 35 C W N 930 See also 1941 Cal 236 Plaintiff not in order—Procedure See 58 C 539=1931 C 659

almost infinitesimal and the intention of the parties was not to make that property an effective part of the security given in the mortgage and it was included merely to confer jurisdiction on the High Court and not for any other purpose held that leave to institute the suit on the mortgage should not be granted under Cl 12 as the High Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit 41 C W N 854 But when the High Court grants leave under the clause it holds that the property included in the mortgage was validly included in it and was intended to be so included and charged And when a decree has been passed in such suit it is not open to a party afterwards in a subsequent suit based on such decree to contend that the property was not really intended to be included in the mortgage and that the decree was therefore without jurisdiction 41 C W N 396=1937 C 88

LEAVE TO SUE.—Where persons living outside jurisdiction are made parties to a suit but leave to sue is applied for and the High Court has granted it the suit is valid as against them 1937 C 172=171 I C 652 See also (1940) 1 Cal 497=44 C W N 460 The Calcutta High Court cannot grant leave to enforce a cause of action regarding properties partly within and partly without the ordinary original civil jurisdiction and so a decree affecting properties outside those limits is void 56 I C 532=24 C W N 633 A contract was signed by the manager of the defendant business in Calcutta, the defendant himself was resident of Singapore The defendant can be sued in his firm's name for damages for breach of contract in the Original Side of the High Court 10 I C 895 Suit for damages for wrongful conversion of house in the Punjab—One of the joint tortfeasors residing in Calcutta—Leave to sue can be granted by Calcutta High Court 32 C W N 208 See also 1941 Cal 291 (Suit for money lent in Calcutta to non resident foreigner Cal H C has jurisdiction) The High Court has the power under the ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction conferred on it by Cl 12 to pass an order for judicial separation between Jews 57 C 1039=34 C W N 319=1930 C 538 The jurisdiction of the High Court as it stood in 1908 when the Code was republished depended upon S 9 High Courts Act of 1861 It was to have such power and authority as Her Majesty may by Letters Patent grant and direct 56 C 940=1929 C 358 In a suit by an assignee of a debt the assignment is a part of the cause of action and upon that leave is invariably granted It is impossible in practice to decide before the hearing of the suit whether an assignment is or is not bona fide The Court would not be justified on a mere suspicion that the assignor might not have acted in the ordinary way of business in depriving the plaintiff of the right to bring a suit in the place where the assignment was made 37 C W N 1139=1934 C 175 But where the sum at stake is not a large one and prima facie there is no issue likely to be raised which the tribunal at the place where the note was originally executed and where the defendant resides is not competent to try satisfactorily and where further assignment of the promissory note was executed on the last day before the expiry of the period of limitation and collusively for the purpose mainly of giving the High Court jurisdiction which it would not otherwise possess the case is one in which leave under Cl 12 ought not to be granted 63 C 435=40 C W N 161=1936 C 349 In such a case the High Court has power to recall the leave granted at the time of the filing of the plaint the grant of leave at that stage being only ex parte But it is important that the defendant who applies for revocation must take steps to have the leave set aside at the earliest possible moment 63 Cal 435 See also 40 C W N 165=1936 C 230 It is not usually right to grant leave under Cl 12 of the Letters Patent in a case where the part of the cause of action on which the jurisdiction depends is a matter with which the defendants have had nothing to do, and generally speaking when people take an assignment of a promissory note they should be prepared to enforce their claim either in the Court within whose jurisdiction the makers reside or in a jurisdiction where a part of the cause of action with which the makers are directly concerned has arisen In the case of note executed by a mercantile firm different considerations will prevail for parties engaged in mercantile transactions must be held to contemplate the possibility of the note passing from hand to hand by negotiation and eventually getting into the hands of a party who may elect to sue in a Court which does not suit the convenience of the maker 63 Cal 526=40 C W N 164=1936 Cal 219 But see 63 C 908=40 C W N 717 40 C W N 1349

WAIVER OF OBJECTION TO JURISDICTION.—A defendant cannot be held to have waived his objection to jurisdiction when the plaintiff alleged the cause of action to have arisen wholly within the original civil jurisdiction if it afterwards turns out that a portion was beyond jurisdiction and no leave was obtained 38 I C 571=41 C 10 An objection as to want of such leave might be waived and would be considered to have been waived if the defendant had taken any steps in furtherance of the suit to its trial 18 I C 898=17 C W N 512 But see 56 B 324=137 I C 381=1932 B 291, 56 C 979 contra The failure to obtain leave in a suit where leave is necessary under the Letters Patent goes to the root of the jurisdiction and the want of jurisdiction in the Court to entertain the suit cannot be overcome or waived by the consent or submission of the parties 56 C 979 Leave granted subsequent to presentation of plaint

13 And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras, [Fort William in Bengal] [Bombay,] shall have power to remove and to try and determine as a Court of extraordinary original jurisdiction, any suit being or falling within the jurisdiction of any Court, whether within or without the Presidency of Madras, [Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William] [Bombay], subject to its superintendence, when the said High Court shall think proper to do so, either on the agreement of the parties to that effect, or for purposes of justice, the reasons for so doing being recorded on the proceedings of the said High Court

14 And We do further ordain that where plaintiff has several causes of action against defendant such causes of action not being for land or other immovable property, and the said High Court shall have original jurisdiction in respect of one of such causes of action, it shall be lawful for the said High Court to call on the defendant to show cause why the several causes of action should not be joined together in one suit and to make such order for trial of the same as to the said High Court shall seem fit

Cl 14—The plaintiff filed a suit in Bombay against the ex Maharaja of Indore claiming to recover damages for false imprisonment and injury for wrongful use and occupation and for wrongful conversion and misappropriation of certain property The defendant contended that the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain a suit for false imprisonment and personal injury The Court granted leave under Cl 12 and the question arose whether the cause of action could be considered under Cl 14 Held (1) that in order to give jurisdiction it was not necessary that the defendant should admit that at least one cause of action arose within the original jurisdiction, (2) that the words 'such causes of action not being for land or other immovable property' in Cl 14 means excluding any cause of action which is for land or other immovable property (3) that the cause of action for false imprisonment though not one for land or other immovable property could be joined to the other two causes of action which arose within the jurisdiction (4) that under the circumstances of the case it could not be said that the Court had no jurisdiction at all on the ground that the defendant was a non resident foreigner 53 B 251=31 Bom L R 7=1929 B 100 material respects S 15 provided for an appeal to the High Court against the decision of a single Judge but under the change now made such appeal will lie only when the Judge against whose decision it is intended to prefer an appeal certifies that the case is a fit one for appeal S 36 provided for the opinion of the Senior Judge prevailing in certain cases when two Judges constituting a Division Bench differed in opinion. The section has been amended so as to do away with the opinion of the Senior Judge prevailing in any case 32 C W N Journal p 46 The amendment of this clause does not take effect retrospectively so as to take away a right of third appeal which the suitor had under the Letters Patent on the date of the institution of his suit 32 C W N 1130=1928 C 640 (F B) See also 48 C L J 150 55 M L J (Short notes) 37 citing S R No 12176 of 1928 Other wise in matters of procedure 30 Bom L R 942=1928 B 371 No hard and fast rule can be laid down as regards the grounds on which leave to appeal should be granted by a Judge under Cl 15 of the amended Letters Patent against his decision passed in first appeal The mere fact that there was a question of fact involved in the second appeal or that the second appeal was allowed and the decision of the lower appellate Court reversed or modified or that the valuation of a second appeal was not insignificant is not by itself conclusive for the grant of such leave to appeal Leave to appeal however may be limited to certain points only in which case the appellant will be confined to such points Where the decision in second appeal was based on the construction of a deed of adoption which contained certain peculiar provisions Held that leave should be refused Principles applicable to granting of leave to appeal elaborately discussed 53 M 405=1931 M 202=58 M L J 388 See also 56 M L J 369

Cls. 24 and 29—Calcutta cases—Extraordinary criminal jurisdiction is conferred on the High Court under Cl. 24. Under that section, however, the High Court has no power to take proceedings against persons, one of whom is not in India at all and the others or either Indian subjects or else residing within the original jurisdiction 35 C.W.N. 1088. See also 35 C.W.N. 782; 35 C.W.N. 1086. Where certain British Indian subjects resident within the original jurisdiction were accused of offences committed outside British India, the complaint cannot be entertained by the High Court on its appellate side, Cls. 24 and 29 not being applicable to such a case 35 C.W.N. 1082. Where the Advocate-General appears on behalf of the accused and does not commence proceeding under Cl. 24, it cannot be said that he ceased to be Advocate-General and an application by counsel for private party to be clothed with the powers of the Advocate-General cannot be maintained 35 C.W.N. 1082.

Cls. 25 and 26—Madras cases: REVIEW.—The judgment of a special Criminal Bench of the High Court constituted under S. 6 (b) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1908, is open to review on a certificate granted by the Advocate-General under cl. 26 14 I.C. 896=13 Cr.L.J. 352=(1912) 1 M.

W.N. 552=12 M.L.T. 1. The expression "point of law" in cl. 26 means the same thing as matter of law in S. 418 of the Cr. P. Code. It includes such misdirection or non-direction as would permit an appeal against the verdict of a jury. And misdirection includes not only an error in laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided but also a defect in summing up the evidence or in not summing it up or in summing it up erroneously. 1930 M.W.N. 249. As to whether presiding Judge can reserve question, when point was raised after reading out charge and accused called upon to plead, see 1936 M.W.N. 281=1936 M. 353=70 M.L.J. 635 (F.B.).

Cls. 25 and 26—Calcutta cases.—Under cls. 25 and 26 the Full Bench is not competent to order a retrial but should finally decide the matter on review. 47 C. 671=34 C.L.J. 402=24 C.W.N. 501 (F.B.). (41 C. 477; 2 B. 61; 17 C. 642, Ref.) As to right of appeal or revision in the case of trials on the Sessions Side of a High Court, see 44 C. 723=21 C.W.N. 167.

Cl. 26—Bombay cases.—The failure of the Judge to comply with S. 297, Cr. P. Code, is an error of law which brings the case within cl. 26 of the Letters Patent. But that clause does not entail that wherever any misdirection is found to exist, the Court has no option but to set aside the ver-

Court should be further considered, the said High Court shall have full power and authority to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such point or points of law, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court shall seem right

dict 60 B 599=38 Bom L R 19=1936 S 52 (F B) . Although the wording of S 537, Cr P Code does not apply to a case dealt with under cl 26 of the Letters Patent the Court ought to apply to such a case the principle which underlies that section, that is that where there has been no illegality in the mode of trial but some irregularity in the process of trial the High Court is not entitled to set aside the verdict or judgment unless it is satisfied that that irregularity has led to a miscarriage of justice or has prejudiced the accused 60 Bom 599 . It is clearly open to the Court to consider not so much what effect the misdirection has upon its mind sitting in place of a jury but what the effect of the misdirection was or may have been upon the minds of the jury which tried the case and in so doing it must assume that the jury was a reasonably competent jury though it must remember that a jury consists of laymen and that a misdirection may have more effect upon the minds of laymen than upon the mind of a trained Judge 60 Bom 599 .

Cl 26—Calcutta cases —The powers of the High Court are limited under cl 26 28 C W N 170=1924 C 257 (F B) . Where a Judge in his discretion under S 239 Cr P Code desires to try a number of accused jointly it is not a matter for interference on a certificate of the Advocate General under Cl 26 38 C L J 309 (F B) . A defective summing up to the jury unless it causes a failure of justice is not ground for reversing a conviction 38 C L J 309 (F B) . Where there was a misdirection to the jury and it appeared that the accused was prejudiced thereby and the Advocate General granted a certificate under cl 26 of the Letters Patent held that the conviction must be set aside Per C C Ghose —Under cl 26 the Court can review the entire case and determine the point of law reserved or certified the word thereupon means that the point is in favour of the prisoner . The Court cannot order a re trial if the point is held in favour of the accused . Where improper evidence has been admitted the Court must consider whether such evidence could possibly have considerably influenced the minds of the jury and whether it was reasonably certain that the jury would not have acted on the unobjectionable evidence if the wrongly admitted evidence or matter had not also been presented to them 1929 C 617 (F B) . Per Raskin C J —The phrase to review the case as used in cl 26 of the Letters Patent applies as much where a point of law is reserved by the trial Judge as where the Advocate

General has given a certificate . I am far from saying that inordinate delay may not be a matter for consideration by the Advocate General at the time when he is called upon to consider whether a certificate should be granted Per Jack J dissenting —In a proceeding under cl 26 the Court can examine the evidence for itself and determine without reference to the probable verdict of a jury whether excluding the inadmissible evidence the residue is sufficient to justify the conviction . The fact that a retrial cannot be ordered ought to make the Court careful to avoid setting aside a conviction on immaterial grounds 33 C W N 1121=1929 C 617 (F B) . Where the accused was prosecuted for offences under Ss 406 and 477 I P Code but it appeared that the Judge had misdirected the jury on the question of law namely as to the ingredients forming the offence Held that it was fit case for interference under cl 26 . Accused acquitted 58 C 1051=35 C W N 42=1931 C 184 (S B) . A certificate under Cl 26—What should contain 21 C L J 377=30 I C 113=16 Cr L J 561 (F B) . Once the Advocate General grants a certificate the Court has to deal with the case . The statement of the trial Judge as to what took place before him is conclusive 30 I C 113 . When the Advocate General after considering the matter and exercising his judgment refuses a certificate it is not within the province of the High Court to issue a Rule to call upon him to show cause why he should not issue a certificate 63 C 838 . The refusal by the Advocate General to give a certificate is not a matter which can be called in question by any proceeding in the High Court . The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court in criminal matters is limited to matters arising in the Criminal Courts subject to the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court 63 Cal 838 .

Cl 26—Madras cases DECISION ON A POINT OF LAW—WHAT CONSTITUTES —Held by the majority (Madhavan Nair and Curgenven JJ dissenting) . A point of law referred to in cl 26 of the Letters Patent means a point of law submitted to and decided by the trial Judge or any direction as to the law given by him in the course of his summing up to the jury . The word decision cannot be read so as to cover cases where the Judge has never applied his mind to the matter and has not pronounced an opinion on it Per Madhavan Nair and Curgenven JJ , dissenting . All questions which have to be necessarily decided in a trial and which in effect have been decided appear act or plead for or on behalf of a person. An application therefore for leave to appear in forma pauperis by a person who is not an advocate is not proper. 1917 I 318 174 I C 272. Proceedings under writs of Habeas Corpus or of certiorari cannot be moved into a list of legal practitioners. 41 271-1911 I 123 (S B). See also 1911 I 577-141 I C 72=141 I 512 (S B). The Courts are bound to see that its officers are proper persons to be trusted by the Court with regard to the interests of the suitors. It is necessary therefore for the Court to know what the nature of the act complained of is in order to decide whether that act shows that the person in question is an improper person to remain a practitioner. There is a distinction between being a member of an unlawful association and assisting the operations of an unlawful association. The former interferes with the maintenance of law and order or is a danger to public peace and it may well be considered to render a man an improper person to be a practitioner in a Court of justice but it by no means follows that a man who has committed an isolated act which assists the operations of an unlawful association is necessarily such an improper person. Much would depend upon the nature of the act done and the particular operation assisted. Where apart from the conviction of the legal practitioner under S 17 (1) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act for having assisted in the celebration of the Independence Day there was nothing on the record to show what exactly the respondent did on the occasion. Held that there was no reasonable cause within the meaning of cl 8 to take disciplinary action. Held also that the speech made by the practitioner at a meeting organised by an unlawful association protesting against the arrest of a political leader did not warrant disciplinary action against the practitioner who made the speech. 14 L 532=1933 L 577 (S B). An advocate received money from a client for filing an appeal. He did not file the appeal as he found out later that the appeal was barred by time. The explanation given by the advocate as to the application of the money was not quite satisfactory nor did the client give out the correct and true information to the Court and the client's conduct also was not consistent with what normally would have happened under the circumstances of the case. Held that having admitted the receipt of money though it was for the advocate to account for its application, there was no reasonable cause established to enable the Court to remove or suspend the advocate from practice that the Court cannot be uninfluenced by the conduct of the client in withholding the correct information and that the advocate should return the money received. 1933 I 575=34 Cr I J 951 (S B). A an advocate allowed his clerk to enter into agreements with his clients to finance the litigation on about property which they lunched against others. The clerk was to be compensated for his labour and expenses by being given a share in the property in dispute if the cases be ultimately decided in favour of his clients and in pursuance of this A appeared for those clients without receiving any fees in advance. It was proved that the advocate's clerk consulted him and showed him the papers before he entered into agreements with his clients and that he gave him advice regarding the prospect of the litigation. Held that a counsel is expected to be free from any personal as distinguished from professional interest in litigation and the conduct of the Advocate in allowing his clerk to enter into such a transaction called for severe censure but his conduct in advising him in the matter and then appearing for the litigants without receiving the usual fees in advance amounted to professional misconduct. 1932 I 584.

CI 9.—The word 'suit' in cl 9 of the Letters Patent includes a proceeding in the Insolvency Court and the High Court under its extraordinary powers has jurisdiction to transfer a proceeding in insolvency from the District Court to itself for disposal. 17 I 582=160 I C 972=1936 L 608.

Court subject to its superintendence when the said High Court may think proper to do so either on the agreement of the parties to that effect, or for purposes of justice the reasons for so doing being recorded on the proceedings of the said High Court proceedings in such case were originally instituted ought to have applied to such case.

Criminal Jurisdiction.

15. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall have ordinary original criminal jurisdiction in respect of all such persons within the Provinces of the Punjab and Delhi as the Chief Court of the Punjab had such criminal jurisdiction over immediately before the publication of these presents.

16. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore, in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction, shall be empowered to try all persons brought before it in due course of law.

17. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall have extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction over all persons residing in places within the jurisdiction of any Court subject to its superintendence, and shall have authority to try at its discretion any such persons brought before it on charges preferred by any Magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in that behalf.

18. And We do further ordain that there shall be no appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Lahore from any sentence or order passed or made by the Courts of original criminal jurisdiction which may be constituted by one or more Judges of the said High Court. But it shall be at the discretion of any such Court to reserve any point or points of law for the opinion of the said High Court.

19. And We do further ordain that, on such point or points of law being so reserved as aforesaid, the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall have full power and authority to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such point or points of law, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court may seem right.

20. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall be a Court of appeal from the Criminal Courts of the Provinces of the Punjab and Delhi and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as were, immediately before the date of the publication of these presents, subject to appeal to the Chief Court of the Punjab by virtue of any law then in force, or as may after that date be declared subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Lahore by any law made by competent legislative authority for India.

21. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at

Ct. 15 —According to the Letters Patent, the original criminal jurisdiction of the Lahore High Court is co-extensive with that of the Chief Court of the Punjab, which had no original criminal jurisdiction to try any person except European British subjects. 115 I.C. 428=1929 L. 217.

22 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall have power to direct the transfer of any criminal case or appeal from any Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction, and also to direct the preliminary investigation or trial of any criminal case by any officer or Court otherwise competent to investigate or try it, though such case belongs in ordinary course to the jurisdiction of some other officer or Court.

23 And We do further ordain that all persons brought for trial before the High Court of Judicature at Lahore, either in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, or in the exercise of its jurisdiction as a Court of appeal, reference or revision charged with any offence for which provision is made by Act No XLV of 1860 called the "Indian Penal Code," or by any Act amending or excluding the said Act which may have been passed prior to the publication of these presents, shall be liable to punishment under the said Act or Acts, and not otherwise.

24 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall have the like power and authority as that which was immediately before the publication of these presents lawfully exercised within the provinces of the Punjab and Delhi by the Chief Court of the Punjab in relation to the granting of probates of last wills and testaments and letters of administration of the goods, chattels, credits and all other effects whatsoever, of persons dying intestate. Provided always that nothing in these Letters Patent contained shall interfere with the provisions of any law which has been made by competent legislative authority for India, by which power is given to any other Court to grant such probates and letters of administration.

25 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall have jurisdiction, within the Provinces of the Punjab and Delhi, in matters matrimonial between Our subjects professing the Christian Religion. Provided always that nothing herein contained shall be held to interfere with the exercise of any jurisdiction in matters matrimonial by any Court, not established by Letters Patent within the said Provinces, which is lawfully possessed of that jurisdiction.

26 And We do hereby declare that any function which is hereby directed to be performed by the High Court of Judicature at Lahore, in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction may be performed by any Judge, or by any Division Court thereof, appointed or constituted for such purpose in pursuance of S. 108 of the Government of India Act, 1915; and if such Division Court is composed of two or more Judges and the Judges are divided in opinion as to the decision to be given on any point, such point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges if there be a majority, but if the Judges be equally divided, [they shall state the point upon which they differ and the case shall then be heard upon that point by one or more of the other Judges and the point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges who have heard the case including those who first heard it.]¹

Civil Procedure.

27. And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the High Court of Judicature at Lahore from time to time to make Regulation of proceedings, rules and orders for regulating the practice of the Court and for the purpose of adapting, as far as possible, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, being an Act No. V of 1908 passed by the Governor-General in Council and the provisions of any law which has been or may be made, amending or altering the same, by competent legislative authority for India, to all proceedings in its testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction, respectively.

Criminal Procedure.

28. And We do further ordain that the proceedings in all criminal cases brought before the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall be regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure, being an Act No. V of 1898, passed by the Governor-General in Council, or by such further or other laws in relation to criminal procedure as may have been or may be made by competent legislative authority for India.

Appeals to Privy Council.

29. And We do further ordain that any person or persons may appeal to Us, Our heirs and Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, in any matter not being of criminal jurisdiction, from any final judgment, decree or order of the High Court of Judicature at Lahore made on appeal, and from any final judgment, decree or order made in the exercise of original jurisdiction by Judges of the said High Court, or of any Division Court, from which an appeal does not lie to the said High Court under the provisions contained in the 10th clause of the presents: Provided, in either case, that the sum or matter at issue is of the amount or value of not less than 10,000 rupees or that such judgment, decree or order involves, directly, or indirectly, some claim, demand or question to or respecting property amounting to or of the value of not less than 10,000 rupees; or from any other final judgment, decree or order made either on appeal or otherwise as aforesaid, when the said High Court declares that the case is a fit

30 And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the High Court of Judicature at Lahore at its discretion, on the motion or, if the said High Court be not sitting, then for any Judge of the said High Court, upon the petition of any party who considers himself aggrieved by any preliminary or interlocutory judgment, decree or order of the said High Court, in any such proceeding as aforesaid, not being of criminal jurisdiction, to grant permission to such party to appeal against the same to Us, Our heirs and Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, subject to the same rules, regulations and limitations as are herein expressed respecting appeals from final judgments, decrees and orders.

31. And We do further ordain that from any judgment, order or sentence of the High Court of Judicature at Lahore, made in the exercise of original criminal jurisdiction or in any criminal case where any point or points of law have been reserved for the opinion of the said High Court, in manner provided by the 18th clause of these presents, by any Court which has exercised original jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the person aggrieved by such judgment, order or sentence to appeal to Us, Our heirs or Successors in Council, provided the said High Court declares that the case is a fit one for such appeal, and that the appeal be made under such conditions as the said High Court may establish or require, but subject always to such rules and orders, as are now in force, or may from time to time be made respecting appeals to Ourselves in Council from the Courts of the Provinces of the Punjab and Delhi.

32 And we do further ordain that, in all cases of appeal made from any judgment, decree, order or sentence of the High Court of Judicature at Lahore to Us, Our heirs or Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, such High Court shall certify and transmit to Us, Our heirs and Successors in Our or Their Privy Council, a true and correct copy of all evidence proceedings, judgments, decrees and orders had or made in such cases appealed, so far as the same have relation to the matters of appeal, such copies to be certified under the seal of the said High Court. And that the said High Court shall also certify and transmit to Us, Our heirs and Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, a copy of the reasons given by the Judges of such Court, or by any of such Judges, for or against the judgment or determination appealed against. And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall, in all cases of appeal to Us, Our heirs or Successors, conform to and execute, or cause to be executed, such judgments and orders as We, Our heirs or Successors in Our or Their Privy Council, may think fit to make in the premises in such manner as any original judgment, decree or decretal orders, or other order or rule of the said High Court, should or might have been executed.

Exercise of Jurisdiction elsewhere than at the usual place of sitting of the High Court

33. And We do further ordain that whenever it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, convenient that the jurisdiction and power by these Our Letters Patent, Special Commissions and circuits.

or by or under the Government of India Act, 1915, vested in the High Court of Judicature at Lahore, should be exercised in any place within the jurisdiction of any Court subject to the superintendence of the said High Court, other than the usual place of sitting of the said High Court, or at several such places by way of circuit, one or more Judges of the Court shall visit such place or places accordingly.

34. And We do further ordain that whenever any Judge or Judges of the High Court of Judicature at Lahore visit any place under the 33rd clause of these presents, the proceedings in cases before him or them at such place shall be regulated by any law relating thereto which has been or may be made by competent legislative authority for India.

Delegation of Duties to Officers.

35. The High Court of Judicature at Lahore may from time to time make rules for delegating to any Registrar, Prothonotary or Master or other official of the Court any judicial, quasi-judicial and non-judicial duties.

Calls for records, etc., by the Government.

36. And it is Our further will and pleasure that the High Court of Judicature at Lahore shall comply with such requisitions as may be made by the Governor-General in Council or by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab for records, returns and statements, in such form and manner as he may deem proper.

Powers of Indian Legislatures

37. And We do further ordain and declare that all the provisions of these Our Letters Patent are subject to the legislative powers of the Governor-General in Legislative Council, and also of the Governor-General in Council under section seventy-one of the Government of India Act, 1915; and also of the Governor-General in cases of emergency under section seventy-two of that Act, and may be in all respects amended and altered thereby.

IN WITNESS whereof We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent.

Letters Patent constituting the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur in the Central Provinces

[2nd January, 1936]

George the Fifth by the Grace of God of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India

To all to whom these Presents shall come, greeting

Whereas in the Government of India Act, it was amongst other things enacted that it should be lawful for us by Letters Patent to establish a High Court of Judicature in any territory in British India whether or not included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court and to confer on any High Court so established any such jurisdiction powers and authority as were vested in or might be conferred on any High Court existing at the commencement of that Act

And whereas the Province known as the Central Provinces is now subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces which was established by an Act of the Governor General of India in Council being Act No XIV of 1865, and was continued by later enactments and no part of the said province is included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of any High Courts

1 Now know ye that We upon full consideration of the premises, and of Our special grace certain knowledge and mere motion have thought fit to erect and establish and by these presents We do accordingly for Us Our heirs and successors erect and establish for the Central Provinces aforesaid with effect from the date of the publication of these presents in the Gazette of India a High Court of Judicature which shall be called the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur and We do hereby constitute the said Court to be a Court of Record

2 And We do hereby appoint and ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall until further or other provision be made by Us or Our heirs and successors in that behalf in accordance with Section One hundred and

Establishment of a High Court at Nagpur
Constitution and the first Judges of the High Court

one of the Government of India Act, ordinarily consist of a Chief Justice and not less than five other Judges, the first Chief Justice being Gilbert Stone, Esquire, and the other Judges being Frederick Louis Grille, Esquire, M Bhawaní Shankar Nyogi, Esquire, Ronald Evelyn Pollock, Esquire, Harold George Gruer, Esquire, and Vivian Bose, Esquire, being respectively qualified as in the said Act is declared

3 And We do hereby ordain that the Chief Justice and every other Judge of the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur, previously to entering upon the execution of the duties of his office, shall make and subscribe the following declaration before such authority or person as the Governor of the Central Provinces may commission to receive it —

"I, A, B, appointed Chief Justice (or a Judge) of the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur, do solemnly declare that I will faithfully perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability, knowledge and judgment"

4 And We do hereby grant, ordain and appoint that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have and use as occasion may require, a Seal bearing a devise and impression of Our Royal Arms, within an exergue or label surrounding the same, with this inscription, "The Seal of the High Court at Nagpur" And We do further grant ordain and appoint that the said seal shall be delivered to and kept in the custody of the Chief Justice, and in case of vacancy of the office of Chief Justice, or during any absence of the Chief Justice, the same shall be delivered over and kept in the custody of the person appointed to act as Chief Justice under the provisions of Section One hundred and five of the Government of India Act and We do further grant, ordain and appoint that whenever the office of Chief Justice or of the Judge to whom the custody of the said Seal be committed is vacant, the said High Court shall be, and is hereby, authorised and empowered to demand, seize and take the said Seal from any person or persons whomsoever, by what ways and means soever the same may have come to his, or their possession

5 And We do hereby grant, ordain and appoint that all writs, summonses, precepts rules, orders and other mandatory process to be used, issued or awarded by the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall run and be in the name and style of Us, or of Our heirs and successors, and shall be sealed with the Seal of the said High Court

revisional jurisdiction, and not being a sentence or order passed or made in the exercise of the powers of superintendence under the provisions of Section One hundred and seven of the Government of India Act or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction) of one Judge of the said High Court or one Judge of any Division Court, pursuant to Section One hundred and eight of the Government of India Act, and that notwithstanding anything hereinbefore provided, an appeal shall lie to the said High Court from a judgment of one Judge of the said High Court or one Judge of any Division Court, pursuant to Section One hundred and eight of the Government of India Act, made in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction in respect of a decree or order made in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction by a Court subject to the superintendence of the said High Court, where the Judge who passed the judgment declares that the case is a fit one for appeal, but that the right of appeal from other judgments of Judges of the said High Court or of such Division Court shall be to Us, Our heirs and successors in Our or Their Privy Council as hereinafter provided

11 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall be a Court of Appeal from the Civil Courts of the Central Provinces and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as were, immediately before the date of the publication of these presents subject to appeal to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces by virtue of any law then in force, or as may after that date be declared subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur by any law made by competent legislative authority for India

12 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have the like powers and authority with respect to the persons and estates of infants, idiots and lunatics within the Central Provinces as that which was vested in the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces immediately before the publication of these presents

Law to be administered by the High Court

13 And We do further ordain that, with respect to the law or equity and rule of good conscience to be applied to each case coming before the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction such law or equity and rule of good conscience shall until otherwise provided be the law or equity and rule of good conscience which would have been applied to such case by any local Court having jurisdiction therein

14 And We do further ordain that, with respect to the law or equity and rule of good conscience to be applied by the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur to each case coming before it in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction such law or equity and rule of good conscience shall be the law or equity and rule of good conscience which the Court in which the proceedings in such case were originally instituted ought to have been applied to such case.

Criminal Jurisdiction of the High Court

15 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have ordinary original criminal jurisdiction in respect of all such persons within the Central Provinces as the Court of Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces had such criminal jurisdiction over immediately before the publication of these presents

16 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur, in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction shall be empowered to try all persons brought before it in due course of law

17 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction over all persons residing in places within the jurisdiction of any Court subject to its superintendence, and shall have authority to try at its discretion any such persons brought before it on charges preferred by any magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in that behalf

18. And We do further ordain that there shall be no appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur from any sentence or order passed or made by the Courts of original criminal jurisdiction which may be constituted by one or more Judges of the said High Court But it shall be at the discretion of any such Court to reserve any point or points of law for the opinion of the said High Court

19 And We do further ordain that, on such point or points of law being so reserved as aforesaid the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have full power and authority to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary and finally determine such point or points of law, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court may seem right

20 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall be a Court of Appeal from the Criminal Courts of the Central Provinces and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence, and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as were immediately before the date of the publication of these presents subject to appeal to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces by virtue of any law then in force, or as may after that date be declared subject to appeal to the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur by any law made by competent legislative authority for India

21 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall be a Court of reference and revision from the Criminal Courts subject to its appellate jurisdiction and shall have power to hear and determine all such cases referred to it by the Sessions Judges or by any other officers in the Central Provinces who were, immediately before the publication of these presents authorised to refer cases to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces and to revise all such cases tried by any officer or Court possessing criminal jurisdiction in the Central Provinces as were immediately before the publication of these presents subject to reference to or revision by the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces

22 And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have power to direct the transfer of any criminal case or appeal from any Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction and also to direct the preliminary investigation or trial of any criminal case by any officer or Court otherwise competent to investigate or try it, though such case belongs in ordinary course to the jurisdiction of some other officer or Court.

Criminal Law.

23. And We do further ordain that all persons brought for trial before the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur, either in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, or in the exercise of its jurisdiction as a Court of Appeal, reference or revision, charged with any offence for which provision is made by Act No. XLV of 1860, called the Indian Penal Code, or by any Act amending or excluding the said Act which may have been passed prior to the publication of these presents, shall be liable to punishment under the said Act or Acts, and not otherwise.

Testamentary and intestate jurisdiction.

24. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have the like power and authority as that which was immediately before the publication of these presents lawfully exercised within the Central Provinces by the Court of Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces in relation to the granting of probates of last wills and testaments, and letters of administration of the goods, chattels, credits and all other effects whatsoever of persons dying intestate: Provided always that nothing in these Letters Patent contained shall interfere with the provisions of any law which has been made by competent legislative authority for India, by which power is given to any other Court to grant such probates and letters of administration.

Matrimonial Jurisdiction.

25. And We do further ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall have jurisdiction within the Central Provinces in matters matrimonial between Our Subjects professing the Christian religion:

Provided always that nothing herein contained shall be held to interfere with the exercise of any jurisdiction in matters matrimonial by any Court, not established by Letters Patent within the said Province, which is lawfully possessed of that jurisdiction.

Powers of Single Judges and Division Courts.

26. And We do hereby declare that any function which is hereby directed to be performed by the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction may be performed by any Judge or by any Division Court, thereof appointed or constituted for such purpose in pursuance of Section one hundred and eight of the Government of India Act; and if such Division Court is composed of two or more Judges and the Judges are divided in opinion as to the decision to be given on any point, such point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges if there be a majority, but, if the Judges be equally divided, they shall state the point on which they differ and the case shall then be heard upon that point by one or more of the other Judges and the point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges which have heard the case including those who first heard it.

Civil Procedure.

27. And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur from time to time to make rules and orders for regulating the practice of the Court and for the purpose of adapting as far as possible the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, being an Act No. V of

1898 passed by the Governor General in Council and the provisions of any law which has been or may be made, amending or altering the same by competent legislative authority for India in proceedings in its testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction respectively

28 And We do further ordain that the proceedings in all criminal cases brought before the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur shall be regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure being an Act No V of 1898 passed by the Governor-General in Council or by such further or other laws in relation to criminal procedure as may have been or may be made by competent legislative authority for India

Appeals to Privy Council

29 And We do further ordain that any person or persons may appeal to Us Our heirs and successors in Our or Their Privy Council in any matter not being of criminal jurisdiction from any final judgment, decree or order of the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur made on appeal and from any final judgment, decree or order made in the exercise of original jurisdiction by Judges of the said High Court or of any Division Court, from which an appeal does not lie to the said High Court under the provisions contained in the tenth clause of these presents

Provided in either case that the sum or matter at issue is of the amount or value of not less than Rs 10 000 or that such judgment, decree or order involves directly or indirectly, some claim demand or question to or respecting property amounting to or of the value of not less than 10 000 rupees, or from any other final judgment decree or order made either on appeal or otherwise aforesaid when the said High Court declares that the case is a fit one for appeal to Us Our heirs or successors in Our or Their Privy Council, but subject always to such rules and orders as are now in force, or may from time to time be made respecting appeals to Ourselves in Council from the Courts of the Central Provinces except so far as the said existing rules and orders respectively are hereby varied and subject also to such further rules and orders as We may with the advice of Our Privy Council hereafter make in that behalf

30 And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur at its discretion on the motion or, if the said High Court be not sitting then for any Judge of the said High Court upon the petition of any party who considers himself aggrieved by any preliminary or interlocutory judgment decree or order of the said High Court in any such proceeding as aforesaid not being of criminal jurisdiction to grant permission to such party to appeal against the same to Us Our heirs and successors in Our or Their Privy Council subject to the same rules regulations and limitations as are herein expressed respecting appeals from final judgments decrees and orders

31 And We do further ordain that from any judgment order or sentence of the High Court of Judicature at Nagpur made in the exercise of original criminal jurisdiction or in any criminal case where any point or points of law have been reserved for the opinion

GEORGE THE FIFTH, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great

Recital of Acts 24 and 25
Vict., c. 164.

Britain and Ireland, and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India. To all to whom, these Presents shall come, greeting: Whereas by an Act of Parliament passed in the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Years of the Reign of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, and called the Indian High Courts Act, 1861, it was, amongst other things, enacted, by section one, that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom, to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William;

and, by section two, that such High Court should consist of a Chief Justice and as many Judges, not exceeding fifteen, as Her Majesty might, from time to time, think fit to appoint, who should be selected from among persons qualified as in the said Act was declared; and, by section eight, that upon the establishment of such High Court as aforesaid the Supreme Court and the Court of Sadar Diwani Adalat and Sadar Nizamat Adalat at Calcutta, in the said Presidency, should be abolished;

and, by section nine, that the High Court of Judicature so to be established should have and exercise all such civil, criminal, admiralty and vice-admiralty, testamentary, intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction, original and appellate, and all such powers and authority for and in relation to the administration of justice in the said Presidency, as Her Majesty might by such Letters Patent as aforesaid grant and direct, subject, however, to such directions and limitations, as to the exercise of original, civil and criminal jurisdiction beyond the limits of the Presidency-town, as might be prescribed thereby; and that, save as by such Letters Patent might be otherwise directed, and subject and without prejudice to the legislative powers in relation to the matters aforesaid of the Governor-General of India in Council, the High Court so to be established should have and exercise all jurisdiction, and every power and authority whatsoever in any manner vested in any of the Courts in the same Presidency abolished under the said Act at the time of the abolition of such last mentioned Courts;

And whereas it was further declared by section sixteen of the said recited Act that it should be lawful for Us by Letters Patent to erect and establish a High Court of Judicature in and for any portion of territories within Our Dominions in India not included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court to consist of a Chief Justice and such number of other Judges with such qualifications as were by the same Act required in persons to be appointed to the High Courts established at the Presidencies of Fort William in Bengal of Malabar and of Bombay, as We from time to time might think fit and appoint, and that it should be lawful for Us by such Letters Patent to confer on any new High Court which might be so established any such jurisdiction powers and authority as under the same Act was authorized to be conferred on or would become vested in the High Court established in any of the said Presidencies and that subject to the directions of the Letters Patent all the provisions of the said recited Act relative to High Courts and to the Chief Justice and other Judges of such Courts and to the Governor General or Governor of the Presidency in which such High Courts were established should as far as circumstances might permit be applicable to any new High Court which might be established in the said territories and to the Chief Justice and other Judges thereof and to the Persons administering the Government of the said territories.

And whereas upon full consideration of the premises Her late Majesty Queen Victoria by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland bearing date at Westminster the Fourteenth day of May in the Twenty fifth Year of Her Reign in the year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty two did erect and establish a High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William aforesaid and did constitute that Court to be a Court of Record

And whereas Her late Majesty Queen Victoria by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland bearing date at Westminster the Twenty-eighth day of December in the Twenty ninth Year of Her Reign in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty five did revoke the said Letters Patent bearing date the Fourteenth day of May in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty two but notwithstanding that revocation did continue the said High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and declared that the Court should continue to be a Court of Record

And whereas upon full consideration of the premises Her late Majesty Queen Victoria by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland bearing date at Westminster the Seventeenth day of March in the Twenty ninth Year of Her Reign in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty six did erect and establish a High Court of Judicature for the North Western Provinces which said Court is situated at Allahabad in the Province of Agra and is now called the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad and did constitute that Court to be a Court of Record

And whereas by an Act of Parliament passed in the First and Second Years of Our Reign and called the Indian High Courts Act 1911 it was enacted amongst other things by section one that the maximum number of Judges of a High Court of Judicature in India including the Chief Justice should be twenty and by section two that Our power under section sixteen of the Indian High Courts Act 1861 might be exercised from time to time and that a High Court might be established under the said section sixteen in any portion of the territories within Our Dominions in India whether or not included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court and that where such a High Court was established in any part of such territories included within the limits of the local jurisdiction of another High Court, it should be lawful for us by Letters Patent to alter the local jurisdiction of that other High Court, and to make such incidental, consequential and supplemental provisions as might appear to be necessary by reason of the alteration of those limits:

And whereas the said-Indian High Courts Acts, 1861 and 1911, have been repealed and re-enacted by an Act of Parliament passed in the Fifth and Sixth Years of Our Reign, and called the Government of India Act, 1915:

Recital of Act 5 & 6 Geo.
5, c. 61.

And whereas certain territories formerly subject to and included within the limits of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal were, by Proclamation made by the Governor-General of India on the Twenty-second day of March in the Year of Our Lord One thousand nine hundred and twelve, constituted a separate Province, called the Province of Bihar and Orissa, and are now governed by a Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

1. Now know ye that We, upon full consideration of the premises, and of Our special grace, certain knowledge, and mere motion, have thought fit to erect and establish, and by these presents We do accordingly for Us, Our Heirs and Successors, erect and establish, for the Province of Bihar and Orissa aforesaid, with effect from the date of the Publication of these presents in the Bihar and Orissa Gazette, a High Court of Judicature, which shall be called the High Court of Judicature at Patna, and We do hereby constitute the said Court to be a Court of Record.

2. And We do hereby appoint and ordain that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall, until further or other provision be made by Us, or Our Heirs and Successors, in that behalf in accordance with section One hundred and one of the said recited Government of India Act, 1915, consist of a Chief Justice and six other Judges, the first Chief Justice being Sir Edward Maynard Des Champs Charnier, Knight, and the six other Judges being Saiyid Shurf-ud-din, Esquire, Edmund Pelly Chapman, Esquire, Basanta Kumar Mullick, Esquire, Francis Reginald 'Roe, Esquire, the Hon'ble Cecil Atkinson, and Jowala Persad, Esquire, being respectively qualified as in the said Act is declared.

3. And We do hereby ordain that the Chief Justice and every other Judge of the High Court of Judicature at Patna, previously to entering upon the execution of the duties of his office, shall make and subscribe the following declaration before such authority or person as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may commission to receive it—

"I, A B, appointed Chief Justice (or a Judge) of the High Court of Judicature at Patna, do solemnly declare that I will faithfully perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability, knowledge and judgment."

4. And We do hereby grant, ordain and appoint that the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall have, and use as occasion may require, a seal bearing a device and impression of Our Royal arms, within an exergue or label surrounding the same, with this inscription, "The Seal of the High Court at Patna." And We do further grant, ordain and appoint that the said seal shall be delivered to and kept in the custody of the Chief

Seal.

CL. 33: CONSTRUCTION AND SCOPE.—CRIMINAL CASE—LEAVE TO APPEAL—GRANT OF.—The matter of appeals to His Majesty in Council from decisions of the High Court is limited by the Letters Patent under which the High Court's jurisdiction is exercised.

While Cl. 31 of the Letters Patent refers to civil appeals, the matter of criminal appeals is dealt with by Cl. 33. The wording of Cl. 33 is very precise and must be strictly construed. Under that clause there is a right of appeal from any judgment or order or sentence made in the exercise of original criminal jurisdiction. Leave to appeal is also granted when a point or points of law have been reserved for the opinion of the High Court in the manner provided by Cl. 18. presents, by any Court which has exercised original jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the person aggrieved by such judgment, order or sentence to appeal to Us, Our Heirs or Successors in Council, provided the said High Court declares that the case is a fit one for such appeal and the appeal be made under such conditions as the said High Court may establish or require, but subject always to such rules and orders as are now in force, or may from time to time be made respecting appeals to Ourselves in Council from the Courts of the Province of Bihar and Orissa.

34. And We do further ordain that, in all cases of appeal made from any judgment, decree, order or sentence of the High

Rule as to transmission of copies of evidence and other documents.

Court of Judicature at Patna, to Us, Our Heirs or Successors in Our or Their Privy Council, such High Court shall certify and transmit, to Us, Our Heirs and Successors in Our or Their Privy Council, a true and correct copy of all evidence, proceedings, judgments, decrees and orders had or made in such cases appealed so far as the same have relation to the matters of appeal, such copies to be certified under the seal of the said High Court. And that the said High Court shall also certify and transmit to Us, Our Heirs and Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, a copy of the reasons given by the Judges of the said High Court, or by any such Judges, for or against the judgment or determination appealed against. And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall, in all cases of appeal to Us, Our Heirs or Successors, conform to and execute, or cause to be executed, such judgments and orders, as we, Our Heirs or Successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, may think fit to make in the premises, in such manner as any original judgment, decree or decretal orders, or other order or rule of the said High Court, should or might have been executed.

Exercise of jurisdiction elsewhere than at the usual place of sitting of the High Court.

35. And We do further ordain that, unless the Governor-General in Council otherwise directs, one or more Judges of the Judges to visit Orissa by way of circuit.

High Court of Judicature at Patna shall visit the Division of Orissa, by way of circuit, whenever the Chief Justice from time to time appoints, in order to exercise in respect of cases arising in that Division the Jurisdiction and power by these Our Letters Patent, or by or under the Government of India Act, 1915, vested in the said High Court: Provided always that such visits shall be made not less than four times in every year, unless the Chief Justice, with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, otherwise directs: Provided also that the said High Court shall have power from time to time to make rules, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for declaring what cases or classes of cases arising in the Division of Orissa shall be heard at Patna and not in that Division, and that the Chief Justice may, in his discretion, order that any parti-

CL. 35.—Patna High Court Rules, Ch. XXII, R. 5 and Ch. II, R. 4.—Vacation Judge.—Power to hear case arising in Orissa 130 I.C. 262=1931 P. 61. Under Cl. 35 read with R. 5 of Ch. XXII of the Rules of the High Court, the Vacation Judge has no jurisdiction to hear a matter which is required by those provisions to be heard in Orissa. The power given to the Vacation Judge by R. 4 in Chapter II of the Rules is confined to Patna as distinguished from Orissa. R. 5 cannot be read with, or as controlling R. 4 of Chapter II and therefore the discretionary power of the Chief

39 And We do further ordain that the jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal in any matter in which jurisdiction is by these presents given to the High Court of Judicature at Patna shall cease from the date of the publication of these presents and that all proceedings pending in the former Court on that date in reference to any such matter shall be transferred to the latter Court

Provided first that the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal shall continue to exercise jurisdiction—

(a) in all proceedings pending in that Court on the date of the publication of these presents in which any decree or order other than an order of an interlocutory nature, has been passed or made by that Court, or in which the validity of any such decree or order is directly in question, and

(b) in all proceedings [not being proceedings referred to in paragraph (a) of this clause] pending in that Court on the date of the publication of these presents under the 13th 15th 22nd 23rd 24th 25th, 26th 27th, 28th 29th 32nd, 33rd, 34th or 35th clause of the Letters Patent bearing date at Westminster the twenty eighth day of December, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and sixty five relating to that Court, and

(c) in all proceedings instituted in that Court on or after the date of the publication of these presents, with reference to any decree or order passed or made by that Court

Provided secondly, that if any question arises as to whether any case is covered by the first proviso to this clause, the matter shall be referred to the Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and his decision shall be final

Calls for Records, etc., by the Government

EXPLANATION—SUITS INSTITUTED—A mere claim against a company in compulsory liquidation is not by virtue of the explanation to S 3 a suit instituted within the meaning of those words in S 3 The Explanation merely enacts that in the case of a suit (i.e. a proceeding instituted by the presentation of a plaint) against a company which is being wound up by the Court the institution of such a suit is for purposes of S 3 advanced to an earlier date namely the date when the claim was first sent in to the Official Liquidator 60 I A 13=54 A 1067=1933 P C 63=64 M L J 403 (P C) A suit is instituted on the day on which the plaint is presented 27 C 814 31 C 75 even if insufficiently stamped provided the deficiency is supplied within the time allowed by Court 27 Cal 814 31 Cal 75 See also 1940 Mad 689=(1940) 1 M L J 590 1939 Mad 397 The presentation of a plaint to a Court which has no jurisdiction to try the suit cannot be said to be the institution of the suit even though the plaint has been accepted as being in order and registered But when a plaint is presented to a Court having jurisdiction and that Court accepts the plaint as being in order it must be held that the suit has been instituted Merely because at some later stage as the result of a finding on the value of the subject matter of the suit it is found that the plaint should have been presented to another Court having jurisdiction and that the plaint is returned for presentation to that Court, it does not mean that the suit has not been instituted And when a plaint has been so returned and re-presented to the Court having jurisdiction, the date of institution of the suit is the date on which the plaint was originally presented and not the date on which it was re-presented 1941

DELAY IN GETTING COPIES.—When the copy of the trial Court's judgment has been obtained before the expiry of the period of limitation, the time spent in obtaining the same cannot be added under S. 5 to the end of the period of limitation. 148 I.C. 818 (1)=1934 L. 464. Where the appeal was filed late on account of delay in getting copies and the same was due to the mistake of pleader's clerk, there is no sufficient cause to excuse delay. 21 A.L.J. 817=75 I.C. 254; 1924 A. 176; 82 I.C. 484=1925 O. 189 (1), 1932 M.W.N. 328. A Court is not bound to show indulgence to a litigant who has not been prompt in applying for copies preparatory to filing an appeal. 1923 L. 96, 24 S.L.R. 415=1931 S. 58=132 I.C. 473; 1936 O.W.N. 1109=1936 O. 9; 1936 R.D. 327, 38 P.L.R. 903=1936 Lah. 693. Where the delay was due to the appellant's ignorance of the procedure of the copying department and the consequent failure to get copies in time, held, the Court could excuse the delay. 8 O.W.N. 191=1931 O. 314. Where a person makes an application for a copy of judgment so late as within 3 days of the expiry of the period of limitation for filing an appeal and chooses to obtain it by post and gets it after the period of limitation, the delay in the transit cannot be excused and time cannot be extended under S. 5. 1942 A.W.R. 131=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 151. See also 35 I.C. 233. Where an application for leave to appeal under S. 449, Cr.P. Code, was presented out of time, and the delay was due to a mistake on the part of the jailor, held, there was sufficient cause for excusing the delay. 54 C. 52=1927 C. 307. But where delay in filing an appeal is caused by the supply of wrong information to the copying department, a person making the application is not entitled to deduction of time as of right. 155 I.C. 588=1935 N. 109. Non-availability of a copy of a decree is sufficient ground for excusing delay in filing an appeal in time. 22 I.C. 919=26 M.L.J. 356. See also 39 P.L.R. 34; 39 P.L.R. 897. The time for obtaining a copy of judgment of the first Court should be excluded. 1928 A. 416. See also 1936 L. 1007. Where there was a delay of over three months in delivering a simple judgment which at the bottom contained a note in the Judge's handwriting that it was delivered in open Court after notice, and an application to excuse the delay is filed under S. 5 in respect of an appeal against such a judgment on the ground that the party was ignorant of the date of the delivery of judgment, it was held that the delay ought to be condoned. 1940 A.M. In a case where the appellant was guilty of a certain amount of unnecessary delay, but in view of the practice of the Court which prevailed, namely, to exclude under S. 12 (2) the whole period taken in obtaining a copy of the decree, held, the appellant had "sufficient cause" for the delay, and the Court would therefore excuse the delay under S. 5. 1.L.R. (1937) Bom. 421=38 Bom. L.R. 1281=1937 Bom. 64.

DISCRETION OF COURT.—The Court under S. 5 has a discretion to excuse the delay in filing an appeal; and if it applies its mind to the question and exercises its discretion judicially after considering all the circumstances it will be acting correctly. 152 I.C. 419=11 O.W.N. 1359. The period for preferring an appeal cannot be extended simply because the appellant's case is hard and calls for sympathy, nor will the Courts extend the period of limitation merely out of benevolence to the party seeking relief. A Court granting the indulgence must be satisfied that there was diligence on the part of the appellant and that he was not guilty of any negligence whatsoever. 1.L.R. (1938) Nag. 409=1938 Nag. 156. See also 1937 Nag. 65. Where the lower appellate Court exercises a judicial discretion in such matters, High Court would not interfere in second appeal, even if it might have taken another view, had it been the lower appellate Court. 45 A. 432=21 A.L.J. 319.

A litigant is entitled to expect that the infringement of the rules and orders of the Court by the Judge should not hamper him in his appeal and if he is allowed a reasonable time within which to bring that appeal the best way of finding out what time is reasonable is to consult the relevant Article and to assume that the period prescribed will be a reasonable period. No doubt if after the expiration of that period he seeks for a further period he must then show that he has acted with due diligence. Where a Judge in appeal pronounced judgment in contravention of O 41 R 30 and the parties came to know of the delivery of judgment only a couple of months later, it was held that the aggrieved party was entitled to the full period allowed by law commencing from the date of the knowledge of the delivery of judgment.

Whatever property he holds for the idol or the institution he holds as manager with certain beneficial interests regulated by custom or usage. 157 I C 181=1935 M 483. As a general rule the high priest of a temple and a person in like position, is only the manager and custodian of the idol or the institution. In almost every case he is given the right to a part of the usufruct the mode of enjoyment and the amount of the usufruct depending again on usage and custom. The property is not conveyed to or vested in him nor is he a trustee in the English sense of the term although in view of the obligations and duties resting on him he is answerable as a trustee in the general sense for maladministration. prescribed for an appeal two periods are to be excluded. They are (1) the day on which the judgment is pronounced and (2) the time (i.e.) the days requisite for obtaining copy of the decree. These two are distinct and separate in their purpose. It cannot be contended that the day on which an application for copy is made is not a day requisite for obtaining the copy. Therefore it is clear that an appellant is entitled to a deduction of the number of days beginning with the day on which he applies for to the day on which he obtains the copy, from the number of clear days of limitation prescribed by statute. It may be that in an exceptional case, where the copy is applied for on the same day as the judgment is delivered one day happens to be excluded twice I L R (1939) Nag 185=1939 N L J 173=1939 Nag 150. The appellant applying for copies on the day on which the judgment is delivered is not entitled to exclude that day twice over 40 I C 425=13 N L R 89, 1930 N 129. See also 1922 L 170, 62 I C 649=6 P L J 350 (F B). But see 1924 L 599 where it is held that the date on which judgment is pronounced has to be excluded and then the time requisite for obtaining copies. In a suit filed on 9th May 1910 a Monday on a promissory note dated 7th May 1907 held that limitation began to run from the expiration of the 7th May 1907 and expired at 12 midnight on 7th May 1910 and hence the suit was barred by time 18 I C 574. Where appeal is filed in time as regards judgment, it is not time barred though the decree copy was applied for after expiration of limitation period 9 L R 268 (Rev)=12 R D 603. See also 13 R D 356. The period occupied by a party appealing against an order in an attempt to obtain a variation of the order and in making application to the Registrar for something which was connected with the settling of the order could not be charged against him and could be deducted by him in computing the period of limitation prescribed for the appeal 1937 P C 107=(1937) 1 M L J 702 (P C). Where an application for amendment of decree was rejected period cannot be allowed to be computed from the date of rejecting the application 113 I C 580=1928 P 260. Where a party applies for a copy of the judgment alone and sometime later applies for a copy of the decree the time required for obtaining the copy of the judgment plus the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree should be excluded provided that days on which both copies were being prepared cannot be doubly excluded from the computation of the period of limitation. TIME REQUISITE.—The time requisite in S 12 is the time beyond the appellant's control occupied in obtaining the copy which accompanies the appeal and not an ideal lesser period which might have been occupied if the application for copy had been filed at some other date. review. If however he does make an application for copy, the time taken for obtaining the same may be excluded under S 12 (2). 1933 A L J. 1631=1934 A 367. See also 41 C W N 129, where it was held that, in computing the period of limitation for an application for review of judgment on the original side of the High Court, the applicant is entitled to exclude the time between the decree and the filing thereof and also the period required for obtaining a copy of the decree, because of R 27 of Ch 16 of the High Court Rules (Calcutta). For a revision petition a copy of the judgment of the trial Court is required as a matter of practice, but that is more in the interests of the petitioner himself than an absolute necessity for the validity of the petition. A petitioner must therefore apply for both the copies simultaneously, that is to say, for the copy of the lower appellate Court's judgment and of the trial Court's judgment. If he is unable to get the trial Court's judgment within the period of limitation, he must present his revision petition with the copy of the lower appellate Court's judgment attached to it, and if he satisfies the High Court that he had applied simultaneously, ordinarily time would be given to his petition. Else, time required for trial Court's judgment is not excluded under S 12 35 P.L.R. 274=1934 Pesh. 9. See also 1935 L. 341. The amended S 29 makes S. 12 applicable to all special and local laws, but the rules of the High Court do not come under that category. Under the Patna High Court Rules, a copy of the judgment or decree is not necessary for filing a letters patent appeal, and so the time taken for obtaining a copy cannot be deducted in computing the period of limitation for a letters patent appeal (s.e., thirty days) 15 Pat L.T. 301=1934 P 353. But see also 8 B.R. 330. When it is not necessary to file a copy of the decree along with the application, the time between the judgment and the signing of the decree cannot be excluded under this section 1935 L. 341. Nor can the time spent in obtaining copy of the decree be excluded, where the copy is not filed together with the application, but has been filed in some other proceeding 1935 R. 184.

DECREE LATER THAN JUDGMENT—The "date of decree" for calculating time for appeal is the date of the judgment, but when the decree is drafted later owing to time being granted for extra Court-fee, the time given must be excluded under S. 12 (2). 25 I.C. 67. The period between the delivery of judgment and the preparation and signing of the decree would be excluded from the period of limitation prescribed for filing the appeal if the application for copy is made before the preparation of the decree 75 I.C. 265=1 P.L.R. 459. No period between the date of the judgment and the date of the decree can be deducted from the period of limitation as requisite for obtaining copies under S 12 63 I.C. 278=6 P.L.J. 237. To entitle the appellant to exclude time under S 12, it is not sufficient to say that there is no decree or order in existence of which a copy could be obtained. Any delay in obtaining a copy of the decree or order, for which delay the appellant is responsible, cannot be deducted in computing the time requisite for obtaining such copy. 61 C. 306=38 C.W.N. 702=1934 C. 543; 15 Pat L.T. 649=1934 P. 266. But see 1936 L. 976, where it was held that where a decree is not drawn up within the period of limitation prescribed for preferring an appeal against the decree, the suit must be deemed to be pending up to the date on which the decree is actually drawn up, and limitation for preferring an appeal will commence to run only from that date. [13 C. 104 (F.B.), 1 P.L.J. 573 (F.B.) and 1924 N 271, Foll.] In the case of an appeal from the Original Side, 'the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree or order, which can be excluded under S. 12 may include the period prior to an application for a copy of the order, where such application, though not made within twenty days from the date when the order was pronounced, was made before the order was formally drawn up and the delay in the drawing up of the order was not due to the laches of the party. 59 C. 1215=36 C.W.N. 469=1932 C. 331 (F.B.). The delay in signing a decree cannot entitle an appellant to His Majesty in Council to deduct the period between the signing of the judgment and of the decree in computing the period of limitation, except when the appellant has made an application prior to the signing of decree, but if no application is made, the non-signature has no effect. 57 I.C. 312=1 Pat L.T. 262. review. If however he does make an application for copy, the time taken for obtaining the same may be excluded under S. 12 (2). 1933 A.L.J. 1631=1934 A. 367. See also 41 C.W.N. 129, where it was held that, in computing the period of limitation for an application for review of judgment on the original side of the High Court, the applicant is entitled to exclude the time between the decree and the filing thereof and also the period required for obtaining a copy of the decree, because of R. 27 of Ch. 16 of the High Court Rules (Calcutta). For a revision petition a copy of the judgment of the trial Court is required as a matter of practice, but that is more in the interests of the petitioner himself than an absolute necessity for the validity of the petition. A petitioner must therefore apply for both the copies simultaneously, that is to say, for the copy of the lower appellate Court's judgment and of the trial Court's judgment. If he is unable to get the trial Court's judgment within the period of limitation, he must present his revision petition with the copy of the lower appellate Court's judgment attached to it, and if he satisfies the High Court that he had applied simultaneously, ordinarily time would be given to his petition. Else, time required for trial Court's judgment is not excluded under S. 12. 35 P.L.R. 274=1934 Pesh. 9. See also 1935 L. 341. The amended S. 29 makes S. 12 applicable to all special and local laws, but the rules of the High Court do not come under that category. Under the Patna High Court Rules, a copy of the judgment or decree is not necessary for filing a letters patent appeal, and so the time taken for obtaining a copy cannot be deducted in computing the period of limitation for a letters patent appeal (see, thirty days). 15 Pat L.T. 301=1934 P. 353. But see also 8 B.R. 330. When it is not necessary to file a copy of the decree along with the application, the time between the judgment and the signing of the decree cannot be excluded under this section. 1935 L. 341. Nor can the time spent in obtaining copy of the decree be excluded, where the copy is not filed together with the application, but has been filed in some other proceeding. 1935 R. 184.

DECREE LATER THAN JUDGMENT—The "date of decree" for calculating time for appeal is the date of the judgment, but when the decree is drafted later owing to time being granted for extra Court-fee, the time given must be excluded under S. 12 (2). 25 I.C. 67. (13 C. 104 (F.B.), 1 P.L.J. 573 (F.B.) and 1924 N. 271, Foll.] In the case of an appeal from the Original Side, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree or order, which can be excluded under S. 12 may include the period prior to an application for a copy of the order, where such application, though not made within twenty days from the date when the order was pronounced, was made before the order was formally drawn up and the delay in the drawing up of the order was not due to the laches of the party. 59 C. 1215=36 C.W.N. 469=1932 C. 331 (F.B.). The delay in signing a decree cannot entitle an appellant to His Majesty in Council to deduct the period between the signing of the judgment and of the decree in computing the period of limitation, except when the appellant has made an application prior to the signing of decree, but if no application is made, the non-signature has no effect. 57 I.C. 312=1 Pat L.T. 262. RETURN FOR WANT OF JURISDICTION—I L R (1937) Nag 291=1937 Nag 1 Time spent in prosecuting an infructuous appeal due to wrong valuation may be deducted in computing the period of limitation 50 I C 645=70 P R 1919 No litigant should be made to suffer on account of the laches or delay of the Court or its officers. The time between the date of the order of the return of a plaintiff for presentation to proper Court and the date when the plaintiff was ready to be returned is to be deducted for the purposes of limitation and the proceedings are not to be considered at an end for the purposes of S 14 Explan 1 until the endorsement is made and the plaintiff is ready for return. The plaintiff is entitled to exclude under S 14 (2) the period till the plaintiff is ready for return 41 P L R 371=1939 Lah 47 Proceedings before a Court do not terminate when the plaintiff is ordered to be returned for filing in proper Court costs being awarded to the defendant because the decree that is to be prepared requires the presence of the plaintiff on record and proceedings can only be held as terminated when the decree is signed and complete Time required for this can be excluded in computing period of limitation 1938 Pat 203 When a Court records an order that a plaintiff should be returned for presentation to the proper Court the proceedings in that Court do not necessarily come to an end on that date. Certain necessary endorsement have to be made on the plaintiff and hence that Court continues to have seisin of the plaintiff till it is actually returned to the plaintiff. Hence where a plaintiff is ordered to be returned for presentation to the proper Court, the proceedings come to an end within the meaning of S 14 Explan 1 of the Limitation Act not on the date on which the order is passed but on the date on which the plaintiff is actually returned to the plaintiff 1 I L R (1939) All 709=1939 A L J 460=1939 All 590 A plaintiff who institutes a suit on the very last date of limitation does so at his peril and the law does not make any provision for extension of time except in cases coming under S 14 A plaintiff whose plaintiff is returned by a Court on the ground that it has no jurisdiction to entertain it can only exclude the period during which it was pending in that Court i.e., the period between the date of its presentation to that Court and the date of its return by that Court for presentation to the proper Court. He can not exclude any further period which the Court returning the plaintiff gives him for such representation. A Court which has no jurisdiction to entertain the suit and which returns it on that ground has no power to grant any time to the plaintiff for presenting it to the proper Court. If the Court wrongly gives any such time by its order returning the plaintiff the plaintiff cannot take advantage of that order and claim to deduct that period also under S 14 of the Limitation Act 18 Pat L T 250=1937 Pat 495 Suit on pro note instituted in wrong Court—Plaint returned without endorsement required by O 7 R 10 C P Code—Pro note not returned with plaintiff but couple of days later—Time deductible See 1937 Lah 464 Where plaintiff was returned for want of pecuniary jurisdiction and delay is caused owing to change in law suit must for purposes of limitation be taken to have been instituted on the day of presentation in the wrong Court 35 I C 808=18 P W R 1916 The plaintiff in a suit on an unregistered mortgage was amended by scoring out the relief to sell the mortgaged property. On a question as to whether the plaintiff in such a suit could claim the benefit of S 14 it was held that the question whether the two proceedings were based upon the same cause of action or different causes of action, could not be decided upon the terms of the reliefs claimed in either proceeding and that there was no justification for holding that the proceeding on the Small Cause Court side was based upon some cause of action different from that upon which the proceeding on the regular side was founded and that hence the plaintiff would be entitled to claim the benefit of S 14 1939 A L J 1075=1940 All 145 Where a plaintiff who filed his suit at R and whose plaintiff is returned by the Court at R for presentation to proper Court at A presents an appeal against the order returning his plaintiff in the Court of the District Judge at R within the period of limitation it cannot be said that he was not prosecuting with due diligence his civil proceeding in the Court of appeal at R and the entire period spent by him in prosecuting his case in the Courts at R must be excluded under S 14 41 P L R 371=1939 Lah 47

ONUS AS TO FRAUD—Where a suit is on the face of it barred the plaintiff in the first instance to invoke the aid of S 18 must establish that there has been fraud and that by means of such fraud he has been kept from the knowledge of his right to sue or of the title whereon it is founded. Once this is established the burden is shifted on to the other side to show that the plaintiff had knowledge of the transaction beyond the period of limitation. Mere suggestions of fraud do not amount to such knowledge as is required by the section and the knowledge must be clear and definite knowledge of the facts constituting the particular fraud 36 P L R 114=1934 L 878 1 L R (1939) 2 Cal 163=43 C W N 862=1939 Cal 663. The party guilty of fraud must show that the continuing effects of fraud have been removed and then only limitation would operate 4 Pat L T 306=1923 P 435. In ordinary cases the initial burden is on the plaintiff who alleges fraud to lead evidence prima facie at any rate establishing the date of his knowledge. But if the defendant's pleadings are evasive and do not raise specifically an issue as to the date of plaintiff's knowledge, the burden of proving the date is on him 1929 A 721 (2). It is also clear that fraud antecedent to the sale may have an important bearing on the question whether there was fraud subsequent to the sale sufficient for the purpose of S 18 17 C W N 478=17 I C 972. Mere ignorance of a plaintiff of his right to sue would not prevent time from running against him, such ignorance must have been brought about by the fraud of his opponent 16 I C 547. See also 36 C W N 758=55 C L J 420. In order to constitute fraud there must be some abuse of confidential position, some intentional imposition, or some deliberate concealment of facts a designed fraud by which a party knowing to whom the right belongs conceals the facts and circumstances giving that right 36 C W N 758=55 C L J 420. Fraud—Misstatement of value of property in execution petition not fraudulent concealment 16 I C 464=16 C W N 894. For getting benefit of S 18 in setting aside an ex parte decree fraud in keeping defendant ignorant of the decree must be proved. Mere fraud in getting decree is not sufficient 57 I C 15. The party must also show that he was prevented by fraud from knowledge of his right to institute a suit or make an application. Fraud in any other connection is immaterial 2 P W R 1919=50 I C 610. Fraud—Concealment—Alienation by a sonless male proprietor—Limitation—Burden of proof 177 P L R 1912=16 I C 844. Fraud—Failure to give pre-emptor notice of sale 11 I C 313. See also 16 I C 804=32 P. R 1913. A mere omission to inform the pre-emptor or the bare fact of concealing the sale transaction from him cannot amount to a fraud but where there is an active concealment of the transaction coupled with an intention to deceive the pre-emptor there would undoubtedly be a fraud within the meaning of S 18 115 I C 798=1929 A 213. See also 180 I C 525=1938 A W R (H C) 847=1939 All 113 5 Luck 492 (P C) (held no fraud). Silence on the part of a co-sharer coming into possession of property belonging to himself and another who was ignorant of it, amounts to fraud which will save limitation 36 C W N 753=55 C L J 420. Neglect to settle accounts with the object of concealing his conduct from the principal is not fraud within this section 36 I C 418=9 I L R L T 130. Mere carelessness or negligence does not substantiate a finding of fraud 8 Pat L T 25=97 I C 798=1926 P 377. A payment within the period of limitation saves limitation provided there is an acknowledgment in writing. It does not matter even if the acknowledgment is made beyond the period of limitation as it is the payment and not the acknowledgment which saves limitation. The acknowledgment is merely a matter of evidence provided it is signed before the suit is commenced, is sufficient. 57 B. 453=35 Bom L R. 471=1933 B. 252. But a promise under S. 25, Contract Act, may be made after the period. 1928 N. 124. An acknowledgment subsequent to the period of twelve years after the execution of a mortgage but within the extra period allowed by S. 31 will not save limitation. 1929 M. 791=57 M.L.J. 353. See also 1930 M.W.N. 1930=32 L.W. 502. Though an unconditional acknowledgment has been held to imply a promise to pay, it is not by itself sufficient to constitute a "promise" within the meaning of S. 25 (3) of the Contract Act. So an acknowledgment made after the expiry of the period of limitation on the original note cannot form the basis of a suit. 1930 P. 604. suits governed by Punjab Loans Limitation Act of 1904, 1929 L. 124. There is a distinction between an acknowledgment of a right to an account and an acknowledgment of a debt. For an acknowledgment of a right to an account there need not be an acknowledgment that a debt or even a specified amount thereof is actually due. Where the parties in effect state that there is a right to a pending account between them and each has got a claim to recover the balance which may be found due on the accounts being looked into by certain arbitrators and each agrees to pay the other the balance so found due, there is a sufficient acknowledgment of a right to an account. 169 I.C. 340=1936 M.W.N. 998=1937 Mad. 38. An acknowledgment falling under S. 19, need not necessarily be a stamped acknowledgment falling under Sch. I, Art 1 of the Stamp Act. The latter must be written with the intention of supplying evidence of the debt, whereas a document containing an admission of liability, such as a letter reciting a settlement of accounts, would save limitation under S. 19, though not stamped. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 695=20 N.L.J. 276=1938 Nag. 51. A document as an acknowledgment under S. 19 cannot operate to save limitation unless it has been executed within time, also in such a case the suit must be found on the original cause of action. The document itself cannot be used as the basis of the suit. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 441=1938 Nag. 180. A subsequent acknowledgment containing clearly a promise to pay the balance due on a promissory note can be the basis of a suit, even though the original promissory note is not admissible in evidence. (1938 Lah. 503, Rel. on). 40 P.L.R. 801=1938 Lah. 505. Where acknowledgment implies a promise to pay, a suit can be brought on the basis of such acknowledgment considered as an agreement provided consideration is proved. Where a suit is brought on such basis, the plaintiff must be taken to allege a valid agreement and if the defendant does not plead lack of consideration, then consideration must be taken to have been proved. SIGNED MEANING OF—If upon a document which purports to be an acknowledgment of liability, there appears the name of the debtor, and that name is introduced under his authority with a view to authenticate the document such document is a valid acknowledgment of his liability. It is not necessary that the debtor's name should be written by himself. It is sufficient if it is written by a person acting with authority to write his name and to acknowledge the debt in question. That would constitute his "signature" for the purposes of S 19. It does not make any difference whether the debtor is literate or illiterate. The section makes no difference between a literate and an illiterate person. If the debtor's name is introduced into the document of acknowledgment in such a way as to show that the acknowledgment was intended to be his own the name whether written or printed would constitute his signature under S 19. Where a letter of acknowledgment is written by a third party at the instance of and on the instructions given by the debtor, and the debtor causes the letter to be posted to the address of the creditor, such letter constitutes a valid acknowledgment of liability under S 19. 18 Pat 715=20 Pat L T 927=1940 Pat 6.

Sec. 19, Expl. 1.—Expl. 1 to S. 19 is very wide in its scope. Under it, admissions, however indirect, and even if accompanied by a refusal to pay, constitute sufficient acknowledgment. In answer to a letter by the creditor to the debtor stating the amount due to him, the debtor's secretary sent a letter by post reciting that he had been directed to intimate to the creditor by the debtor that all the arrears of accounts would be paid in a particular month. Held, that it was a sufficient acknowledgment of the debt 11 O.W.N. 880 A reply by a mortgagor to a notice of demand by the mortgagee, stating that under a usufructuary mortgage executed by him to a third person, he has directed the latter to pay off the debt, and that the mortgagee should receive payment of the debt from that third person, that the mortgagee was mistaken in demanding payment from the mortgagor and that he the mortgagor, will not be liable for any Court costs or damages claimed by the mortgagee, constitutes a sufficient acknowledgment to save limitation under S. 19. 44 L.W. 362=1936 M. 943=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 24 According to explanation 1 to S. 19, it is not necessary that the writing itself should specify the exact nature of the property or right in respect of which liability is acknowledged and there is no bar to extrinsic evidence being admitted for the purpose 1934 L. 835 An application made by the judgment debtor alleging that the matter had been settled, that in consequence of a part payment the decree holder had agreed in his letter not to take out execution before the end of the next year and praying that the original letter of the decree holder may be placed on the record is in substance an admission by him that he still owes something to the decree holder for which he has obtained a respite, it amounts to an acknowledgment of liability giving a fresh starting point of limitation 55 A. 393=1933 A 364

Secs. 19 and 20—Ss. 19 and 20 are independent of each other. There may be an acknowledgment of liability, which comes within S. 19 unaccompanied by any part-payment, or there might be an acknowledgment of liability coupled with a part payment which fulfils the requirements of S. 20 in which case, the debt is saved from limitation both under S. 19 and S. 20, but if there is a part payment which does not comply with the terms of S. 20, that cannot prevent the enforcement from operating as an acknowledgment within S. 19. 41 Bom.L.R. 455=1929 B. 212 In S. 19 the acknowledgment is to be made by the party against whom the right is claimed. In S. 20 however no such restriction is found. The reason for this distinction apparently is, that a knowledge is a mere admission of right, whereas payment is more than a mere admission of right. The effect of an acknowledgment in S 19 is more restricted and in general it only affects the person giving it. But payment under S 20 affects not only the person making the payment but also other persons who are liable 1938 Cal 129=66 C L J 104=42 C W N 18. See also 54 L W 579=(1941) 2 M L J 913. There is a fundamental difference between Ss 19 and 20. Under S 20 all that is necessary is that an acknowledgment of the payment should appear in the handwriting of or be signed by the person, making the payment. But that is not enough under S 19 1940 N L J 44=1940 Nag 354. When there is a bond or note under which a considerable sum is due and the debtor makes towards that bond a payment which is clearly less than the balance due accompanying the payment with an endorsement to the effect that it is towards the debt in the bond or towards the note it is legitimate to read the words of that endorsement together with the substance of the document upon which the indorsement is made and infer from the circumstances the fact that the writing of this endorsement is an acknowledgment of the subsistence of the debt after the payment endorsed although such a payment being an open payment or unappropriated payment cannot avail the creditor under S 20 of the Limitation Act as a payment towards interest as such or towards principal saving limitation 54 L express repudiation, by a letter of the plain W 624=(1941) 2 M L J 848. Party confining his case in the trial Court to S 20—Appeal—New case under S 19 if can be raised. See 1937 Oudh 391. There is a fundamental difference in the theory of acknowledgment according to the law in India as compared with the law in England. In England the acknowledgments or part payments to be effective must amount to a fresh promise to pay. Under Indian law no promise to pay either express or implied is required. The English authorities cannot therefore afford any guidance. The difference in language used in Ss 19 and 20 is not merely accidental 8 O W N 1160. Money spent on the obseques of the father of the minor cannot be deemed to be necessary supplied to the minor within the meaning of S 68 of the Contract Act and as such an acknowledgment by the mother as the guardian of a debt borrowed for the above purpose is not binding on the minor 10 O W N 188=1933 O 132. S 20 does not require unlike S 19 that interest or part of the principal should be paid by the party against whom the debt or legacy is claimed or by the person through whom he derives title or liability but enacts simply that a fresh period of limitation shall be computed where interest or part of the principal has been paid by the person liable to pay or by the debtor. The right of suit is saved in its integrity against all the persons who might have been sued within the prescribed period. A payment and endorsement by a mortgagor who has parted with the mortgaged property but is personally liable to pay on his covenant would therefore save limitation against the prior purchaser of the equity of redemption 54 L W 579=(1941) 2 M L J 913. See also 42 C W N 18=1938 Cal 129.

Explanation I—For the purposes of this section an acknowledgment may be sufficient though it omits to specify the exact nature of the property or right or avers that the time for payment, delivery, performance or enjoyment has not yet come, or is accompanied by a refusal to pay, deliver, perform or permit to enjoy, or is coupled with a claim to a set off, or is addressed to a person other than the person entitled to the property or right.

Explanation II—For the purposes of this section, "signed" means signed either personally or by an agent duly authorized in this behalf.

Explanation III—For the purposes of this section, an application for the execution of a decree or order is an application in respect of a right.

Secs 19 and 21—The wife could not be deemed to be an agent duly authorised in this behalf and that the acknowledgment made by her could not save limitation 56 M 964=65 M L J 355.

Sec 20. SCOPE OF SECTION—The amendment to S 20 by Act I of 1927 has made it less stringent either there should be an endorsement in the handwriting of the person making the payment though unsigned or the writing should be signed by him though not in his handwriting 68 M L J 63. Under the present law all that is necessary is that the endorsement should have been signed by the person making the payment. It is quite unnecessary that the whole endorsement should have been written by the person making the payment 181 I C 393=1939 Rang 112. A payment under S 20 in order to save limitation must be a con scious Act. 37 I.C. 756=32 M.L.J. 317. See also 152 I.C. 501=1934 R. 287. Under the English Law there is a distinction between secured and unsecured debts as regards the saving of limitation by payments. But S. 20 contemplates debts of all kinds. Part-payment of principal or interest saves from limitation a debt whether secured or unsecured, under the Indian Law. 66 C. L.J. 104=42 C.W.N. 18=1938 Cal. 129. S. 20 has no concern with suit or an instalment bond which is governed by Art. 75 according to which the terminus quo is not the date of the payment but the date of non-payment in accordance with the stipulation of the contract. 130 I.C. 571=1931 C. 157. A statement of payment made in writing by the payer after the expiry of the original period of limitation is a sufficient compliance with S. 20 if the payment itself was made within that period. 19 N.L.R. 6=1923 N. 117. See also 1929 M. 432; 1937 Cal. 284. A cheque proved to be signed by a debtor and given by him in payment, which has been accepted by the creditor and duly honoured by the bank drawn on, would amount to an acknowledgment of payment within the meaning of the proviso to S. 20 1941 Rang. 344. S. 20 of the Act does not apply to payment of interest made beyond the period of limitation and such payments cannot operate to extend the period of limitation. 37 Bom.L.R. 165. The written statement is merely evidence of the fact and date of payment, and it is fact of payment that extends the period and it is the date of payment from which it is extended. But where, without there being a bare naked payment, the debtor expressly states in a letter that the payment is in full discharge, though as a matter of fact something more is found due, far from its amounting to an admission of right, there is an unequivocal denial of it. Such a payment will not have the effect under S. 20 of removing the statutory bar. 41 L.W. 747=1935 M. 371 =68 M.L.J. 73. Payment of part of debt "without prejudice" does not prevent extension of time under this section. 17 L. 737 =1936 L. 629. A written statement filed in a suit which recites payment cannot be called in aid under S. 20 for the purpose of that suit itself. 39 C.W.N. 139=1935 C. 255. Cl. Under S. 20 it does not matter in the least when the endorsement on the document was made, so long as the payment itself was made within the period of limitation, and the date to be looked at is not the date on which the endorsement is written, but the date on which the payment is made, 181 I.C. 765=11 R.R. 485=1939 Rang. 118. See also 8 Cut L.T. 1. The expression "the person liable to pay the debt" is not the same thing as "a person liable to pay the debt" where there is joint liability. APPROPRIATION.—See 16 Luck 113=1941 Oudh 56 A plaintiff wishing to avail S 20 has in the case of an 'open' payment to prove that he appropriated the sum towards the principal debt before the expiry of the period of limitation for a suit on the document in question Though the writing evidencing the payment may come into existence at any time the creditor's act of appropriation of the payment to the principal debt, is a very different matter The language of S 20 cannot be regarded as satisfied unless within the prescribed period the creditor has in the exercise of his right done something which treats the payment as made on account of principal To evidence a definite appropriation to the principal debt made by the creditor within the prescribed period the manner in which the payment has been dealt with by the creditor in his own books of account will ordinarily be sufficient But if it be true that until after the expiry of the prescribed period the creditor has treated the sum as paid on account of interest or has not done anything to treat it as paid on account of principal then under the amended S 20 Limitation Act part payment of principal has not been established 67 I A 160=I L R (1940) L 470=44 C W N 625=71 C L J 444=42 Bom L R 640=1940 A L J 639=1940 P C 63=(1940) 1 M L J 89 (P C) Under S 20 the following propositions dealing with various aspects of part payments by the debtor can be laid down— (1) If it is claimed that the debtor has made a payment towards interest this can only save limitation if it is shown that interest was paid by the debtor as such, that is to say the intention of the debtor must be shown to have been that the payment should go towards interest (a) It is however not necessary that this intention should have been made clear at the time of the payment, (b) It may be proved not only by statements made by the debtor at the time of payment but in any other manner as may clearly appear from the circumstances (2) If the debtor at the time of payment specifies that the payment was towards principal this would obviously save limitation (3) If however the debtor makes an "open payment, that is a payment without appropriation by him (debtor) either towards interest or in part payment of the principal the creditor may appropriate it towards principal or interest (a) If the creditor appropriates it towards interest, limitation will not be saved because the payment is not made as such (b) If however the creditor appropriates the payment towards part payment of the principal limitation will be saved provided the appropriation is made before expiry of limitation Such appropriation need not be made at once but it must be made before the limitation has expired (c) If the appropriation is once made by the creditor towards interest, he cannot transfer it subsequently towards principal (4) If the payment made is a sum larger than the amount due at the time of payment as interest, a part of it will necessarily be presumed to have been made towards the principal and, therefore, this payment will save limitation (5) If the debt does not bear interest, the payment again must necessarily be in part payment of the principal and, therefore, limitation will be extended under S 20 47 P L R 63=1940 La 513 1940 A L J 332=1940 All 133 15 L W 573=1940 O W N 64=1940 O W N 120 1938 La 34 1937 La 27 1941 A M L J 176 1933 P L R 1=1934 P L R 280 8 C L T 1 1940 La 17=42 P L R 133 Where money is paid by a

Cases are easily conceivable in which a debtor may pay a certain amount in part satisfaction of what is due from him without caring to specify that the sum is to be appropriated towards interest or principal. In such a case, whether the payment was of interest or principal would depend on the manner in which the creditor exercises his option. If he treats it as payment of interest, it becomes a payment of interest and cannot be subsequently converted into payment of principal only because it is for the benefit of the creditor that he should reconsider his petition as regards payment. 1935 A.L.J. 23=1935 A. 47. It cannot be inferred that he paid interest as such from the fact that at the time of the payment interest in excess of the amount paid is due. 1935 A.L.J. 23=1935 A. 47. The effect of the proviso inserted to sub-S. (1) of S. 20 by the Amending Act of 1927 was to remove the distinction between the two kinds of payments as to all payments made after the 1st day of January, 1928. Though as to payments made before that date the words "as such" in the 1st part of the sub section have some significance, because they make it clear that in the case of a payment towards interest which is not required to be evidenced by writing it should be clear that the payment was in fact towards interest and not left as a matter of doubt, those words are not material and have no significance as to payments made after that date. 16 Pat. 294=174 I. C. 100=18 Pat. L. T. 563=1938 Pat. 183. After the 1st of January, 1928, it is a matter of complete indifference whether the payment is of interest or principal or both so long as it is a payment relating to the debt. So where a debtor makes a payment and acknowledges it in his own handwriting that it is in respect of the debt, but does not specify whether it is towards principal or interest, the acknowledgment gives a fresh period of limitation under S. 20 of the Limitation Act. If the acknowledgment is merely of a payment without identifying the debt, it would not be sufficient. Under the amended section it is unnecessary to prove that the payment was towards interest. The carrying forward of a balance including certain items of interest does not amount to payment of interest within the meaning of S. 20. The effect of a payment of interest must be to lessen the defendant's liability on that account. 152 I. C. 319=1934 N. 219. Payment of interest saves limitation even though a part of the principal is paid at the same time. 1923 M.W.N. 564 (1)=1924 M. 123. A purchaser of mortgaged property at a Court auction, is a person "liable to pay the mortgage debt" within S. 20 and therefore if he pays into Court a sum equal to the amount due for costs and an excess equal to the amount of interest, the excess must be regarded as payment on account of interest as such. 44 M. 544=40 M.L.J. 218. Question whether payment of interest was as such is one of fact and cannot be raised in second appeal. 59 I. C. 709. An intention to pay interest as such ought not to be inferred merely from the creditor's appropriating payments in accordance with his legal power. But if the method of appropriation is determined at the outset by express contract between the parties, specific appropriation is not necessary. 19 I. C. 849=9 N.L.R. 78. The mere appropriation by the creditor of the payments to interest is not such an indication. 19 I. C. 825, 1927 M. 110=98 I. C. 281. See also 1929 M. 811. But when the debtor consents to such appropriation, it is to be assumed to be a payment on account of interest as such within the meaning of S. 20. 16 P. 27=18 P.L.T. 309. PAYMENT BY WHOM—AUTHORITY TO PAY

—S 20 does not limit the extended period to the person who really makes payment, and the payment of interest by one of the debtors will give an extended period of limitation to the debt in respect of which the payment is made. If the debt is one, and indivisible, payment by one will interest limitation against all the debtors unless they can come within the exception laid down in S 21. 1917 C 191. But if the debt is susceptible of division and though seemingly one consists really of several distinct debts, each one of which is payable by one of the debtors separately and not by the rest S 20 will keep alive that debt or rather the portion of the debt which has got to be discharged by the person who has made payment of interest. It cannot affect the separate shares of the other debtors unless on the principle of agency, express or implied, the payment can be said to be a payment on their behalf also. 1937 Cal 191. The authority referred to in S 20 is an authority to make the payments, authority to make endorsement unnecessary. 1927 M. 959=53 M L J 555. A payment of interest (in respect of a mortgage debt) saves time not only against persons paying but also against the subsequent purchasers of the equity of redemption or subsequent mortgagees. 41 A 111=47 I C 845, 44 C L J 475=98 I C 331=1927 C 193. See also 140 I C 145 (P). The burden lies upon the plaintiff to prove that payment of interest was made either by the debtor or by his duly authorised agent. 23 I C 863. See also 54 I C 802. As to payment by authorized agent see 3 L L J 250, (1940) 2 M L J 369, (1940) 2 M L J 726. Under S 20 the authority of the agent may even be implied from the facts and circumstances of the loan. The section does not require any formal authorisation. 73 C L J 356=1941 Cal 613. See also 1941 A M L J 63. Leach C J and Kung J Palanjoli Sastri, J dissenting.—Where a mortgagee undertakes as a part of the consideration for the mortgage to discharge a debt due by the mortgagor he cannot be deemed to have authority to make a payment of interest or a part payment of principal for purposes of S 20. Whether there is authority to make a part payment is a question of fact. Of course if the person who is to make the payment is left a discretion in the matter, his principal will have to suffer the consequences of a payment to account if the conditions of S 20 for the saving of limitation are also complied with. Where the mortgagee is directed to pay in full the debt due by the mortgagor, it cannot be said that there is any discretion left to the mortgagee in the matter. His duty is to discharge the debt in full and he has no authority to do anything else. If he makes only a part payment that will not bind the mortgagor and cannot save limitation for a suit against the mortgagor. I L R (1941) Mad 191=1941 Mad 67 (2)=(1941) 1 M L J 77 (F

On this proviso see also 1932 A L J 1035. S 20 (1) does not say anything at all about the origin of the money with which the part payment is made. It is quite sufficient if a part payment is made and it is made by a person who is authorised to make it. Where two debtors are equally liable jointly and severally on a promissory note and when both of them are pressed for payment one of them makes the payment with the consent of the other, the payment saves limitation against both. 40 L W

ARTICULARS.—S 22 does not apply to cases where pro forma defendants are made plaintiffs. 14 I C 445=81 P R 1912 139 I C 535=13 Pat 1 T 392. Nor where in a suit by the manager of a joint Hindu family the other members of the family are brought on record by amendment of the plaint. (12 B 158, 1011) 35 Bom L R 327=55 B 349=1934 B 178. This principle applies even where the suit is not by the manager but only by a member. 1937 L 193. Where a suit is originally brought against the defendants as members of a joint undivided family and subsequently the plaintiff was allowed to amend his plaint by adding an alternative claim against them as partners there is no change in the 'personae' of the parties but only a change in the basis on which the same parties were sought to be held liable and with reference to them they cannot be deemed to be newly added under S 22. 33 Bom L R 1385=1931 B 590. Where in a suit on a promissory note signed by a person on his own behalf and as guardian of a minor only relief against the assets of the minor in the guardian's hands was asked for. But subsequently an amendment claiming relief against the guardian personally was allowed. Held that the effect of the amendment was not to add a new person as defendant but to alter the ground on which a person already a defendant was to be held liable. Consequently once the amendment was allowed S 22 did not apply. 154 I C 582=1935 M 160. S 22 (1) will not apply where a defendant who was made such by the plaintiff at the time of the institution of the suit is transferred in that suit as co plaintiff. 90 I C 82. The section applies even to cases where a person is added as a party at the instance of the Court under O 1 R 10. 79 I C 914. 6 R 29 (P C). The effect of striking off a person's name from the array of the defendants even if it is made under a mistake is that the suit so far as he is concerned comes to an end. If his name is added at a later date a new suit must be regarded as having been brought against him and if such is not brought within time it is barred by limitation. 199 I C 196. S 22 governs suits and not applications for a substitution of legal representative. 49
